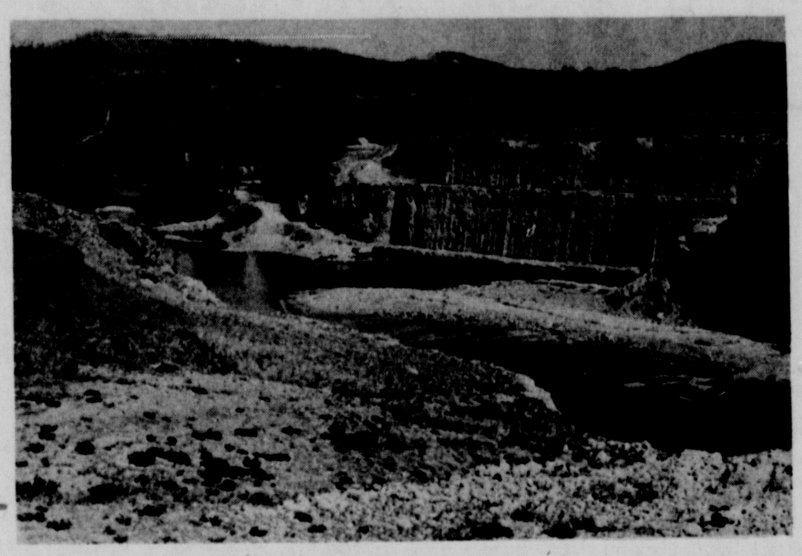
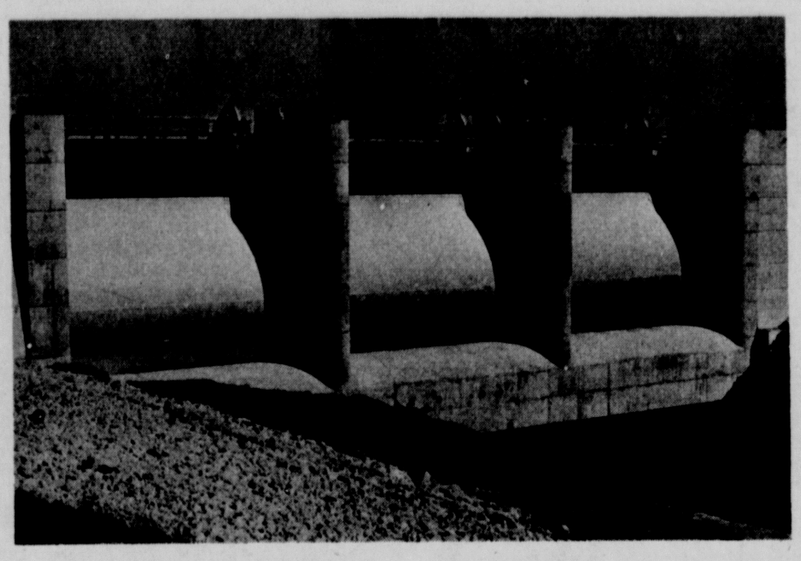
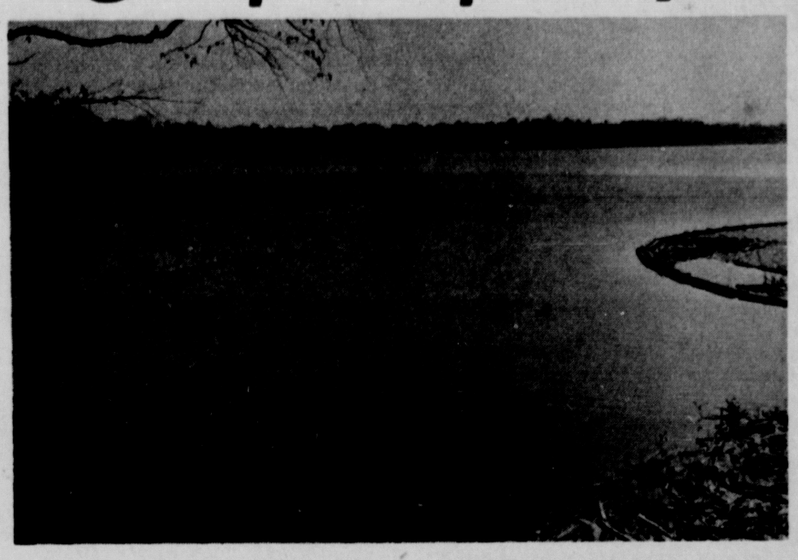
New Paint Creek reservoir filling up rapidly







WATER LEVEL RISING — Water is slowly reaching its appointed depth at the Paint Creek reservoir south of Greenfield. The dam is backing up the normal flow of Paint Creek, creating a 1,200-acre lake. At the right, the reservoir is still about 10 feet from its planned depth. It will provide recreational facilities for vacationers and visitors, including swimming and boating. Pictured at the left is the muddy bed of Paint Creek behind the dam. It will remain in its thirsty state until the water level is high enough to flow through the dam's three flood gates. The reservoir project is expected to cost more than $20 million before its completion, but it will provide the area with recreational and camping facilities as well as flood control.

GREENFIELD — Flooding of the new Paint Creek Lake and the formation of a major reservoir is virtually complete and the project will soon become a new point of interest in addition to an area recreational complex.

The project is really quite impressive for the average visitor. The gigantic flood control structures and recreational facilities are situated in the shadow of the picturesque and heavily-wooded hills of Ross County, south of Greenfield.

The Paint Creek project, which straddles the Highland-Ross county line, was basically designed as a flood control measure, but like all others constructed in Ohio it will have a number of recreational features.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Huntington, W. Va., has completed most of its basic recreational projects, with a $1 million contract to be offered soon to finish the corps' four-year program.

The state had originally planned to add some recreational facilities of its own and take over this phase, but experienced funding problems. It is believed the state will launch its improvements within the 1975 fiscal year.

MEANWHILE, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will manage and supervise its facilities.

These include a 199-unit camp site on Taylor Road, just off Rapid Forge Road, two boat-launching ramp sites, plus overlooks, parking areas and restroom and laundry projects.

The Corps of Engineers will have one ranger and boat on the completed lake this year. The Corps also will operate the camping area with vacationing college students. The Corps will have one park supervisor and an assistant as permanent personnel. Residences for the supervisor and assistant and a headquarters building, plus picnic and recreation area, are included in the upcoming $1 million bidding.

No horsepower limit has been established for the new 1,200-acre lake. The Corps of Engineers and the state will jointly decide that matter.

AT THE PRESENT planned elevation of 789 feet above sea level, the pool will reach within three miles of Greenfield from the south.

Demands from Greenfield leaders to raise the pool level of the lake to bring it closer to the village stand little chance of approval, according to Robert Sheldon, resident project engineer.

Sheldon indicated the flood control structures built into the project would be damaged, along with planned recreational facilities, if the level were to be raised. He said the level of Paint Creek at Greenfield is 820 feet, or 22

Impeachment counts may be trimmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the House Judiciary Committee today recommended dropping a number of impeachment charges against President Nixon and said the committee should concentrate on Watergate, Nixon's taxes and contributions to his re-election campaign.

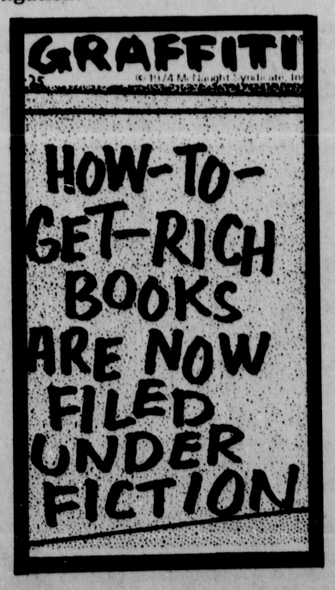
The report, if accepted, would be the basis for the presentation of evidence to the committee, which is scheduled to begin May 7.

Most of the charges that would be dropped under the recommendation relate to allegations of White House use of executive agencies for political purposes.

Also to be laid aside under the staff's recommendation were charges relating to the impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress, the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and, conditionally, the secret bombing of Cambodia.

A final decision on the bombing charges is to be made after release of a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing record on the issue.

If accepted by the committee, the recommendation would focus the impeachment inquiry on areas where the staff believes documentary evidence is available to aid its investigation.



Troops overturn Portugal regime

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Armed troops seized radio and television stations in Lisbon early today, and word reaching the British Foreign Office said they claimed to have won power from the regime of Premier Marcello Caetano.

The rebels, styling themselves "The National Junta of Salvation," pledged to work for the restoration of civil and democratic rights in Portugal, work for peace in Portugal's African territories and run the country transitionally pending national elections for a constitution-writing assembly.

Reports reaching Madrid said the rebel movement had taken control of the government without resistance anywhere in Portugal.

The reports said rebel tanks besieged the army ministry in downtown Lisbon and that four ministers—those of the interior, army, navy and air force—who had taken refuge in the building managed to slip away through a hole they made in the wall.

The reports said government troops refused to obey their commander when he ordered them to open tank fire on rebellious troops in the center of Lisbon.

Reports said the revolt had the support of 29 regiments and that most of the leaders were young majors and captains.

Moving swiftly in the predawn darkness and benfiting by surprise the rebels took over the studios of Emissora National, the national radio station, the studio of the Portuguese radio and television, and the studio of a private radio station, Radio Clube Portugues in the city proper.

Others in the coup apparently seized a transmitter of Radio Clube Portugues about 30 miles southeast of Lisbon on the other side of the Tagus River.

Shortly after the seziure the armed groups began broadcasting from Radio Clube, urging troops and national guardsmen and police to avoid bloodshed and urging the populace to remain at home.

The broadcast said that a "military movement" under the leadership of the armed forces was liberating Portugal from its present regime.

Activity throughout the city appeared generally normal. Despite the appeals to stay at home, traffic appeared as dense as ever, streetcars and buses were operating, and most of the shops were open.

However, banks were closed, and fewer people appeared on sidewalks.

Lisbon airport was closed, and no ships were permitted to leave Lisbon harbor.

Nixon will give Mississippi talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon returns today to Mississippi, where a year ago he adopted a phrase that came to be associated with his postWatergate stance: "tough it out."

Accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, the state's two Democratic senators and a bipartisan congressional delegation, Nixon was flying to Jackson to address the Mississippi Economic Council.

Last April 27, Nixon flew to Meridian, Miss., to pay tribute to Democratic Sen. John C. Stennis, who in introducing Nixon urged that the President "tough it out" in the face of the unfolding Watergate scandal.

Nixon, in his own speech, applauded Mississippians for having "the ability and the will and the desire to tough it out."

The 1973 trip to Mississippi marked the last of many flights aboard Air Force One for presidential aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. They were forced to resign three days later.

The White House said Nixon was invited last July to appear before the economic council, a statewide chamber of commerce group, in a Jackson coliseum holding up to 10,000 spectators.

Nixon agreed to appear at the urging of Stennis and Democratic Sen. James O. Eastland, according to the White House.

Red forces tighten net

PHNOM PENH, Cambodian (AP) — Insurgent forces hammered away at beseiged Longvek, killing three government soldiers and wounding 10 in an all-night attack, the Cambodian military command reported.

C47 gunships and artillery strafed and blasted Khmer Rouge positions around the camp 25 miles from Phnom Penh. It has been under heavy pressure since the government beachhead at Kompong Luong, two miles away on the Tonle Sap river, was overrun last weekend and the insurgents blockaded the river with mines and cables.

About 2,500 troops are trapped at Longvek, which is surrounded by miles of Khmer Rouge territory.

Deer Creek plans face competition

Deer Creek or Caesar Creek?

That's the basic question that faced representatives of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce after meeting with William B. Nye, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Wednesday in pursuit of expansion at Deer Creek State Park.

Results from Wednesday's meeting with Nye and representatives from the Ohio Department of Natural Resources recreation planning division indicated that either Deer Creek or Caesar Creek State Park will be the third of three state park expansions that the department will recommend for development to the Ohio Legislature.

Representatives from the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce and delegations from the New Holland, Mount Sterling, Circleville and Columbus Chambers of Commerce questioned Nye and his associates in a session that spanned one and a half hours in the director's Columbus office.

NYE INDICATED that expansion and development of Kelley's Island, near Port Clinton, and the West Branch Reservoir, located in the Toledo area, are definite recommendations along with Deer Creek or Caesar's Creek to constitute the third choice that would serve central Ohio area citizens.

Many favorable factors for the Deer Creek site were raised during the session, although Nye indicated that members of the Ohio General

Wilmington officer charged in slaying

WILMINGTON — A wilmington police officer has been charged with aggravated murder in connection with the shooting death of a 22-year-old Martinsville man late Monday.

Wilmington Police Chief Thomas E. White in a prepared statement said Dale A. Powell, 26, of Wilmington, a member of the city's police department for the past 26 months, has been charged in connection with the shotgun slaying of Randall Goldie, 22, of Martinsville.

Goldie, who along with two other persons operated a "head shop" dealing with drug-like paraphernalia in Wilmington, was shot four times at close range with a .12-gauge shotgun last Monday, police said.

Police found the victim's riddled body in his late model sports car in a restaurant parking lot on the west side of Wilmington after nearby residents reported hearing gunfire.

CHIEF WHITE termed it the worst ambush killing he has investigated during his 20 years as a lawman.

Manwhile, Powell has been suspended from the Wilmington Police Department, pending final disposition of the aggravated murder charge.

Wilmington police said the former patrolman is presently in custody, but would not disclose the location.

Powell, married and the father of two young children, is a veteran of the Vietnam war and a graduate of Blanchester High School.

Funeral services for Goldie were held at 2 p.m. today in the Fisher Funeral Home, Wilmington, with burial in Sugar Grove Cemetery.

Jury receives Vesco matter

NEW YORK (AP) — The fate of John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans, described by the government as men who sat at the head of government and thought "they were above the law," goes into the hands of the jury today.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi planned to instruct the panel of nine men and three women as soon as Asst. U.S. Atty. John Wing concluded the final 90 minutes of his summation of the government's case against the first present or former Cabinet officers to face criminal charges in half a century.

For nearly four hours Wednesday, Wing summed up the government's contention that Mitchell, former attorney general, and Stans, one-time commerce secretary, conspired to obstruct a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco in return for his secret $200,000 cash donation to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Stans and Mitchell, handpicked by Nixon to run his reelection, also were charged in the 10-week trial with perjury.

"What this case involves is telling the truth," Wing said as he opened his summation. "What this case is about, in part, is political influence on justice, an attempt to use political influence to impede justice."

Mitchell's lawyer, Peter Fleming Jr., whose own lengthy summation preceded the government's, characterized the case against the former cabinet members as "a prosecutorial vision — a vision that they set out to give life to.

Groups to decorate downtown tree boxes

Beautification contest launched

Twelve Fayette County organizations have entered a contest to decorate the tree boxes in the downtown Washington C.H. area.

Mrs. Martha Reiff, chairman of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's downtown beautification committee which is sponsoring the contest, said the purpose of the event is to create more civic interest here and to keep the decorative tree boxes clean of debris.

There are a total of 26 tree boxes along Court Street in downtown Washington C.H. and each of the organizations will be responsible for planting flowers in the boxes for the contest.

Five tree boxes have not yet been chosen by Fayette County organizations and anyone interested in decorating one in the contest is urged to contact Mrs. Reiff.

The contest will open after May 15 and the decorating project will be judged in August. A trophy and a cash prize will be awarded by the beautification committee.

Those already entered in the contest are the Twenty Club, Ellen's Green Thumb, the Fayette County Community Action Commission, the Washington Garden Club, the Gradale Sorority, Mari-Lee florists, the Welcome Wagon Club, the Carriage Shop, Risch's Drug Store, the Will-O-Wave Beauty Salon, Ander's Greenhouse and the Mother's Circle.

Mrs. Reiff said plans are presently progressing by the Downtown Merchants Association to purchase trash disposal units which match the tree boxes.

Rhodes, Brown speakers at GOP rally here

The rally featured addresses by Ohio Lt. Gov. John W. Brown and former Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes.

A number of other Republican candidates seeking the party's nomination at the May 7 primary election were introduced and spoke briefly.

Lt. Gov. Brown, a candidate to succeed himself who served as master of ceremonies at the rally, reported to the audience what he called "good news" and "bad news."

The good news came first with Brown explaining the House Judiciary Committee has decided to drop 50 per cent of the charges against President Nixon promoting his impeachment.

Brown listed the bad news as some Republicans desiring to change their party affiliation in order to cast Democratic votes. He also stated "it is too bad America had to wait for a Canadian named Sinclair to tell Americans what they and their great country stood for, and "Pravda," a Communist newspaper defending President Nixon when the American press would not.

FORMER Gov. Rhodes, who seeks another term, accused the present governor of Ohio, John J. Gilligan, of "Mismanagement" during his term in everything from $20 million allegedly misused in the food stamp program to missing election funds which he said were never accounted for, unemployment, illegal expenditures of tax monies for food and liquor.

Rhodes ended his talk with, "In the Republican Party, we can do three things: lead, follow or get the hell out of

Patty renounces family, fiance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — And now this from Patricia Hearst: my parents are "pigs," my fiance a "clown." And "I am a soldier of the people's army" who voluntarily robbed a bank.

Speaking in a calm, subdued voice in a taped message received Wednesday, Miss Hearst said "Greetings ... This is Tania." She then proceeded to heap scorn and ridicule on her family, said she never cared if she saw her "sexist pig" fiance again, and added:

"To those people who still believe that I'm brainwashed or dead, I see no reason to further defend my position. I am a soldier of the people's army.

"The only way we can free ourselves of this fascist dictatorship is by fighting — not with words but with guns."

In the tape, the 20-year-old college coed called her parents "the pig Hearsts," and at one point addressed her father as "Adolf," an apparent reference to Nazi leader Adolph Hitler. She termed Steven Weed, to whom she became engaged last December and planned to marry in June, "my ex-fiance."

Her father, San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, confirmed the voice was his daughter's, and added:

"The only good thing is that she is alive. Regarding her personal attacks on me, if she has been brainwashed, and I firmly believe she has, then it's not surprising she would say something like this.

"No matter what she says, we still love her. The girl we've known all her life would not say something like that of her own free will."

Miss Hearst, whom the Symbionese Liberation Army claims to have kidnaped on Feb. 4, said in the tape she was a voluntary participant in an April 15 bank robbery in which four alleged members of the SLA have been named in warrants. She is wanted as a material witness. Of that robbery, which she called "a revolutionary act," she said:

"I was positioned so that I could hold customers and bank personnel who were on the floor. My gun was loaded and at no time did any of my comrades intentionally point their guns at me."

Pictures taken of the $10,600 robbery at the Hibernia Bank in San Francisco showed two of the armed participants with guns pointed in the direction of Miss Hearst, who was standing in the middle of the bank, a rifle around her shoulder, her hand in her pocket.

In the tape, Miss Hearst dismissed suggestions that she come forward for a personal interview as proof she is not being coerced.

"To the clowns who want a personal interview with me — Vincent Hallinan (an attorney), Steven Weed and the pig Hearsts" she said, "It's absurd to think that I could surface to say what I'm saying now and be allowed to freely return to my comrades. The enemy still wants me dead."

The tape, which also included the voices of two men, was Miss Hearst's first communication since she renounced her family on April 3 and said she was joining the SLA as an armed comrade. She also said she had taken the name "Tania," in memory of a slain girl friend of Latin American guerrilla Che Guevara. Police Community Relations Director Rodney Williams, who obtained the tape through an intermediary, turned it over to the FBI. He said the tape was in a brown paper package along with half of Miss Hearst's driver's license and a red poster showing hands and a clenched fist. The other half of Miss Hearst's license was used to authenticate a previous SLA communication.

Speaking of Weed on the tape, Miss Hearst said:

"As for my ex-fiance, I'm amazed that he thinks that the first thing I would want to do when freed would be to rush and see him. The fact is, I don't care if I ever see him again."

Explaining the alleged reason for the bank robbery, she said the holdup "forced the corporate state to help finance the revolution ... As with the money involved in my parents' bad faith gesture to aid the people these funds are being used to aid the people and to insure the survival of the people's forces in their struggle with and for the people."

She said she was alive and well. "As for being brainwashed, the idea is ridiculous to the point of being beyond belief."

Shortly before police received the tape, the FBI announced that two rented getaway cars used in the bank robbery had been located in a basement parking garage. The FBI said the vehicles, which turned up in a routine check, apparently had been left there within a few hours of the April 15 holdup.

Two young women reportedly were called to testify today before a federal grand jury probing the robbery. The Examiner identified them as Janet Cooper Weiss and Cynthia Garvey, both of Oakland, and said they were acquainted with persons who later joined the SLA, a group which authorities say is multiracial, heavily armed and believed to consist of about 25 male and female persons.

Federal authorities had no immediate comment on the tape.

Americans abandon energy conservation

By The Associated Press

Americans are abandoning the strict conservation measures they imposed on themselves at the height of the energy crisis.

A nationwide Associated Press survey finds that automobile traffic in most areas of the country is approaching pre-embargo levels. It also shows that toll road receipts are climbing, mass transit use is slipping and the rate of electricity conservation is falling.

"There are as many people on the road now as there were in September," before the Arab oil embargo brought the winter energy crisis, said federal energy chief John C. Sawhill. The AP survey showed that in recent weeks police in many states have written many more speeding tickets as motorists press down on the gas pedal.

It was the embargo imposed by Middle East producers in the fall that forced Americans to significantly cut back their use of energy, and it was the end of that embargo on March 18 that apparently has started them back toward their old habits.

A spokesman for Florida Power & Light Co., the state's largest utility, said its customers used six per cent less electricity than they normally would have between early December and late February.

But that figure fell to three per cent in March and a spokesman said "figures the week the Arab oil embargo was lifted indicate customers used noticeably more electricity than any other week in March." A similar pattern was repeated in many states, with utilities and state agencies reporting that conservation is slipping. They noted, however, that Americans still are not using the amount of electricity they would under normal growth patterns.

The push by city, state and federal governments for citizens to use car pools appears from the AP survey to have been a miserable failure in most areas. A group of scientists at the Opinion Research Center in Chicago, who have conducted weekly energy surveys for a year, said they found no tendency by consumers to switch away from the single-passenger auto trip.

The sharply higher prices for gasoline brought about by a quadrupling in the foreign price of oil does not seem to be keeping people off the roads. But the price hikes, coupled with lower speed limits, may be responsible for the continued strong business being done by Amtrak and the airlines.

The American Automobile Association said Tuesday that the gasoline situation in the country is generally stabilized. It said a spot check of 6,152 stations found only 2 per cent out of gas, only 2.5 per cent operating on split shifts and only 6 per cent limiting purchases.

President still against rollbacks

By The Associated Press

With oil profits continuing to soar, President Nixon reportedly has pledged to veto emergency energy legislation if it contains an oil price rollback.

Rep. James F. Hastings, R-N.Y., said Wednesday he had been told by "people at the White House" that the President would not accept an amendment approved by the House Commerce Committee.

That amendment would roll back domestic crude oil to the prices that existed in November 1973, at the beginning of the Arab oil embargo. This would lower the cost of most oil from the current $5.25 a barrel to $4.25, and would lower the retail cost of gasoline and other petroleum products.

Nixon vetoed previous emergency energy legislation because of a similar price rollback provision.

Profits of major oil companies, meanwhile, continue to show sharp increases for the first three months of 1974. Continental Oil (Conoco) reported Wednesday that net income after taxes for the first quarter rose 130 per cent to $109.2 million, or $2.16 a share, compared to $47.5 million in the same period of 1973.

Getty Oil reported a 122 per cent increase in its first quarter profits, with after-tax earnings reaching $73.6 million. They were $33.1 million a year ago. And Murphy Oil Corp. of El Dorado, Ark., a smaller firm, disclosed quarterly profits of $27.37 million, up 257 per cent from the year-earlier level of $7.67 million.

Earlier this week, Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Standard of Indiana (Amoco) and Occidental reported first quarter profits up from 75 per cent to 718 per cent over 1973 levels.

"The exceptionally favorable results in the first quarter of this year are not indicative of the earnings gains anticipated for the full year of 1974," said Conoco chairman John McClean.

S. B. Pinyan, Atlanta representative of the Phillips Petroleum Co., said Wednesday it is a "phony charge" to say oil companies are making windfall profits. Large oil companies are reporting dramatic profit increases because current earnings are being compared to 1973 when, he said, industry profits were the lowest in a decade.

White rhinos arrival set

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A planeload of white rhinoceros— 26 of them weighing about 35 tons—was scheduled to arrive at Greater Cincinnati Airport from Africa today.

Kings Island Amusement Park, which purchased the animals in Durban, South Africa, claimed the fly-in is a first. A spokesman said wild animals normally clear customs and agricultural inspections at New York.

But the rhinos, slated for the amusement park's Lion Country exhibit, are being flown here directly—well tranquilized, officials said.

The Henry West Export-Import Co. will bring in a veterinarian from Cleveland to oversee federal regulations. Regulations include a requirement that wastes and feed remaining in the plane be burned.

Speeding increase noted in nation

By The Associated Press

Speeding citations by police have increased dramatically in some parts of the country in recent weeks.

Police interviewed in a number of states in an Associated Press survey said speeding tickets were up because of the lowered 55 m.p.h. speed limit and because gasoline is no longer short in supply in most regions.

Glenn aides subpoenaed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two former and two current members of U.S. Senate candidate John H. Glenn's campaign staff have been subpoened to testify before Ohio Secretary of State Ted Brown concerning alleged unethical campaign literature.

Brown has set a hearing May 2 to determine the source of bumper stickers and a letter distributed in the Youngstown area tying Glenn's opponent, U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, to President Nixon and Communist groups.

The items do not list a source as required by state election laws and violation may carry a fine of up to $2,000.

Deer Creek plans

Assembly undoubtedly would reach the final decision.

At Wednesday's session the Ohio Department of Natural Resources indicated that feasibility studies are continuing and at present the department is not ready to recommend one site over another.

Caesar's Creek State Park is located near Harveysburg and is 40 miles east of Hueston Woods State Park. The discussion Wednesday disclosed that Kentucky state parks and a new development in Indiana also serve the area, suggesting that Deer Creek might prove to be a more central location.

The developments for expansion at neighboring Deer Creek State Park include cabins, lodges, restaurant facilities, and recreational activities such as swimming pools, tennis courts and golf courses.

Nye further indicated Wednesday that the site not recommended this year undoubtedly will constitute the first priority in future park expansion plans.

While Deer Creek expansion apparently faces stiff competition for approval this year, representatives attending Wednesday's session remain optimistic and have agreed to pursue the projected development.

Stock list battered

NEW YORK (AP) — The rising cost of money battered stock market prices for the third straight session today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.76 at 828.61, and losers outpaced gainers by more than 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The bulk of the drop came early in the session, apparently prompted by the Federal Reserve Board's approval of a ½ point increase, to 8 per cent, in the discount rate — the interest rate its district banks charge on loans to commercial banks. At midday the downward pressure on the market appeared to be easing.

Matsushita Electric was the Big Board's most active stock, down ½ at 15¾ after a huge 425,000-share block changed hands at that price.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .97 at 89.54.

Among glamour issues hitting 1974 lows were Polaroid, down ⅜ at 56; Avon Products, off ⅝ at 43¾; and MGIC Investment, off 1¼ at 26½.

The Amex' most heavily traded stock was Syntex, up ⅛ at 46¼.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was off .30 at 47.66.

Near record low temperatures were recorded over Ohio Wednesday night and early Thursday as a high pressure system moved southeastward to the state, bringing clear and cool conditions with it.

Temperatures dropped into the chilly 30s over the state. Shortly before dawn the coolest spots were at Youngstown with 28, and Toledo Airport with 26 degrees. These were near the record for this date.

By Friday, the system is forecast to reach the Carolinas, giving southerly winds and a warming trend to Ohio with warm weather expected for the weekend.

Meanwhile, for Thursday, sunshine is expected to push the mercury into the 50s, and reachings the 60s in southern Ohio. Lows for tonight will be in the 40s under partly cloudy skies. Readings Friday afternoon are scheduled in the 60s or low 70s.

Fair Saturday, but a chance of showers Sunday, becoming more likely Monday. Highs from the low to mid 70s. Lows in the upper 40s and low 50s.

Bayh blasts oil program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Birch Bayh says the planned exporting of Alaskan oil to Japan could end up costing U.S. consumers as much as $9 billion through 1985.

Bayh asserted in a Senate speech Wednesday that the "swapping" of oil from the new Alaska pipeline for foreign crude oil might lead to "one of the all-time greatest frauds perpetrated on American consumers."

The Indiana Democrat, an opponent of the pipeline, said he is asking the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee "to conduct a probe into the entire matter."

He also said he plans to introduce legislation to prohibit the exporting of any Alaskan oil if this would result in higher oil costs to American consumers.

Judge attacks Armco, Republic

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A federal judge has questioned moral and ethical responsibilities of corporate leaders in the monumental environmental case involving Reserve Mining Co.

U.S. District Judge Miles Lord was increasingly critical Wednesday of Reserve's parents firms, Armco and Republican steel corporations. He remarked, "Nobody has said anything about the ethical and moral responsibility of the company.

"Where is its heart? Does the heart beat in a corporation? Do they have a soul? Or are decisions made strictly on the dollars and cents?"

At the time, Republic President William DeLancey was on the witness stand. Lord interjected occasionally as Byron Starns, deputy Minnesota attorney general, asked questions.

Attorneys for the defense objected to "philosophical excursions" and DeLancey did not respond to Lord's questions.

The judge said he has concluded Armco and Republic would be willing to see the work force at the Silver Bay, Minn., taconite processing plant abandoned before suffering a "percentage point of it."

The Justice Department brought suit against Reserve on recommendation of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). EPA, three states and several environmental groups joined as plaintiffs contend Reserve is polluting Lake Superior by discharging up to 67,000 tons of taconite tailings into the lake each day.

The government contends asbestos fibers in municipal water supplies along the lake, and from smoke stack emissions are a health hazard.

Lord has accused the parent companies of dragging their feet on plans for on-land disposal. He has charged they look upon their mining operations at Babbitt, Minn., as obsolete and have used him as an "instrumentality" in eventually shutting down the operations.

Lord ordered that Reserve cease operations last Sunday because of what he called a health menace. However, a three-judge panel of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overruled him pending a full court hearing expected May 15.

Part of Wednesday's testimony concerned Reserve's request for $100 million federal and state grant toward the estimated $172 million cost of installing equipment to dispose of tailings on land.

Lord told DeLancey: "As I see it, 3,000 workers are being held as economic hostages by two of the nation's giant companies, who refuse to put in money they are well able to put in, because it might inhibit expansion elsewhere.

"The ransom is the government aid."

See more Zebra killings coming

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Zebra killer will strike again, the chief police inspector believes. And he says nearly a week of stopping and searching young blacks on the streets has produced no clues in the case in which 12 white persons have been gunned down at random.

"I think it will continue," Chief Inspector Charles A. Barca told U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoli Wednesday when asked whether he thought the killing was over.

Zirpoli is conducting a hearing on lawsuits seeking a halt of the searches of black men resembling the description of the killer.

Barca said that since the searches had been unproductive and ineffective, police are cutting them back drastically.

"There is nothing more urgent in the annals of the police department" than to find the killer or killers who have terrorized this city since last November, said Barca.

The killer has been described by two of the six persons who survived apparent unprovoked attacks. Police code-named the case Zebra after the radio channel being used on the case.

Barca said bus stops were the most likely spots for future Zebra killings, since 14 of the 18 shootings have taken place at city bus stops. Barca told the judge an injunction against searches "would make it difficult to locate the Zebra killer."

At the same time, Barca promised that police "from now on will be more selective in making stops" and would only make them "when the individual is acting or appears to be acting out of the ordinary."

Barca said that in the six days the sweeping operation was in force, 567 black men were stopped. He said seven were arrested on outstanding traffic and other warrants.

He said the modified stop-and-search operation probably would scale down the number of men stopped to five a day. On Tuesday night, 61 men were stopped; on Monday night, 62 were stopped.

The two lawsuits, filed by the NAACP and the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of black men, asked the judge to declare the stop-and-search tactic unconstitutional.

Maiden name in voting OKd

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William S. Mathews ruled Wednesday that married women can vote using their maiden names.

The decision came in a suit filed by Brenda Marie Hope Cheatum, who was barred from voting in the special March 5 election because she had been married. The local board of elections had told her she must re-register under her husband's name.

Mrs. Cheatum told the court she was not a "women's libber," but said she had continued to use her maiden name, Hope, in business matters since she was married.

Aid to Egypt faces rough road ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed U.S. aid to Egypt has drawn an unlikely reaction in Congress that leaves its future in doubt.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a powerful opponent of U.S. foreign aid programs, said he will view the Egyptian aid proposal with an open mind.

But House Foreign Affairs Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., one of Congress' chief foreign aid supporters, said he has "serious reservations about it. It seems to me now that we're trying to buy peace," Morgan said.

"I think after the oil embargo that some of the oil-producing countries could contribute to opening up the canal."

President Nixon said the $250 million for Egypt would be "used for the tasks which come with peace," help in clearing the Suez Canal, repairing damage in nearby areas and restoring Egyptian trade with America.

The money is part of a $5.18 billion foreign aid request Nixon sent to Congress. It includes $907.5 million in aid to the Middle East and some $2.3 billion aid for Indochina.

House Middle East subcommittee chairman Lee H. Hamilton D-Ind., said he was surprised by the size of the President's request for Mideast aid, but is pleased.

"If it's tied into general progress toward peace in the Middle East, it's a pretty good price for insurance," Hamilton said.

But the subcommittee chairman said he was making no commitment to approval of the full $907.5 million Middle East request.

As for the President's overall $5.12 billion foreign aid request, Hamilton said, "Surely, it'll be reduced sharply." Added Morgan, whose committee decides how much of the aid to recommend to the House: "It'll have a rough time."

Opinion And Comment

As food controls are lifted

Removal of the last price controls over food retailers and wholesalers prompts nervous thoughts about how this may affect grocery prices. Apprehension is not diminished by the fact that half a month hence the remaining controls on food processors and manufacturers also will be lifted along with controls on all elements in the economy except those involving energy production and distribution.

The main argument made in favor of now permitting big food wholesalers and retailers to widen their profit margins if they choose is that competitive pressures will hold down prices.

These pressures and other factors, we are told by Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council, "combine to provide reasonable assurances that decontrol will not result in inordinate rises in food prices in the months ahead attributable to food retailing and wholesaling."

On examination this proves to fall well short of being a firm statement of assurance. One must ask what Dunlop means by "inordinate rises," and whether those "reasonable assurances" can be depended on.

And then there is that hedging remark about prices "attributable to food retailing and wholesaling," which leaves Dunlop an out should other unnamed factors boost what must be paid for food.

We do not blame the head of the Cost of Living Council for stopping short of a promise that there won't be much of a rise in food prices. He is only recognizing that at this stage prediction is chancy.

There is indeed some reason to hope that the pressures of competition will work against sharp food price increases, but nothing of the sort is guaranteed. We'll have to wait and see.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

More impeachment politics

WASHINGTON — Anyone making early book on the result of a trial of President Nixon for high crimes and misdemeanors before the Senate of the United States would do well to look at the list of 35 senators compiled by Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

It is good guess that at least 30 would vote to acquit the President and that is close to the 34 needed to insure that Mr. Nixon remains in office to the end of his term.

Thurmond got the 35 to put their signatures on a resolution affirming their opposition to any treaty with Panama that would dilute United States "sovereignty and jurisdiction over the U.S.-owned Canal Zone."

This means that a new treaty sought by the administration would not get the two-thirds necessary for ratification.

Checkmating an important Nixon-Kissinger initiative, the resolution is a fine example of impeachment politics. So long as he may have to face trial by the Senate, the President cannot afford to alienate the right-of-center senators making up most of the Thurmond list.

ON FEB. 7 Secretary of State Henry Kissinger flew to Panama for the ceremonial signing of an agreement transferring territorial control over the Canal and a 10-mile-wide strip adjoining it to the Republic of Panama. A distinguished senior diplomat, Ellsworth Bunker, was assigned to negotiate the terms of the agreement to be incorporated in a new treaty.

The status of the canal has long been a festering sore damaging Washington's relations not only with Panama but with most Latin-American nations. It is comparable in kind if not in degree to the Suez Canal and Britain's futile attempt to hold that international waterway by arms against the rising tide of Egyptian nationalism.

At the special United Nations Security Council meeting in Panama, convened by Panama, the United States was forced to veto a resolution calling for transfer of the Canal to Panamanian sovereignty. There were 13 votes against the United States with Britain abstaining.

In 1964 widespread rioting broke out aimed at special American privileges enjoyed in the Canal Zone, ruled, the Panamanians charged, like a colony. Twenty-three persons were killed, three of them Americans. The same intense feeling is close to the surface today.

THE THURMOND LIST speaks for the new isolationism as well as for impeachment politics.

Seven Southern Democrats are among the signers including Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, chairman of the Judiciary Committee. Eastland has several times assured Sen. Hugh Scott, the minority leader, that he could count on seven to eight Southern votes for acquittal.

Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia, who counts himself an independent, is also on the Thurmond list.

On the Republican side the list is heavily weighted with senators from the South, the Southwest and West.

Sen. Goldwater and Fannin of Arizona, Hansen of Wyoming and McClure of Idaho are on record. There are the regions from which the President must draw support if he is to escape conviction and the polls consistently show his rating higher in the South than anywhere else.

WITH RESPECT to the Panama treaty, a pawn in the impeachment game, Bunker is philosophic. Negotiations will run through 1974 and when the treaty is finally drawn up the political situation may have changed.

The anomaly of America's residual sovereignty goes back to 1903 when Secretary of State John Hay observed that the treaty was "vastly advantageous to the United States" and almost equally disadvantageous to Panama.

Panama is headquarters for the U.S. Southern Command. This means that from 10,000 to 14,000 Americans in uniform are stationed there, most of them ground forces. Military power would assure that the canal be held under its present jurisdiction.

But this could mean a continuing harassment as the British learned when they tried to hold the Suez Canal by force of arms. It would likewise be constant irritant in the relationship between the Colossus of the North and the world to the south of the border.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Education in the metropolis

Generally speaking, social historians can be divided into two types: the massive generalists, and the institutional microanalysts.

The generalists operate at about 10,000 feet, turning out overarching analyses of the "Zeitgeist," or spirit of the age, while the microanalysts burrow like moles, often producing overpowering studies of trivia.

Those who can mix the two genres are few and far between, but Diane Ravitch should be added to their number. If you look at her recent work, "The Great School Wars: New York City, 1805-1973" (Basic Books), your initial reaction may well be, "Oh, no. 400 pages on the New York schools!"

But this is a fundamental error which should be remedied by opening the book and reading it. I picked it up after dinner one night and literally could not put it down unfinished — at something like 2:30 a.m. I reached the end. (I cheated a little: I didn't read the bibliography.)

There is a classic story of an editor who received a new translation of Homer's "Odyssey" and sent it to the travel department for review. One fears that Mrs. Ravitch's work may get similar treatment; that is, be shipped off to the education editor.

Actually it is a masterful work of social history in which the author has employed the various battles over the organization of the New York City school system as a prism for exploring the political, social, religious and economic forces at work in the metropolis over almost two centuries. She has, as the subtitle puts it (clumsily) written a "history of the public schools as battlefield of social change."

THE NARRATIVE begins in 1805 with the organization of the Free School Society (unlike Massachusetts, New York had no colonial tradition of free schooling), which in the following year launched its first public school with 70 poor children attending.

The methods employed were designed for economy and efficiency: one teacher, aided by student monitors, could conduct a class of 1,000!

It sounds a bit like a jail, but the youngsters were not complaining: they were getting a chance to escape from the culture of poverty. Shortly, the Society got state and then municipal aid, from then to the present, education became inexorably involved in city and state politics.

Then came the Irish — poor, Catholic, yet strongly organized around their Church (a key difference between the Irish and the blacks, were flooded into New York a century later, was the existence among Catholics of a single built-in focus for community organization).

The clergy, not without justification, considered "secular" education to be Protestant in character and began a campaign which still continues to obtain public assistance for parochial schools. In 1842, after some brilliant political maneuvers by Bishop John Hughes (which today would probably bring him before a grand jury, accused of "votes iphoning"), the state legislature deprived the Society of its role and set up a system of public education based on elected school committees in each ward: "Decentralization!" "Community control!"

WITHOUT GOING into details, this led to a thorough politicizing of the public school system: Tammany Hall was always willing to suggest a principal, a teacher, a janitor, and — of course — the contractors for pencils, paper, desks and other sundry necessities. Naturally enough this boodling — particularly after the Tweed Ring had developed it into a science — led to demands for reform, spearheaded by the "best people," most of whose children (as usual) had not attended the public schools.

The thrust of reform was predictable: centralization and rule by experts — the schools should be taken out of politics and turned over to professionals. These changes were effected in 1896 and amounted to the introduction of another brand of politics.

As Mayor Strong said: local control was a bad thing in a city "largely impregnated with foreign influences, languages that (were) unquestionably un-American."

Throughout, one finds priceless proof that history did not start at dawn this morning. For example, in 1904 on the Lower East Side, 2,000 "irate Jewish parents turned out" to denounce the contemporary equivalent of busing: shifting 1,500 Jewish kids to underpopulated schools on the Irish Lower West Side!

And, to skip, nowhere have I seen a more incisive analysis of the great school war of the late 1960s, which found black militants reinventing the 1842 wheel: community control.

All in all a superb contribution to American social history.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I am writing this letter to all who are affiliated with drugs and alcoholism. Not only to the users of these, but also to all who have family or friends that are users.

Many of you may know me personally. Others may have heard of me, as I am from your city.

I have spent my life, always in some type of trouble or another. I have been arrested on uncountable number of times. However, I have never been arrested unless under the influence of alcohol.

Alcoholism and drug addiction both consume a large amount of money. Also both are in constant contact with the "night life". In other words the bars, nightclubs, honky tonks, parties or any other place where trouble commonly takes place.

You can very well be an alcoholic and not know it. There are many different types. Still they all have the same ending, disaster and heart break.

Many who see their need for money to continue their habits with drugs or alcohol and are not employed, will usually turn to the life of crime or the "easy money".

Here at the Ohio Penitentiary there are approximately 1,500 inmates. At least 95 per cent of these inmates are here due to alcohol or drugs relating to their crimes. Either they were intoxicated or "high" at the time they committed the offense or they were committing their offense to obtain money for drugs or alcohol.

The main and most important thing for an alcoholic or drug addict to consider is that he will end up alone. By this I mean he or she will have few or no "real" friends. Also even the family will shy away after awhile due to the shame and embarrassment caused them.

So unless you wish to live and die alone, or you wish to end up like myself and many others like me, I would strongly advise that you consider all that I have paid.

And to the younger people that I know or care about: Remember, I am not trying to teach you something, I have read from a book. But I am very much experienced in the matter. I have lived it.

Thank You all.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Beautiful character can make up for ugly face

DEAR ABBY: I wish to speak for the ugly men in this world, including myself. Ugliness is a terrible curse. It makes us ugly people feel inferior to the point where we seriously consider suicide.

Our social lives are deficient, for few people seem willing to associate with physically ugly people. Without sex appeal we miss a very important part of life that the average person takes for granted.

My ugliness is not a bodily one. I am not grossly fat or painfully thin, neither am I deformed in any way. It's facial ugliness that has caused strangers to come up to me and say: "Gee, you're ugly." That is the God's truth. Can you imagine anyone being so cruel?

Abby, you could perform a great humanitarian service if you would devote a little space to a possible solution to this problem. Or perhaps a reader who has overcome his ugliness can tell me how he did it.

DOUBLE UGLY

DEAR DOUBLE: Did it ever occur to you that "ugliness"-like beauty, could lie in the eye of the beholder? Some of the most attractive and appealing people in the world do not conform to the generally accepted concept of beauty, but that doesn't make them ugly.

The qualities that make one loved and wanted have nothing to do with the way his face is formed. Honesty, kindness, generosity,, patience, compassion-all the virtues-can be developed. A beautiful character counts for more with people who count than physical beauty.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who watches television while making love to his wife? My husband never makes love to me in the bedroom anymore, always on the sofa so he can watch TV, too. And it's usually on the spur of the moment, which is not to my liking.

He was a lot more considerate and loving when we were dating. He's so afraid he's going to miss something good on television it has practically ruined our sex life.

Will you please tell me how I can get him back in the bedroom?

DISSATISFIED

DEAR DIS: Move the TV into your bedroom!

DEAR ABBY: How can we thank you? Because of a message in your column telling runaways about a program called "Operation Peace of Mind" our runaway son let us know that he was alive and well. He is only 16 and had been gone for nearly a year.

Abby, please publish that toll free number again so other runaways can let their parents know they are alive. It meant the world to us to hear from our son.

GRATEFUL IN SEATTLE

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure! Runaways, call this toll-free number: 1-800-231-6946. An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the United States and convey a message from you to them. There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you is "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can obtain it free of charge. I repeat, no one will attempt to contact you or bring you home regardless of your age.

Runaways, please forget the past and send that message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight, and so will you. God bless. (P.S.This wonderful program is staffed entirely by volunteers in Houston, and was aided by Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas.)

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box no. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope, please.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The sound of clashing claims is rising these days because of pay TV, the system by which cable TV subscribers pay extra to see movies and programs commercial TV doesn't offer.

The combatants are the National Cable Television Association and the National Association of Broadcasters. The battleground is what the NAB calls the threat of "siphoning" by the struggling pay TV industry.

The NAB, representing 531 TV stations and the three networks, describes siphoning as "the removal of popular programming, principally movies and sports, from free commercial TV to pay cable television."

It claims if steps aren't taken, pay TV may someday be able to outbid commercial TV for major attractions and viewers either will have to pay for those shows or do without. "Free" TV, of course, only applies when you don't buy the sponsor's product.

The NCTA, representing half the nation's 3,000 cable-TV operators, calls the siphoning charge hogwash. It says it only wants federal rules eased enough to let pay TV try to prove itself in the marketplace.

The battle basically centers on two Federal Communications Commission rules that cable-TV interests would like liberalized in varying degrees. The NAB says it wants those left alone.

One rule bars pay TV from showing movies that have been in theatrical release less than two years, and only allows once-a-month showings of movies 10 years old or older.

The other prohibits pay cable from showing sports that have been on commercial TV the previous three years.

Ralph M. Baruch, head of NCTA's pay cable committee, says what his group specifically asks of the FCC is a three-year test suspension of its pay-TV rules, but with one important caveat.

That, he said, would be "the assurance that nothing which is now presented on conventional television could be diverted to pay cable."

Baruch, president of Viacom, Inc., a TV syndication firm that says it operates 110 cable-TV systems, said under the proposal the FCC would "monitor what happens to various attractions.

"Wherever it found these procedures weren't fulfilling the public interest, it could step in at any time and change them."

"We don't buy the test period idea," says Robert Resor, the NAB's chief "Free Television" campaigner. Even with the restrictions Baruch proposes, he says, "we feel that the process, once started, would be irreversible."

How many pay TV systems are there now? The FCC says it has no figures, but the NCTA estimates there are approximately 45 which serve a total of 55,000 subscribers.

What's the potential for pay TV? A recent study paints a rosy picture. It says there could be pay TV in 30 per cent of a projected 83.3 million U.S. homes just 11 years from now.

How the NCTA and NAB feel about that study is the only thing they agree agree on and we'll go into that Friday.

No arrests made in extortion bid

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— Authorities have made no arrests in an alleged $10,000 extortion attempt involving a New Springfield couple.

J. Everett May told police he was abducted by four or five men from his place of business last Friday, driven home and beaten until he promised to leave $10,000 at a specific drop spot Saturday.

May said the men did not pick up the money, although he delivered it at the specified time.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, APRIL 26

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
Some challenges indicated in your work area. To handle, study ALL psychological factors. Your motivations as well as those of others will be an essential part of the picture.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Leave nothing to chance; stress your innate meticulousness for detail and accuracy. In discussions, try to persuade gently, not with force.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
You may make a discovery — both unexpected and profitable. Your clue lies in reading between the lines, studying the "fine print."

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Do not conclude a matter before all facts are known or a full chance for research given. You could be tricked into inaccurate moves if not wary.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Stellar influences beneficent. Dovetail activities with those of associates. Joint performances, properly planned, should produce fine results.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Be extremely careful to discriminate between rumor and fact, not to accept hearsay as accurate information. Some deceptive trends prevail.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Aspects not too friendly. Be tactful in speech, cautious in finalizing agreements. Some tricky spots indicated.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov.22)
Mixed influences. Some fine advantages possible, but it will be important to watch the budget and not to overcommit yourself to future expenditures.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Especially favored now: speedup action on pending projects; making revisions in ventures that didn't quite jell previously, real estate interests.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Friends and associates are working for you in the background, and you should soon profit from some efforts you have long since forgotten.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Some interesting situations indicated, but certain tedious matters will require attention nonetheless. Pep them up with one of those ingenious "twists" at which you are so adept.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Some trends changing. Synchronize your activities to accommodate. Curb a tendency to become overly emotional in a realtively unimportant situation.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most artistic of all the artistic Taureans — and one of the most practical, too. If you choose painting as a career — or even as an avocation — your work will be imaginative and colorful; or, should you choose writing, your style will be witty and brilliant. You have a great love for heritage and tradition; would make an outstanding historian; also, strongly attracted to the outdoors and all living things, you could shine as an agriculturist, botanist or veterinarian. You are also a humanitarian at heart; could make a great success in any branch of the medical field or in causes aimed at helping the underprivileged.

The quietest place is the "dead room" in the Bell Telephone System Laboratory at Murray Hill, N.J., where 99.98 per cent of reflected sound is eliminated.

SPRING BRINGS STYLE SHOW - APRIL 26

The air of freshness and newness makes us especially interested in looking our best. To be well dressed one needs to analyze a outfit for fashion, grooming, posture and poise, construction, fit, design, and personable qualities. The State 4-H Fashion Board, Mrs. Norman Deyo, State Clothing Specialist and Mrs. Alice Meskell, of the State 4-H Staff are presenting a special style show this Friday evening, April 26th from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at the Washington Junior High School to help the general public understand the seven guides.

4-H members, advisors, parents, and clothing judges are especially invited to attend. New 4-H clothing projects will be explained. Several projects now are available to boys as well as girls. Most projects now have an option to use knitting and crocheting techniques in addition to sewing.

Plan now to spend FRIDAY evening, APRIL 26th from 7 to 9 p.m. with us at the WASHINGTON JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM to get answers and ideas for 4-H clothing projects this year.

NEW FASHION FABRICS

A sprinkling of new garments may be the kind of April shower needed to refresh your spring wardrobe. If you sew, give special attention to fabric selection. This spring, fabric is an important part of fashion newness.

Textured fabrics are very strong. You might choose a fabric with a nubby surface such as a shantung or a tweed. Or perhaps a fabric with a more subtle texture such as matte jersey. Often, textured fabrics are made of two or more fibers; you'll find such combinations as polyester and cotton, polyester and linen, polyester and silk. As you shop, read labels carefully and double-check care instructions.

Coordinated fabrics are also fashion leaders this year. The coordinating can be achieved in several ways. For example — a beige and white flecked double knit in plain and a strawberry print. Some coordinated groups offer more choices. For example — a plain stretch knit, a herringbone knit, a knit with a jacquard flower design, and a knit in a window pane plaid — with all the fabrics made in related or matched colors.

You might find coordinated single fabrics, too. For example — a double knit with a heather tweed on one side and a window pane plaid on the other. Still other coordinates might be look-alike fabrics in different weights. Use the lightweight fabric for a blouse or shirt and its heavier weight twin for pants or shirts.

Fashionable stripes are available in many varieties including ticking, bold awning stripes, ribbon stripes, and multicolor floral stripes. Striped fabrics offer a sewing challenge! Plan the pattern layout carefully so the lines created by the stripes will be pleasing to your figure.

Other fashion fabrics include heather and tweed motifs, often in natural browns., beige and earthy tones; classic prints such as polka dots, checks and plaids, especially the window pane plaids; and soft sheers — chiffons for evening, sheer cottons for day wear.

As you work with sheer fabrics, beware of little details that mar the looks of a garment. Remember inner construction details, such as seams and darts, will show through the fabric. That means no raveling edges are allowed! Hems and other edge finishes may be conspicuous. Experiment to see if a narrow rolled hem or bound edges would be more attractive than an ordinary hem and facings.

So don't let spring showers dampen your spirits. Spend a rainy afternoon at the fabric store or at your sewing machine!

Area Recognition Day observed by TOPS chapters

Saturday, the losers were the winners! And that's the best way, for the losers are all members of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly), and this was the Area Recognition Day for all TOPS chapters of the Western Ohio Area.

The Ohio Theatre, downtown Columbus, hosted over 1000 TOPS members, mostly women, at an all day meeting designed to recognize the best losers for 1973 and to give title to the Queen, who lost the most weight in TOPS to attain, in 1973, her own doctor's prescribed weight goal.

Attending from the local OH 669 chapter were Mrs. Ralph Hilderbrand, Mrs. Beryl Smith, Mrs. Bernard Huffman, Mrs. Imogene McCoy, Mrs. Henry Paul, Mrs. Ronald Burns, Mrs. Forrest Stevens, Mrs. Joe Satchell, Mrs. Richard Wilson, Mrs. Orlyn Wilt, Mrs. Dale Dunn and Mrs. Leo Merritt.

Mrs. Burns was the 'chapter queen' and graduated as a KOPS along with Mrs. Satchell; Mrs. Huffman participated in the 'baggy dress' parade and was honored, as was Mrs. Dunn as KOPS-in-Long-Standing. Participating in the 'KOPS Circle of Light' were Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Satchell.

Rose Ann Napier of Middletown was named Western Ohio TOPS Area Queen for having lost 101½ pounds in TOPS. Runner-up to the Queen is Dorothy Grote of Columbus who lost 91 pounds to end up at the goal weight. And they are keeping it off!

Mrs. Kay Sage, Area Supervisor, Waynesville, compiled the information from over 200 TOPS chapters, with membership of about 5,000, for 1973. Mrs. Sage has been a TOPS member for 17 years. Total weight loss for all chapters is more than 13 tons.

"Records are very precise and well-documented, Mrs. Sage stated. "Each member is provided an Official Weight Chart, and that information recorded thereon every week is confidential information, available only to the member and to the Weight Recorder of the chapter. No one is embarrassed with unwanted publicity in TOPS.

"Persons have many reasons for wanting to lose weight and it is the other members who try to make that wish a reality," she said.

Tops was started in 1948 in Milwaukee by Mrs. Esther S. Manz who along with three other young mothers decided to try together to take off unwanted pounds. Each was given her own doctor's specific instructions and weight goals, and that is the way TOPS remains to this day. One diet sheet certainly will not be the right one for all persons in a chapter.

Area Winners for Western Ohio were divided by weight groupings for recognition and these winners included big losses for calendar 1973.

Fun part of the day's activities was the "baggy dress parade," where members showed the "before" dress and then modeled the "after" appearance. Members had to have had a 50 pounds loss to participate and there were 35 persons who participated. The biggest loss was 123 pounds and from dress size 48 to size 14.

Forty-five members were graduated in the afternoon ceremonies for having attained specific doctor-prescribed weight goals. These persons are now members of the elite known as KOPS or Keep Off Pounds Sensibly, and remain in TOPS to maintain the weight loss and to inspire other struggling members.

Participating in the "Circle of Light" ceremonies were 135 KOPS-of-Long-Standing, those members who had previously reached their weight goals and have kept the weight off for periods of up to 15 years.

Senate leaders seek to reinstate some controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid predictions that inflation for the remainder of the year may be higher than previously believed, Senate Democrats are trying to breathe new life into the administration's dying wage and price controls program.

But the administration says it doesn't want the authority.

The Democratic action came as John T. Dunlop, the head of the Cost of Living Council, predicted that the rate of inflation for the second half of 1974 may be higher than the 5 or 6 per cent administration economists had forecast. Prices increased at an annual rate of 10.8 per cent in January, February and March.

Issuing the administration's objection to continuation of wage and price controls, Edgar R. Fielder said, "For the economy as a whole, standby authority creates more problems and more inflation than it could ever help prevent." Fielder is assistant secretary of the treasury for economic policy.

William E. Simon, President Nixon's nominee as the new secretary of the treasury, told the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday he opposes any continuation of controls except in the health and construction industries. Simon also came out against any income tax cut for citizens, a move which leading Democrats favor as a means of countering the effects of inflation.

The wage and price controls program will end April 30 unless Congress acts to extend it.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic majority leader, said after Wednesday's vote by a Democratic conference that an attempt would be made to add the standby controls legislation to a minor bill already on the Senate calendar. Sources said the move likely would not come before next week.

Senators attending the conference said the Democrats were having second thoughts about the need for controls because of the serious inflation reported last week and the prospect it will continue.

One administration source said the Democrats may fear they will be blamed for continuing inflation since they had earlier rejected the administration's plan for continuing controls on a limited basis.

Even if standby controls are approved by the Senate, the program would face an uphill struggle in the House, which already has voted to kill all controls after April 30.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve Board Wednesday sent a major signal to the nation's money markets that interest rates will continue high and monetary policy restrictive.

It raised the discount rate on loans to member banks from 7½ to 8 per cent, a record high. At the same time, some major banks around the country increased their prime lending rate — the rate for loans to their best customers — to 10½ per cent, also a record high.

Clear skies, chill air cover East

By The Associated Press

Cold air swirled into the eastern half of the country today, while rain showered the Pacific Northwest and upper Mississippi Valley.

Although the chilly readings prompted freeze warnings for much of the region from Michigan and Kentucky into Pennsylvania, the drop in temperature also was accompanied by clear skies.

From the Great Lakes to New England, the mercury dipped into the 30s during the night, with readings in the 40s as far south as Alabama and Georgia.

On the West Coast, showers sprinkled areas from Idaho to central California and snow drifted down in the mountains.

Although most of the snow was light during the night, a snow warning was issued for eastern Oregon and travel advisories were posted for the Sierra Nevadas.

Elsewhere, scattered showers sprinkled parts of Texas, Florida, Michigan and Missouri, and skies clouded over portions of the middle and north Atlantic Coast and the southern Plains.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 75 at Key West, Fla., and El Paso, Tex., to 25 at Massena, N.Y.

Some other reports: Anchorage 34 snow, Atlanta 47 clear, Boston 38 cloudy, Buffalo 34 clear, Chicago 37 clear, Cincinnati 37 clear, Cleveland 31 clear, Denver 56 clear, Detroit 32 clear, Honolulu 75 clear, Indianapolis 39 clear, Kansas City 56 clear, Los Angeles 53 clear.

Youth admits auto larceny

A 15-year-old Washington C.H. youth has been charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department in connection with the theft of a 1969 model Chevrolet belonging to the late Ralph Bray, Rt. 2, Washington C.H.

Anthony R. Stevens, S. North St., stole Bray's car March 29 from the Bowland parking lot, CCC-Highway-W. Sheriff Don Thompson's deputies were able to recover the car the following day, parked in a field at the rear of the Agrico plant.

Sheriff Thompson explained the youth was connected to the incident when fingerprints were lifted from the car by the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, and compared with Stevens'.

Questioning of the youth by Sheriff Thompson and Sgt. William R. Crooks, resulted in Stevens admitting to the incident.

Stevens has been recently taken to the Ohio Youth Commission, Columbus, to begin serving a sentence given him by the Fayette County Juvenile Court in connection with a burglary of Fairley's Hardware Store, N. Main Street.

Before the burglary of Fairley's, Stevens had been on probation from a series of other burglaries in the Washington C.H. area.

Glenn, Metzenbaum meet in debate

By The Associated Press

An aide to Democratic U.S. Senate candidate John Glenn said he expected the former astronaut's televised debate with Sen. Howard Metzenbaum in Cleveland today to be an "open discussion of the issues."

Glenn spent much of Wednesday being briefed by campaign staff members who have been researching the issues in the race for the party nomination in the May 7 primary election.

Metzenbaum planned to undergo a briefing with his staff today before taping the debate this afternoon at the WEWS-TV studios for airing tonight.

The encounter is the first of three televised debates scheduled by the candidates. The others will be held later in Columbus and Cincinnati.

Glenn's aide said Wednesday Glenn was "not going to change his positions on the issues" in the debate. "Metzenbaum changed his position on one issue today and who knows what will happen tomorrow," he added.

The aide referred to Metzenbaum's decision to release his federal income tax returns for the past 14 years. Glenn has criticized Metzenbaum repeatedly for his failure to disclose that financial information.

In making the disclosure, Metzenbaum said it "adds nothing to a dialogue on the issues of the campaign, but it has taken away John Glenn's excuse for not facing me on the issues."

Glenn, who earlier released his own tax returns for the years 1965-73, promptly accused Metzenbaum of giving "too little, too late." But he said it was a "victory for the people of Ohio" because public opinion forced the incumbent to make the disclosure.

Metzenbaum said he paid $725,004 in federal income taxes on an adjusted gross income of $3,067,753 for the years 1960-1973.

In other political activity, Republican gubernatorial candidate Charles Fry attacked the last two state administrations for their handling of education financing.

The state representative from Springfield said Gov. John Gilligan was giving schools only 26 per cent of a 42 per cent increase in state taxes this year and former Gov. James Rhodes promised a 40 per cent sales tax increase would go to education but delivered only 31 per cent.

Rhodes, also seeking the Republican nomination for governor, told an audience in Hamilton Wednesday that the Gilligan administration has been wasting $75 million to $150 million in tax money annually.

Addressing the Lions Club, the former governor said there is waste in operation of the Welfare Department, in highway construction, education and other programs.

Rhodes charged the Gilligan administration is building fewer highways "with more employes" and the cost of doing business in Ohio is nearing the point where it is higher than any other state.

He said unemployment in Ohio is nearing a plateau above the national average for the first time in nine years and the state is facing the "greatest exodus of industry and business in our history."

feet higher than the normal lake level. Sheldon said to raise the level of the lake that much would flood the improvements already completed. It would also take away much of the storage capacity for flood control.

The Corps of Engineers closed the gates at Paint Creek early this month and the filling operation is virtually complete.

Prime contractor for the dam, its complementary dike and controlled spillway was the Holloway Construction Co., Wixom, Mich. The company was the successful bidder in April, 1970 at a figure over $6 million.

THE DAM is 175 feet high and 870 feet wide and includes the controlled spillway using three 57-by-37 feet gates, a 1,900 foot spillway approach and an exit channel 190 feet in width.

Pouring of concrete for the spillway section began in April, 1971.

The reservoir has a pool fed by waters of Paint Creek and Rattlesnake Creek and covers about 710 acres at pool stage. At spillway crest, the reservoir will cover approximately 4,700 acres.

The more than $2 million outlet works was completed in late 1970. The contractor was R.E. Dailey and Co., Detroit, Mich. Its principal components included a huge concrete control tower upstream, a bypass tunnel measuring 1,043 feet in length, 16 feet in diameter, which was blasted through solid rock.

The Corps of Engineers also had supervision over roadway and bridge construction in the flood plain. Several of the projects were handled by the Gerbus Brothers Construction Co., of Cincinnati. These projects totaled $1.5 million. They included raising bridges on Rattlesnake and Paint creeks and relocation of Ohio 753 at Rattlesnake Creek north of New Petersburg, completed in 1967. The relocation was a $1.1 million contract handled by the D.E. Goodchild Co., Inc., of Circleville.

Like projects elsewhere, the Paint Creek Lake construction engulfed many acres of valuable farm land and there were some expected controversies on prices, but all were ironed out. Some farmers were permitted to lease land they had sold to the government for crops in instances where it was needed for construction purposes.

In other instances, the government acquired easements or flood rights in some remote areas of the flood plain in lieu of actual title to land.

Meanwhile, plans for a formal dedication for the project on June 15 are progressing. Carl Sitterle, a Greenfield insurance agent, has been selected to serve as master of ceremonies for the program which will feature an address by Congressman William H. Harsha, Sixth District Republican.

Hillsboro, Greenfield, Bainbridge and Chillicothe leaders are sponsoring the dedication program with Jim Krug, of Bainbridge, serving as chairman. Krug has served as chairman of the annual Fall Festival of Leaves program in Bainbridge for several years.

The public is invited to attend a talk on the subject of exorcism at 8 p.m. Sunday in the St. Colman's Council, Knights of Columbus, hall on Rawlings Street.

Monsignor Leonard Fich, of the Josephinum College in Worthington, will be the featured speaker, for the program, which is being sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

The K. of C. will hold its regular meeting at 7 p.m. instead of 8 p.m. due to the program.

County receives 'rollback' money

Fayette County has received a total of $129,711.86 in first-half 1973 property tax rollback reimbursements.

The state auditor's office disclosed $1,838,397.24 in property tax rollback reimbursements were sent to six Ohio counties.

The counties and the amounts they received for lost local revenue through the granting of 10 per cent property tax rollbacks to homeowners on their first half tax bills.

Property taxes are collected and rollbacks granted in one year based upon the previous year's settlements, according to Thomas E. Ferguson, deputy state auditor. There are two settlements per year, each covering a six-month period.

Ferguson added that the other counties would be reimbursed by the state when they certify their tax settlements and property tax rollbacks to the state auditor's office. Reimbursement funds are derived entirely from the state collected personal income tax.

Ranco, Inc., reports $1.41 million income

Sales for the period totaled $33.9 million, the manufacturer of environmental control equipment reported.

Ohio Perspective

Farmers fight nitrogen shortage

By KEN DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers, just started on their spring corn planting, are running into nitrogen fertilizer shortages that have doubled the price from last year.

The Ohio Department of Agriculture reported farmers paying up to $400 a ton this year for the same fertilizer they bought in 1973 for $75 to $100 a ton.

Field reports from other expert sources show $400 to be a desperate limit with the price actually running from $150 to $200 a ton.

Shortages of nitrogen are controversial — not that there is less nitrogen than Ohio farmers actually need, but the extent of the shortage.

Gene R. Abercrombie, state agriculture director, predicted that nitrogen fertilizer supplies may be 30 per cent less than demand in Ohio.

Other sources reported somewhat more optimistically, putting the shortage by estimate at from 10 to 30 per cent.

Abercrombie's estimate, he said, came after a fertilizer survey to be submitted in a report to Ohio's Energy Task Force.

A source in the state agriculture department said shortages reported thus far have been spotty. "South of Columbus," the source said, "farmers are planting corn and reporting they are getting enough fertilizer.

"Around Bellefontaine on the other hand farmers say they are real short and in the northwest they say there isn't enough."

Big shortage in fertilizer is in nitrogen, which farmers must have to grow corn. Phosphorus and potash, also used in combination on corn, are in more ample supply, although reports of a possible phosphorus shortage have been received.

Farmers planned to plant 3.8 million acres of corn in Ohio this spring. If the nitrogen shortage is critical enough they may shift some of that acreage to soy beans, which need little nitrogen. Whether that shift will be made will not be known until June.

Despite the nitrogen shortage Ohio farmers have a chance to harvest as much or more corn this year than in 1973 when the average yield fell sharply to about 79 bushels to the acre. In 1972 the yield was 92 bushels to the acre.

Ohio farmers applied 600,000 tons of fertilizer last fall and need about one million more tons this spring.

Sample field surveys by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Ohio showed that farmers averaged about 100 pounds of nitrogen, 79 pounds of phosphorus and 82 pounds of potash an acre last year.

If that average in nitrogen is cut sharply yield will fall sharply. Farmers may be able to shave nitrogen usage in this shortage year and still hit a yield average above the 1973 figure.

$14 billion charged against bank cards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans used bank cards more than 632 million times in 1973 to charge nearly $14 billion.

This represents a jump of more than $3.4 billion over 1972 when total dollar volume for purchases and cash advances amounted to less than $10.5 billion, the American Bankers Assn. reports.

Retail sales volume for 1973 climbed to more than $12 billion, an increase of 34.6 per cent over 1972 figures.

City Council to speed parking meter changes

Authorization to prepare an ordinance for changing parking meter enforcement hours was unanimously approved by members of Washington C.H. City Council during the regular meeting Wednesday night.

A number of Washington C.H. residents attended the session, including a group of six wives of city firemen and police officers who apparently were expecting the salary increase and benefit proposal for all city employes to be presented before the Council. But, the salary hike and benefit package was not mentioned. The package is presently being studied by city department heads.

Council members handled several other miscellaneous matters during the meeting which lasted just over an hour including the approval of one piece of emergency legislation, approving an emergency purchase for the city's sewage treatment plant, acceptance of bids for two former city vehicles and hearing a report on the disaster alert warning test conducted here last week. Councilman Ralph Cook and City Manager Dan Wolford were absent.

COUNCIL CHAIRMAN John E. Rhoads said the city's legislators had agreed unanimously to change parking meter enforcement hours at a recent "executive session" following requests submitted by the Downtown Merchants Association and City Parking Commission.

Total cost for changing the parking enforcement hours from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays will be $871.92.

The cost will be shared by various downtown merchants. There will be no cost to the city as labor and maintenance will be provided under an agreement with Charles Lee and Associates, of Cincinnati, the firm which installed the meters here last January.

All one-hour meters will be converted to two-hour meters with a rate of 5 cents per half hour and 10 cents per hour.

The expense involved results from dials for converting 142 of the one-hour meters. Cost of the dials will be $2.97 per meter or $421.74. Parts necessary to change enforcement plates on 549 parking meters is also required. The cost is 82 cents per meter or a total of $450.18.

PURCHASE APPROVED

Council members approved an emergency purchase for replacement parts for the city's sewage treatment plant. Orville Dixon, plant superintendent, said the cost of two replacement sprockets for chain-driven mechanisms on the final settling tanks at the plant is $787 each or a total of $1,574. Dixon said 10 years the same parts were $231 each and the $787 represents a 241 per cent increase. It was reported that the price could increase again before the parts are delivered.

LEGISLATION

An emergency ordinance authorizing the transfer of $11,100 from the general fund to the city jail improvement fund was approved. The funds will be used for the improvement project being completed at the city jail.

BIDS ACCEPTED

The city legislators accepted the highest bids submitted for two former city vehicles. Four bids were received on a 1972 model Plymouth formerly used by the city manager. The bids ranged from $485 to $1,110. Four bids were also received for a 1964 model Ford. The bids ranged from $76 to $145.

ALERT TEST REPORT

Washington C.H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen presented a report on the disaster alert warning test conducted here last Wednesday. Chief Denen quoted from a survey which contained comments from 35 residents. He said during the next test the siren, located atop the Courthouse building, will be operated with longer blasts. He also said the siren is in good working condition.

INSURANCE REPORT

Three representatives of the American Family Life Insurance Co., of Columbus, attended the meeting to present a proposal concerning cancer insurance as a benefit for city employes. The cost is $40-$60 per year, but a group plan can be offered if five or more employes subscribe at a 25 per cent discount.

CALL TO COUNCIL

Council approved a request submitted by the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority in Washington C.H. to hang a banner sign across W. Court Street from the Western Auto Store to Holthouse Furniture Co., on May 19 for the annual bicycle ride event. Proceeds from the bike ride are forwarded to St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Tennessee for research. The request was submitted by Councilman Hugh Patton who said the event will be conducted in cooperation with the Community Education program.

Councilman Joseph O'Brien questioned progress on roofing repairs over the municipal building. It was reported that the size of the project does not warrant bidding and City Inspector Glenn Tatman said, weather permitting, the project will be started Friday.

A request to install a light behind Sycamore Street on Second Street on the south side of Paint Creek near a building owned by Dr. Jim McCoy was relayed by Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough. The building has been vandalized several times. Tatman was instructed to study the situation and present a report to Council.

Mrs. McCullough also said that repairs should be considered on N. Fayette Street between Temple and Paint streets. The matter was referred to Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, and it was reported that the block was scheduled to be repaired by the state under a portion of the U.S. 35 bypass project. But the state's assistance in repaving projects in Washington C.H. now appears to be in jeopardy.

Mrs. McCullough also complimented the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's downtown beautification committee, under Mrs. Martha Reiff, for the tree boxes in the downtown business district.

Rhoads asked that an extension of a storm sewer be completed on Oak Street in the area of S. Main Street.

Council heard a complaint about trucks parking on Delaware Street in the vicinity of Bell's Shell service station, Columbus Avenue. The parked trucks are causing a hazard, it was alleged. Blue flashing lights located in the rear of city police cruisers also received comment. One citizen said that the lights are "blinding" and requested Council to take action to reduce the candle power of the lights or place different lenses over them. Both matters were referred to Council's safety committee.

Building permit waiver passed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County Commissioners have waived building permit fees for all tornado victims.

The county warned, however, that tornado victims making repairs of more than $4,000 still must obtain a permit, even though they are free. Those who have already purchased permits will have the fees refunded, the board said.

Demos split over charge in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. David Hall lashed out bitterly Wednesday night at State Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry, calling him "a Democratic turncoat" who has "sold the Democratic party loyalty for a mere bauble...."

Replying to allegations by the attorney general that Hall benefitted from kickbacks on state construction projects, the governor declared:

"I have never asked for nor have I received a kickback, nor will I ever as long as I am governor of this state."

It was Hall's first news conference since Derryberry made his charges public. The governor declined to answer specific questions about Derryberry's report on his investigation of alleged collusion and kickbacks on state contracts.

Derryberry, who has been considering running against Hall for the Democratic nomination for governor this year, was not immediately available for comment on Hall's remarks.

Hall said much of the material in Derryberry's report still is under investigation by a federal grand jury and the Internal Revenue Service or is involved in litigation in connection with indictments returned against several of his former aides and friends by an Oklahoma County grand jury.

4-H groups attend pig, lamb clinic

Nearly 100 Fayette County 4-H Club members, advisors and parents attended the market lamb and pig selection clinic Tuesday at the Fairground.

In separate sessions 4-H Club members taking lamb and pig projects were given information on selecting project animals and caring for them during the initial stages of the project. Special emphasis was placed on selecting meat-type animals of good health and of proper size for exhibit at the Fayette County Fair.

Clinic leaders Dave Owens, Ron Warner, Dan Schlichter and Jack Sommers also presented information to the 4-H'ers concerning feeding the animals, providing shelter and health of the animals.

In addition, Sommers pointed out that first year market pig project members may mark two pigs and show one at the fair, while older members may mark four pigs and show two.

Members taking market lamb projects for the first time may mark three lambs and show two, while older members may mark five and show three.

Market lambs and pigs for show must be owned by May 10 and marked by May 24.

Demonstration animals were provided by John E. Frost and Son and the Dan Schlichter family.

Group sponsors fair to support Israelis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Israeli Emergency Relief Fund will receive proceeds from a fair sponsored by the Israeli Student Organization and the Hillel Foundation at Ohio State University Wednesday.

The annual fair, which featured an art exhibition, an Israeli supermarket, folk dancing and singing, was held to celebrate the 26th anniversary of Israel's independence.

Drug raids made; 15 arrests reported

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Drug raids Wednesday here and in surrounding areas resulted in 15 arrests, authorities reported.

Ten persons were charged with possession of drugs or possession of them for sale, four with dispensing drugs and one with actions detrimental to health, they said.

Officials confiscated two cars, about $1,000 in cash and a small quantity of drugs.

Fayette included in 'disaster counties'

Residents within eight more Ohio counties have now become eligible for Disaster Unemployment Assistance payments, according to Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan.

The governor explained that Clark, Delaware, Fayette, Franklin, Pickaway, Paulding, Putnam and Summit counties have now been included as major disaster areas as the result of the April 3 tornadoes.

This brings the total of counties declared to be disaster areas to 14, as six were included in the governor's original announcement on April 9. They were Adams, Butler, Greene, Hamilton, Madison and Warren counties.

Gov. Gilligan explained that under DUA, persons eligible for unemployment assistance payments will be those who or work in the disaster area, either for themselves or for an employer, and who:

No longer had a job or a place to work in the area; could not get to their place of employment, even if the work were outside the disaster area, and were prevented from going to work because of an illness or injury resulting from the disaster.

DUA payments are retroactive to the date of the storm.

THE GOVERNOR said individuals recently unemployed, or those completing school or training, may also be eligible if the disaster prevented them from obtaining work.

Gov. Gilligan said all applications and claims for the assistance are to be filed in the regular unemployment claims offices of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. He noted that under federal regulations, all DUA applications for the eight counties must be filed with OBES on or before May 20.

According to William E. Garnes, OBES administrator, the level of DUA payments — funds for which are provided by the federal government under the Disaster Relief Act of 1970 — are related to prior earnings.

The OBES administrator explained that the minimum amount to be paid would be equal to the average unemployment compensation payment made by the state, or $59. The maximum amount would equal the highest unemployment compensation payment made by the state, or $114.

Garnes said that anyone who believes he is entitled to DUA payments should report to the nearest local claims office as soon as possible.

Ohio U. strike remains unsettled

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Members of a fledgling student workers union continued their strike against Ohio University today despite a threatened loss of their jobs.

Strikers voted to continue the action Wednesday night, a short time after a common pleas court judge issued a temporary injunction limiting to three the number of pickets at any one location.

The order by Judge Lowell Howard also restrains strikers from blocking traffic or interfering with other lawful activities.

Union members decided to defy an ultimatum by Ward Wilson, the university's director of personnel, who issued a "notice of return to work" which advised student workers that those who failed to report for work today would "relinquish" their job assignments.

About 125 students are seeking recognition of their union as official bargaining agent for 1,200 student workers.

University President Claude Sowle told newsmen Wednesday the school requires that a union represent at least 50 per cent of a work force.

Strikers concentrated Wednesday on the university's six cafeterias. Students massed around the cafeterias but trucks provided with police escorts succeeded in delivering food supplies. The cafeterias continued to operate with the help of administrators and student volunteers.

The strike effort was dealt a major setback Wednesday when members of Local 1699, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes returned to their jobs on orders from the union leadership.

Union leaders said the union was carrying the primary burden of the strike while its members were losing wages and jeopardizing a university contract.

They said the local felt the students had some grievances and had the right to organize.

More than 100 cafeteria workers belonging to Local 1699 marched en masse to the dining halls Wednesday accompanied by Local President Tom Atkins and two university vice presidents.

May 'big month' for clubbers

4-H Round Up

By CATHY WHITE
4-H Assistant

The days of May 1 -8 are big ones for the members of Fall Enrollment 4-H Clubs. At this time their projects will be shown in the windows of Craig's Department Store downtown Washington Court House.

Included among these clubs are four very deserving clubs. There are the three clubs from Fayette Progressive School and the one from the Special Education Class at Rose Avenue School.

All of the children in these clubs have been enrolled in the Discovering 4-H project which is a combination of several kinds of 4-H work. There are such things as electricity, woodworking, creative arts, food, and several others included in this project.

The name of this gala affair is 4-H Expo. Please try and stop by the windows of Craig's during May 1 - 8, and see what tremendous work these young people have done.

THE MONTH OF MAY is a big month for the children at the Progressive School for a number of other reasons also. For some time the children have been practicing for competition in a special Olympics program they are planning to attend.

Also, a couple of field trips are in the planning for this busy month such as a one day field trip to Kings Island for some fun and excitement. Another one day field to 4-H Camp Clifton is in the planning. During this day the children will be involved in such things as hiking, outdoor education, and outdoor cooking.

It is very beneficial to acquaint these children with different environments, situations and people. These expand their world and make them a part of the world.

If you would like a rewarding challenge, why don't you help these things come true for these children? There are many different ways you can be helpful. Why don't you find out how many?

Among these many helps there will be one you can handle.

Please contact the Fayette Progressive School or the Fayette County Extension Office today. The Fayette County Extension number is 335-1150.

Proctor & Gamble notes profit rise

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The Procter & Gamble Co., reporting an 11 per cent increase in profits for the quarter ending March 31, expects even bigger profits once price controls are lifted at the end of the month.

P&G Wednesday reported earnings of $95.967 million, compared with $86.570 million for the same period in 1973. Earnings per share were also up, $1.17 compared with $1.06.

Howard Morgens, board chairman, said profits did not grow with increased sales, however. Since 93 per cent of sales were in the United States, those had some kind of price control, he said.

Seniors of the Week

By MARY JO BURRIS

One of this week's featured senior girls, always seems to have a smile on her face. Lisa Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith Jr., 1203 Gregg St. She has two brothers and two sisters. Lisa is one of the more active senior girls, as she is a member of AFS, Y-Teens, National Honor Society, a baseball statistician, and the senior editor of the Sunburst.

In her spare moments, Lisa enjoys cooking sewing, swimming, horseback riding and listening to music. Lisa attends St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. This fall, Lisa will be attending Springfield Community Hospital School of Nursing to become a registered nurse.

LISA URGES the underclassmen to "Enjoy your high school years and make the best of them. Your friends are really important, so get to know everyone, and have a rippin' time." On her years at Washington Senior High, she commented, "High school has been pretty decent, but there are several downfalls in the system. Just make the best of what you've got and hope your future will be brighter."

Kathy Fisher, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fisher, is a real asset to this year's senior class. She resides at 149 Carolyn Rd., with her parents and two younger brothers. She is a member of St. Colman's Catholic Church. Along with her busy academic schedule, Kathy is active in AFS, Y-Teens, and had a role in this year's play, "The Mouse That Roared."

With her free time, Kathy pursues sewing, swimming and bike riding. After graduation, she plans to attend the Columbus Riverside Hospital School of Radiology.

Kathy advises the underclassmen to "Take advantage of all the good times in high school, time goes really fast and graduation is here before you know it." On her years at Washington Senior High, she commented, "High school is what you make it. I've really enjoyed my years at WSHS, and hope the underclassmen will do the same."

WSHS team bracing for TV competition

Washington Senior High School is now a full and permanent member of the "In The Know" high school competition on WBNS television. This is the first year for a team and WSHS came back with a victory.

The four members of this year's team are Don Wheat, Keith Stimpert, Bob Walters (all seniors), and Brian Galloway, a junior. Advisor for the team is Mr. Allan Salvador. The team was a challenger to the Bishop Wherle "In The Know" team which was a permanent member until WSHS came along. Since Washington C.H. won, Wherle was eliminated from the competition. Because WSHS was a newcomer, the team takes Wherle's place next year in the regular competition.

Everyone met at Mr. Salvador's house once a week on Sunday to watch "In The Know" and practice answering the questions. The show was taped last Thursday night, at 9:20 p.m. in studio A of the WBNS television station. The probable showing of the competition on television will be August 4. Hunt Carlisle, the regular host, had the flu so Dan Imel, of Channel 10, filled in for him.

When the competition ended, the score was shown to be tied at 110. After rechecking the score, however, it was found that Wherle had been given 10 unearned points so they were taken away. Washington C.H. was then declared the winner.

Scholarship applications now available

Applications for the NROTC Navy-Marine Scholarship Program are now being accepted.

This program offers financial aid for four years in college. The Navy pays tuition and educational fees, books, uniforms and $100.00 per month subsistence allowance.

The purpose of the program is to provide civilian-educated career officers to serve the American people in the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps. Upon successfully completing baccalaureate degree requirements and completing summer training periods, students are commissioned officers in the regular Navy or Marine Corps.

Applicants for the program will be considered based on scores obtained on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB), Princeton, New Jersey, or the American College Test (ACT) of the American College Testing Program, Iowa City, Iowa. Applications are available from Don Gibbs, WSHS counselor.

Plastic shipping bags in demand

TYLER, Tex (AP) — Demand for heavy-duty coextruded plastic shipping and storage bags will increase by 10 per cent in 1974, according to Arthur A. Kukla, general manager of USI Film Products.

Kukla estimates consumption of about 35.8 million pounds of plastic resin for this type of packaging in 1974, compared with 32.5 million pounds in 1973. He said 148.5 million bags will be used in 1974, up from 135 million last year.

Much of the year's volume increase in heavy duty bags, Kukla said, will go to agricultural and chemical packaging.

WCH Rotarians ready to host Kings Island district meeting

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club will host the annual Rotary District No. 667 conference which will be held this weekend at Kings Island Inn on I-71, just north of Cincinnati.

More than 400 Rotarians, their wives and foreign exchange students are scheduled to attend the program which includes business sessions, speakers and entertainment on both Saturday and Sunday.

Robert C. Haigler, a member of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club, is District No. 667 governor over 46 clubs and 3,332 members in the southwestern quarter of Ohio. The district includes clubs in Cincinnati, Dayton and Springfield, stretching as far north as Piqua. Area Rotary Clubs in District No. 667 are Washington C.H., Greenfield, Hillsboro, Mount Sterling and Wilmington.

Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford is the conference chairman and he is being assisted by a majority of the local club members in completing arrangements for the event. The Kings Island Inn is the nearest motel complex that could set aside 150 rooms for the conference, and those were all taken three weeks prior to the meeting.

DUMFORD has appointed six committees for the conference. They are reservations, Bruce Ream, chairman, Dr. Leroy Davis, Carl Elberfeld, Dr. George Pommert, Dr. John T.F. Jordan, James Ward, John Toby and Clarence Cooper; hospitality room, Max Lawrence and Richard Kirkpatrick, co-chairmen, Sam Marting, Dr. Jack Persinger, John Bath, Fred Rost, George Finley, Dale Wade and Walter Seifried; greeters, Fred Domenico, chairman, Billie Wilson, Robert Woodmansee, Lee Kraus, A.C. Heer, Charles W. Mustine, Carl Mason, Rollo M. Marchant, Dr. Robert Anderson, Walter Morrow and Richard Whiteside; publicity, Jack Alkire, chairman; decorations, Robert Lisk, chairman, Bill Williams and William Pool, and sergeant-at-arms, David Ogan, Robert Cannon and John Lachat.

The weekend program will begin Friday afternoon with a golf outing at the Jack Nicklaus Golf Center across I-71 from the Kings Island complex. Seventy-five Rotary golfers throughout the district have registered for the golf outing which will be followed by an awards banquet at 7 p.m. Friday. James Hanawalt and Paul Crosby are the co-chairmen of the golf program.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Kings Island Inn with the first plenary session opening at 10 a.m. District Gov. Haigler will present his report on the past year's activities; James Valentine, district governor nominee for 1974-1975, will discuss the year ahead, and the session will close with a student exchange program under Robert Bextel, chairman.

Lt. Col. William J. Baughn, a former Vietnam prisoner of war, is the principal speaker for the 12:30 p.m. buffet luncheon on Saturday.

A PANEL DISCUSSION, "Crisis or Confusion in Fuel, Food Finance and Government" is the feature of the second plenary session starting at 2 p.m. Saturday. Moderator of the panel will be Phil Grover, president of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club.

Other participants are James E. Slack, of the Dayton Rotary Club and Dayton division manager of the Standard Oil Co.; Dr. Roy Kottman, dean of the college of agriculture at Ohio State University; Robert E. Hall, past president of the Ohio Bankers Association and past president of the Troy Rotary Club, and Charles E. Fry, a member of the Ohio Legislature and past Rotary District 667 governor.

Wives of Rotarians will be able to visit the Kings Island amusement park during the afternoon and all Rotary foreign exchange guests will receive an admission to the park courtesy of the district Rotary organization.

Social highlight of the weekend will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday with a champagne cocktail hour at pool side, followed by a prime rib buffet at 7 p.m. Dr. Edward F. Cadman, of Wenatchee, Wash., will speak.

Final event of the evening will be Les Elgart and his band playing for dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The Sunday program will begin with a governor's breakfast at 8 a.m. followed by a church and memorial service conducted by Rev. Charles Messmer, a past district Rotary governor.

The third business session will start at 10 a.m. with reports on various Rotary activities and programs. The noon luncheon on Sunday will feature a humorous talk by Mary McBride, comedy writer for Phyllis Diller and Joan Rivers. Haigler will give the closing remarks with the conference adjourning at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Services are held for Crofters figure

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Services were held Wednesday for a key figure in Ohio's 1970 loan scandals.

Harry A. Groban, 60, was a vice president of Crofters, a firm which the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission later estimated received more than $1 million in fees and other interests for arranging loans from the state treasury and the Ohio School Employes Retirement System.

Use of volunteers in government eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A state task force working to find ways to use volunteers in state government will hold its next meeting May 2, John Olsen of the Ohio Office of Budget and Management said.

The group met here Wednesday and chose Leona Bevis, executive director of Cleveland's Federation for Community Planning, as its chairman.

Utility symbol of embattled firms

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The suspension of its quarterly dividend payment by Consolidated Edison is more than just another demoralizing blow to the stock market. The big utility is also a symbol of an embattled industry.

Environmentalists have forced delays in plant construction. The increase in energy prices caused operating costs to skyrocket. The depressed condition of financial markets prevented it from raising cash.

Moreover, its customers, who are equally pressed, have tended to become slow payers, a problem that many businessmen around the country will recognize. Payment delinquencies are on the rise generally.

And what is Consolidated Edison's solution? Well, there is no over-all solution, of course, but one that has become rather common among giant companies is to lean on government for assistance, in the name of the public good, of course.

Unlike the Penn Central and Lockheed and some airlines, which sought aid from the federal government, Consolidated Edison seeks to resolve some of its problems by transferring ownership of one or more plants to the state power authority.

All these facets of the utility's problems also can be found in other areas of American enterprise — the environmental haggling, inflated costs, inability to raise money, slow-pay customers, the high cost of borrowing.

They are the business challenges of the day, and while businessmen are always facing and attempting to overcome challenges, many of them would agree that the set they now face makes them wonder if their abilities are sufficient.

Con Ed, as it is familiarly but not warmly called by customers, had been paying dividends every quarter since 1885. Of late that dividend, of $1.80 a share, represented more than a 9 per cent return.

Dividend consistency of that kind is what attracts investors, as opposed to speculators. Con Ed might have been an unexciting stock but it was safe and you could depend on it for steady income — until 1974.

In breaking that 89-year-old record, Con Ed probably has destroyed that feeling of investor security for years to come, not only for itself but for a lot of other utilities to which it might be compared.

Con Ed always could count on raising money too, it seemed, because it was the only electric utility in the biggest city of America, assured of income and growth and therefore of the ability to earn money, pay back loans.

But with the prime rate over 10 per cent even Con Ed balked. It could, as an alternative, go into the equity market by selling stock, but even at a relatively low price of $18, now around $12, there was a question of attracting buyers. Stock markets aren't what they used to be; there are fewer buyers.

Kennedy dips in popularity with Demos

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has suffered a dramatic dip in support for the 1976 presidential nomination among Democratic party leaders, according to a survey by the Christian Science Monitor.

The survey published today shows that only 38 per cent of the 103 state party chairmen and national committeemen who responded see the Massachusetts Democrat as a frontrunner for 1976, compared with 77 per cent who considered Kennedy the front runner in a similar survey which drew 98 respondents last November.

The Monitor said Watergate was the biggest factor in Kennedy's slipping popularity. Democratic leaders who have changed their minds seem convinced the party needs a "Mr. Clean" as a candidate and that Chappaquiddick will rule out Kennedy as a contender, the Monitor said.

Chappaquiddick refers to an accident in 1969 in which a car driven by Kennedy plunged into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., killing a passenger with the senator, Mary Jo Kopechne.

"Kennedy's blemishes now stand out because of Watergate," the newspaper quoted one Midwestern Democrat as saying. "If he is nominated, he will be haunted by Chappaquiddick. He's the wrong man for the times."

HARBOR TOWN — This community of expensive condominiums and golf courses has become a favorite retirement playground for the wealthy on Hilton Head Island, off the South Carolina Coast. But Hilton Head Island is also a work ground for the middle class and a homeland for a thousand or more blacks.

Hilton Head Island shared by rich, poor as development is stepped up

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hilton Head Island, a 42-square-mile, shoe-shaped hunk of land off the South Carolina coast, has become a retirement paradise, a favorite vacation spot, a playground for the rich, a work ground for the middle class, and a homeland for a thousand or more blacks.

There are no bright, flashing neon signs, no industrial plants to belch smoke into the air, no traffic jams, no litter along the roadway, no polluted streams.

Joe Fraser, president of the Sea Pines Co., one of the major developers of the island, said in an interview, "We are making every effort to protect the environment of Hilton Head, because we want at least one section of this nation to be untouched by pollution, and because it is simply good business sense."

Abe Grant is a 35-year-old black who has lived most of his life on the island and is the owner of a small grocery, pool room and motel.

"There have been some bit changes in the past few years," he said, "and as far as I am concerned the changes have been for the benefit of me, my family and my people.'"

CINDY BAYSDENT works in one of the exclusive shops at Harbor Town, and her husband is with one of the island development firms.

"I have been here almost three years," she said, "and it is a unique way of life. I was in Atlanta recently, and the traffic and the noise was unbearable, especially in contrast to Hilton Head. It is like living in a small town, but what a beautiful small town, with the beaches and the woods and the wildlife."

Dr. Frank Arnold, who for 30 years was an environmentalist with the South Carolina Health Department, is one of the men now responsible for protecting the ecology of the island.

He is consulted in the initial planning stages of new developments, and his advice is followed so there will be only minimal damage to the wildlife, the land and the sea.

One of the new residential developments is called Hilton Head Plantation, and on the insistence of Arnold, steps were taken to protect the nearby ruins of Ft. Mitchell, a Union outpost during the Civil War; to leave untouched a large marchland and to prohibit any construction in an area that appears to be an ancient Indian settlement.

ON OTHER sections of the island, developers have agreed to a hands-off policy for Cypress Swamp, 250 acres of salt marshes where the giant black cypress trees grow; to stay far away from the two island rookeries where wildfowl breed and which are included among the 13 rookeries that remain along the eastern seaboard; and to protect Whooping Crane Pond, another wildlife sanctuary.

The island is dotted with 10 golf courses, tennis courts, riding stables, numerous swimming pools and several children's playgrounds with the play equipment built of wood to blend into the natural background.

Hilton Head Island was discovered by the Spanish in 1521 and later chartered by British Capt. William Hilton, who named it after himself. It became a land of large plantations, and then the target of the greatest amphibious operation in military history prior to World War II. It was captured by Union forces Nov. 7, 1861.

Still later it became the home of the grandsons and granddaughters of black freedmen, who came to Hilton Head after the Civil War and purchased the rich loam for 15 cents an acre.

ABOUT 25 YEARS ago, land developers moved in and realized the potential for a resort and retirement community. Since then land costs have skyrocketed.

A tract of slightly more than 1.2 acres in the Hilton Head Plantation development will sell from $15,000 to $85,000. There is then the cost of constructing a home.

It was once said that if a person had to ask how much a lot would cost, he couldn't afford to live on Hilton Head.

But, Fraser said, the developers of the island, which has a permanent population of about 7,500, want "to keep a balance between retirement, resort and other full-time residents. We want this to become, as near as possible, a normal community."

Baling wire short, costly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baling wire not only is in short supply as farmers begin to look toward the 1974 haying season but is much more expensive than a year ago, the Agriculture Department says.

A survey by the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service showed that average retail wire prices this month were about $26 per 100-pound box, about double a year ago. But prices varied widely, the agency said, from $18 to $80 per box.

The report said wire manufacturers were charging $15.50 to $25 per box, compared with $12.75 this time last year. Officials said wire supplies may fall 25 to 30 per cent short of need this season, although larger imports could cut the gap.

Twine used for hay baling also is short in many areas, and prices have risen to around $24 per 40-pound bale on the average, the report said. The price range, however, was from $16.50 per bale to about $35. A year ago twine averaged about $9 per bale, the report said.

Fertilizer beats salt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Indianapolis woman has come up with her own solution to the problem of having salt tracked into her house during the winter.

Instead of using salt to melt ice on sidewalks, Thelma Miller sprinkles fertilizer.

Mrs. Miller says the fertilizer sweeps off rugs much more easily than salt. And in the spring, the lawn alongside the walks is much greener.

Last winter some of the fertilizer washed onto nearby strawberry beds, Mrs. Miller said, and "Boy, did we have good, big strawberries!"

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency reminds you that when you throw away non-returnable beverage bottles or cans, you are not only adding to our enormous solid waste problem, but you are throwing away a product that required large amounts of energy to produce. As an alternative, buy beverages only in returnable bottles.

Metzenbaum-Glenn struggle expected to be close race

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Outside the Flat-Iron Cafe, Mary Anne Maykowski leaned on a car hood and explained why she wants John H. Glenn to be Ohio's next senator.

"He's my hero," the plump, middle-aged woman sporting an "Impeach Nixon" button said of America's first orbiting astronaut. "He's got integrity, and that comes first with me." What about Howard Metzenbaum, she was asked. "He's been a politician," she said of the millionaire Cleveland lawyer, now Ohio's appointed junior senator and Glenn's May 7 Democratic primary opponent. "He's not a neophyte. John Glenn has never been elected to anything."

In Columbus the next day, however, taxi driver Harry Williams said he will vote for Metzenbaum because "he's always been for the little man."

"But he's got a rough road to travel," Williams added. "Glenn is very popular and a lot of Republicans will switch over, and there's the tax thing."

A few blocks away, one of Ohio's canniest Democratic politicians leaned back in his chair. "Howard's hurting, and it's all that tax issue," he said.

"That tax issue" stems from Metzenbaum's disclosure that, though he had large income and a net worth of $3.6 million, he paid no federal income taxes in 1969 because of large business losses.

Ten days after the senator released summaries of his assets and taxes, Glenn released a far more detailed financial report, including income tax returns back to 1965. The difference, he said, "Is like the difference between edited summaries of the Watergate tapes and the tapes themselves." Amid persistent headlines about Watergate and President Nixon's tax problems, the financial disclosure issue is the main reason why, according to polls and the estimates of both sides.

Glenn is leading two weeks before the May 7 primary.

Four years ago, Metzenbaum edged Glenn by 13,422 votes in a Senate primary but lost the general election to Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr. If the result is reversed in 1974, it will present striking testimony to the effect of the disclosure issue in the year of Watergate.

Metzenbaum and his strategists think the senator can still win.

They count heavily on television commercials, showing him working as a senator and featuring fellow senators William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and three televised debates, the first tonight in Cleveland.

"By the time we get done with the debates, he will either have chewed me up or I'll have eaten him alive," Metzenbaum said in an interview. "It won't be a draw."

On the eve of the debates, interviews with politicians and voters produced surprising agreement, including:

—The primary winner will be the strong favorite in November against Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk. Perk has only token opposition for the Republican nomination. Both sides agree Glenn would have the easier time against the mayor.

—Metzenbaum is far better organized. He has the support of Gov. John J. Gilligan, organized labor and the state Democratic organization. The latter plans to mail 1.2 million letters in behalf of the Democratic ticket and is organizing a massive effort to get supporters to the polls election day.

—Glenn may cut into Metzenbaum's labor-black base. His support by the anti-Gilligan Franklin County Columbus Democratic organization means he'll probably reverse the senator's 1970 margin there. He expects again to carry conservative rural areas, as he did in winning 75 of 88 counties in 1970.

—Metzenbaum will spend close to $700,000 by May 7. Glenn hoped to equal that but has had difficulty raising money and probably won't go over $400,000.

—Metzenbaum has gained momentum in the past 10 days. With polls showing him anywhere from two to 11 points behind, he has sought to put Glenn on the defensive by challenging his finances the former astronaut failed to pay local property taxes for two years.

The two candidates are both liberal Democrats. They agree on most issues.

The 52-year-old Glenn generally is well liked.

On the other hand, the 56-year-old Metzenbaum is considered cold and calculating even by supporters.

"I'm going to vote for him because I think he'd make a better senator," a woman said. "But I still don't like him."

"Who likes him?" asked her husband.

In style and approach, the two differ considerably. Glenn is a low-key, earnest campaigner. Twelve years after he orbited the earth, he remains slim, likes to job daily and relaxes by driving his own car.

Metzenbaum is a compulsive worker. He is a hard-driving candidate who puts emotion into his speeches. He seldom relaxes. Speaking to about 80 retired persons at an Eagles Club luncheon in Akron, Glenn talked about health insurance, pension reform and cost-of-living increases in Social Security.

His main goal, he said, is "the restoration of confidence in our top government officials," adding that one way to do this is to make sure that "everything about them is open to scrutiny."

He said that most senators are lawyers, like Metzenbaum, and, "I think it's time we had a few other people represented in the Senate besides the lawyers."

The audience, which listened quietly, gave Glenn a standing ovation.

In another part of Akron that night, the applause was heavy and frequent as Metzenbaum spoke to more than 1,000 persons at a labor rally in a smoky, crowded Knights of Columbus hall.

"I don't know what it is to pussyfoot with the issues, so I say it bluntly," Metzenbaum said. He told the blue-collar audience that the President of the Questor Corp. of Toledo, of which Glenn is a board member, was trying to raise $200,000 from Republicans for Glenn's campaign.

"I think the business community should support Glenn's efforts, but I think the labor community should support Howard Metzenbaum," said the former labor lawyer. Metzenbaum hit the same theme the following night to a very different audience, some of Cleveland's wealthiest businessmen at a $100-a-plate dinner that raised some $85,000.

He charged Glenn was getting his money from "a group of Republicans who think they're going to buy the Democratic party."

While the senator was making money, Glenn was losing several hundred dollars about a mile away, as he charged only 99 cents for a $2.50 corned beef and cabbage dinner at the Flatiron Cafe.

With former pro-football star Roosevelt Grier leading his blocking, Glenn pushed his way into the crowd of 400 for an event whose main value was considerable free television exposure.

He needs all the free TV time he can get, since Metzenbaum probably will outspend him two-to-one in paid radio and television advertising. To offset the senator's advantage, Glenn plans to concentrate his commercials in Cleveland, whose television stations reach 40 per cent of Ohio's Democratic voters.

That's where the primaries will be won. Gov. Gilligan, who appointed Metzenbaum in December when Republican William Saxbe resigned to become attorney general, says: "I think it's close, but I think Howard will win it."

Metzenbaum's forces are counting on a light turnout, expected to be about one million of the 4.5 million registered voters. Ohio has no party registration, but a GOP gubernatorial primary is expected to limit cross-overs.

Memo on LaFatch pondered by Smith

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Franklin County Prosecutor George C. Smith is considering a memo that indicates Akron businessman Anthony P. LaFatch probably will not be tried here on state charges in connection with a 1973 stock scandal.

Smith said if any charges are filed, the memo prepared by Richard Saeward indicates Akron probably would be the proper location.

LaFatch was acquitted last month of federal charges he extorted $50,000 from Realty National Corp. to aid in getting Ohio Commerce Department approval for a stock issue.

Blame middlemen for high food cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — If middlemen had passed along all the reductions in farm prices last month, consumers would have seen retail food costs drop instead of rise again, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

Instead, new figures showed Wednesday, middlemen let their margins widen 5.2 per cent while farmers saw their share of food spending drop 4.2 per cent from February to March.

The figures were compiled by USDA experts, based in part on other government readings on retail food-prices in March. Put together, the statistics showed a market basket of U.S. farm produced food rose 0.9 per cent during the month to another record of $1,747 on an annual basis.

As used by the department, the market basket includes enough store-bought food for a household of 3.2 persons for an entire year. The basket is used as an indicator to show how consumer food spending splits up among farmers and middlemen processors and sellers.

The March figures showed farmers received an equivalent of $762 of the consumer basket, down $33 from February. But the middleman share was $985 in March, up $48 from February, thus more than offsetting the decline in farm value.

Compared with March 1973, the new figures showed the farm share gained 15.1 per cent of $100 and that middleman margains rose 23.8 per cent or $189 during the year. Over-all, the cost of the basket to consumers jumped 19.9 per cent or $289 during the 12 months.

An official report by the department said "sharply wider spreads" occurred during the month for meats, oilseeds, bakery goods, cereal products and fresh vegetables while those for poultry and eggs decreased.

Returns to farmers dropped the most for beef cattle, hogs, eggs, wheat and some fresh vegetables, the report said. That left farmers with an average of 43.6 cents of each dollar consumers spent on food during March, down from 45.9 cents in February.

The report showed choice steers sold by producers on Midwest markets averaged $42.22 per 100 pounds of liveweight in March, down from $46.11 in February. Hogs were $34.88 per 100 pounds, compared with $39.73 a month earlier.

Prime rate up again

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 10 major commercial banks, including the world's largest, have raised their prime lending rate to a record 10½ per cent.

Analysts attributed the latest increase in the prime to high rates for short-term loans on which banks rely for their funds.

The prime is the rate banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers. It is not tied directly to other bank loan rates but a higher prime can also lead to increases in those rates.

Leading the list of banks raising the prime to 10½ per cent Wednesday was the San Francisco-based Bank of America, the world's largest.

Others taking the step included New York's Chemical Bank, the nation's sixth largest commercial bank; Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh, 13th in size; National Bank of Detroit, 17th, and First National Bank of Boston, 18th.

Israel to ignore U.N. action condemning Lebanon raids

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel says it will continue to raid southern Lebanon in retaliation for guerrilla attacks from there despite the United Nations Security Council's seventh condemnation of such action.

The council on Wednesday night adopted a resolution condemning Israel for its April 12 raid on six Lebanese villages in retaliation for the guerrilla massacre of 18 Israelis the day before in the village of Qiryat Shmona. Lebanon said the Israelis killed three civilians and kidnaped 13 others.

The vote was 13-0, with China and Iraq not participating and the Soviet Union and Byelorussia abstaining. It was the council's seventh condemnation of a retaliatory Israeli raid into Lebanon.

The resolution also condemned "all acts of violence, especially those which result in the tragic loss of innocent civilian life." But the council by a vote of 7-6 rejected an American amendment specifically including the attack at Qiryat Shmona in the condemnation.

Israel's delegation walked out of the council chamber just before the voting. Chief Delegate Yosef Tekoah said the resolution was a "gross miscarriage of justice" because it did not condemn the Palestinian guerrillas. He warned again that "Israel will continue to hold the Lebanese government responsible for any armed attacks organized or perpetrated in Lebanon."

The United States voted for the resolution after the defeat of its amendment. U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali said despite the failure of his attempt to get specific mention of Qiryat Shmona, "we believe the resolution ... did condemn all violence, whatever its origin, including the tragedy at Qiryat Shmona."

It was the third time the United States has voted against Israel in the council.

Convict freed through error

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man serving a prison sentence in the shooting and robbery of Sen. John C. Stennis had a little vacation from prison life until officials realized he'd been freed accidentally.

John S. Marshall, 24, was in court Monday and had three other charges dismissed in connection with the shooting of the Mississippi Democrat in January 1973. After his court appearance Marshall went free, and one official said the dismissal of the charges apparently was misinterpreted.

FBI agents picked up Marshall at his home about 24 hours later. The circumstances leading to his freedom are under investigation.

Bases loaded walk gives Reds 1-0 win

Cincinnati walks past Chicago Cubs

CINCINNATI — A missed take sign, a low fast ball with the bases loaded on a 3-1 pitch and Chicago Cubs pitcher Bill Bonham's best performance of the season wound up in a loss.

Cincinnati outfielder George Foster said he wasn't even looking down the line to the coaches before the pitch. He walked and the Reds won 1-0.

"If it had been a strike I would be swinging," said Foster. Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson buried his face in his hands laughing. He thought Foster caught the sign not to swing.

"I was trying to throw a strike," said Bonham, 1-3, obviously tired after the pitching duel with winner Jack Billingham, 3-1. "I didn't care if he was hitting or taking but I didn't do a very good job."

The Reds only previous threat was in the first inning when Pete Rose doubled but died on base when Bonham, who fanned nine in the contest, struck out the side.

Bonham, alternating fast balls with a new change-up pitch, kept Cincinnati off balance throughout.

At one point, Rose, 2-1, complained that a strike called had hit the ground.

"I just caught it wrong," explained Cubs catcher George Mitterwald, drawing a laugh from Rose.

"His change-up moves," said Anderson. "It looks like a breaking ball at times and confuses the hitters. We've always liked him."

Billingham, who was lifted in the bottom of the ninth for a pinch hitter, became the first Reds pitcher to finish a game this season and the first to record a shutout without relief help.

"I didn't have that good of stuff in the last two innings, my shoulder started tightening up on me again." But Billingham, after two straight winning performances, cut his earned run average to 5.1 from 7.29. "I haven't been looking at it lately," he said. "It's too embarrassing."

Dave Concepcion doubled to open the final inning for Cincinnati and Cedar Geronimo was walked intentionally. Terry Crowley, hitting for Billingham, forced Concepcion at third when he bunted the ball right at Bonham. Rose popped out then Joe Morgan singled up the middle to load the bases setting the stage for Foster's walk.

The Reds are idle today, then fly to St. Louis Friday opening a nine-day road trip.

The Cubs meet the Braves at Atlanta for three games.

Blue Lions held hitless in 6-0 defeat by Unioto

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

All year the South Central Ohio League coaches have been hearing about the powerful bats of its newest league member, Unioto. However, Wednesday afternoon, the Shermans' junior righthanded hurler, Jeff Throckmorton showed the Lions some excellent pitching in stopping Washington Court House 6-0 on a no-hitter.

Six costly Washington errors overshadowed the pitching duel between Throckmorton and the Lions' Mark Johnson. Johnson also threw an outstanding game, as he only limited the Tanks to five hits. Both pitchers walked one batter, while Throckmorton struck out seven and Johnson retired six batters on strikes.

With the victory, Unioto, which is the only Class A team in the SCOL, remains in sole possession of first place in the league with a 6-1 record and the Shermans are 12-1 overall. The Lions, which are the only team to have defeated the Shermans, are now 2-4 in the league and 3-7 overall.

"This is the best team I have ever had," said Sherman coach Don Neff before the game, Neff, who is in the midst of his ninth season at the helm of the Shermans, presently carries a 153-32-1 career coaching record at Unioto. He only lost one player from last year's team which was beaten in the finals of the regionals.

Lion first baseman Allan Coppock almost broke up Throckmorton's bid for a no-hitter in the seventh inning. Coppock led off with a broken bat grounder up the middle, but shortstop B.J. Dailey went deep in the hole for the ball and his throw to first beat Coppock by a step.

"Dailey is the best shortstop we have come up against this season," remarked Lions' coach Rodger Mickle. Dailey anchored the Shermans' defense, as he handled five chances with perfection.

Unioto quickly jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. All four runs were unearned, as the Lions committed three errors. Sophomore Roger Rutherford doubled to right field and advanced to third when an error was committed on the relay. Rutherford scored when his brother, Ron, reached second on a two base throwing error. Steve Chester also reached second on a two base throwing error, as Rutherford came across the plate. Sophomore Jim Johnson's single scored Chester and Johnson tallied a run when Tim Weiderman singled.

Throckmorton pulled into third in the top of the fifth inning when his fly ball was dropped in the outfield. Dailey's sacrifice fly made the score 5-0.

Chester raced around the bases in the top of the sixth frame. He led off with a triple down the right field line and scored when the throw to third went by everyone.

Tonight, Washington Court House will be hosting Chillicothe.

Would you believe, Texas in first?

By The Associated Press

The old gag used to go something like this: Washington ... first in war, first in peace and last in the American League. Would you believe first in the American League?

Oh, it's not really the Washington Senators; it's the Texas Rangers. And it's not really the entire American League, just the AL West. And the lead is only a tiny one-half game over the world champion Oakland A's.

But there is the transplanted franchise in first place today, podnuh, thanks to Wednesday night's 3-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox ... the first time the club has been in undisputed possession of first place in either Washington or Texas uniforms since 1948, according to publicist Burt Hawkins.

Elsewhere, New York's Graig Nettles tied the AL record for most April homers by swatting his 10th in the Yankees' 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals, the Chicago White Sox whipped the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2, the Baltimore Orioles edged the California Angels 4-3, the Detroit Tigers downed the Minnesota Twins 8-4 and Oakland trounced the Cleveland Indians 9-2.

The Rangers used a little luck to win Wednesday night's contest. Lenny Randle's catchable pop fly in the seventh inning became a tie-breaking two-run double when Boston left fielder Carl "Alphonse" Yastrzemski and center fielder Juan "Gaston" Beniquez couldn't decide who should catch it.

Yankees 4, Royals 3

Nettles' 10th home run in 17 games was the talk of New York but it was Roy White's double following a walk to Jim Mason in the seventh inning that produced the winning run. Thurman Munson hit a two-run homer for the winners.

White Sox 7, Brewers 2

Eddie Leon, hitless in 12 previous at-bats, singled in what turned out to be the winning run with his first hit of the season.

Orioles 4, Angels 3

Don Baylor doubled home the eventual winning run in the eighth inning and reliever Bob Reynolds choked off a California uprising in the ninth to save the triumph for Dave McNally.

Tigers 8, Twins 4

Jerry Moses and Aurelio Rodriguez delivered two-run triples for Detroit. Doubles by Gary Sutherland and Jim Northrup produced the first run in the opening inning and Willie Horton singled in another. Horton and Rodriguez singled in the sixth before Moses tripled and Rodriguez slammed his triple in the seventh.

A's 9, Indians 2

Sal Bando drove in five runs with a double, a sacrifice fly and his third homer, helping Ken Holtzman gain his first victory.

Pirates out of NL basement

By The Associated Press

It's not exactly what you'd call a winning streak ... but then, two in a row is better than nothing at all.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, preseason picks to win the National League's East Division flag, have looked like anything but winners thus far this season. In fact, it took them 14 games before they could put victories back to back.

They finally did it Wednesday night, using an old, reliable method ... Pirate Power!

Richie Hebner, Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen slugged the home runs that boosted the Bucs to a 5-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves ... and out of the basement for the first time this year.

In Wednesday's other National League games, Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0, Houston swamped St. Louis 9-4, Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 6-1 and San Diego beat the New York Mets 4-3. Montreal's game at San Francisco was rained out.

"Two in a row! Wow! That's really a streak, isn't it?" Hebner said sarcastically after the victory. Hebner hit a first-inning solo shot, Stargell made it 3-0 in the fifth, the Braves got two runs in the sixth, one of them on Dusty Baker's homer, but Sanguillen wrapped it up in the eighth with a two-run clout.

Astros 9, Cards 4

Pitcher Dave Roberts slugged a two-run homer and Tommy Helms drove in four runs in the Astros' rout.

Dodgers 6, Phillies 1

Jim Wynn drove in two runs with a single and a homer and Willie Crawford tripled for two runs to back Don Sutton's seven-hit pitching for Los Angeles.

Padres 4, Mets 3

Nate Colbert slugges a two-run homer in the first inning, then broke a tie with a one-out, bases-loaded grounder in the ninth for the Padres, dumping the Mets into the East Division basement.

NFL grants franchise to Tampa, one more city yet to be selected

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League begins considering ownership applicants for its new Tampa, Fla. franchise today and the bidders will have to come equipped with hefty bankrolls.

The league attached a record sports expansion team price tag of $16 million for the Tampa franchise granted Wednesday. Commissioner Pete Rozelle also said the NFL would add at least one other franchise to begin play along with Tampa in 1976. The same price, of course, applies.

The $16 million price represents a jump of nearly 100 per cent in the cost of an NFL expansion franchise. New Orleans, the last team added to the NFL, paid a reported $8.5 million in 1966. A year later Cincinnati was admitted to the old American Football League for somewhere between $7.5 and $8 million.

"A number of things have changed," said Rozelle. "Television for example. The new team becomes an equal partner in TV income immediately, diluting the shares of the other 26 teams."

Tampa was one of five cities under consideration for expansion by the NFL. Rozelle said that the other franchise the NFL adds this year will most likely come from the remaining four — Honolulu, Memphis, Phoenix and Seattle.

"We are relieved and elated," said Leonard Levy, former chairman of the Tampa Sports Authority and one of the city's representatives. "We felt that whatever criteria the NFL set for a franchise, we had to be seriously considered. We're very pleased."

The criteria included "stadium, weather, sports interest and growth potential," according to Rozelle. Tampa has plans to expand its current 47,000-seat stadium to 72,000.

The commissioner said that the league has been pursued by several groups seeking the Tampa franchise and had not sought ownership yet. He said general guidelines for the club would include at least 51 per cent individual ownership, local where feasible.

The commissioner said the owners wanted to give further thought to the other city or cities to be added. He said a final decision might come at their next meeting, scheduled for June 4 in New York.

Miami Trace clubs 15 hits in 12-8 triumph over Wilmington

Miami Trace opened a barrage of 15 hits and downed Wilmington 12-8, Wednesday afternoon. With the victory, the Panthers are able to maintain their runner-up spot in the South Central Ohio League with a 5-1 record and they are 5-5 overall.

Wilmington's two pitchers were constantly in trouble, as they combined for 11 walks in the game. Only two of the Panthers runs were unearned.

Six runs in the first inning helped set the pace for the Panthers, as Hurricane hurler Dan Dieble walked four batters. Tom Pfaff led off the frame with a walk and Phil Skinner followed with a single. Both runners advanced a base on a errant throw, but Pfaff was thrown out when he tried to score on Greg Cobb's fly ball.

Tom Riley, who had two singles and three runs batted-in during the afternoon, brought the Panthers' first run across the plate when he singled to score Skinner. Randy Reiber came through with a single and Jay Mossbarger walked to load the bases. John Woodrow walked, forcing in the Panthers' second run and Steve Tarbutton singled to drive in two more runs. After Bob Phillips walked to reload the bases, Pfaff, who had a perfect day at the plate, singled again to bring in the final two runs of the inning.

Miami Trace put the game out of reach when they came up with three runs in the third and two runs in the fifth. On both occasions, the inning was started by lead-off triples. Tarbutton tripled to start the third and Pfaff tripled in the fifth.

Of the eight runs scored by Wilmington, only three were earned. Riley walked five and struck out eight.

Tonight, the Panthers travel to Wilmington for a rematch.

Celtics back in finals

BOSTON (AP) — The road back has been a long haul since Bill Russell retired as player-coach and a dynasty crumbled in 1969, but the Boston Celtics are ready once again to challenge for the National Basketball Association championship.

The Celtics advanced to the NBA playoff final for the first time since they won the title five years ago by defeating the New York Knicks 105-94 Wednesday night, taking the best-of-7 Eastern Conference series 4-1.

Now they move into a showdown with the mighty Milwaukee Bucks, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The first two games in the best-of-7 series will be played in Milwaukee Sunday afternoon and Tuesday night. Games No. 3 and 4 are scheduled for Boston May 3 and 5.

"It means a lot to beat the Knicks, but it is just another step along the way," Boston captain John Havlicek said. "Against the Bucks we're going to have to be on the run constantly. They like to set up their plays. As for Jabbar, maybe we'll have to let him get his points and try to shut off the others from scoring."

Havlicek, who played on six NBA championships in Boston during the heyday 1960s, was at his best against the Knicks. The Celtics thus avenged their elimination in the same playoff series last year when their team leader was injured.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH

With the specter of the Yom Kippur War haunting its people, Israel pays tribute to its military dead on a new postage stamp heralded as its annual Memorial Day issue.

The long, thin stamp has as its main design the figure of an anonymous soldier seen from the back. He wears his steel helmet but his shoulders are wrapped in the traditional Hebrew prayer shawl.

The symbolism of this stamp expresses the thought that the war began on the holiest day of the Hebrew calendar, the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) when many reservists were called to their battle stations directly from their synagogues while wearing their religious garments, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

The name "Israel" appears in Hebrew at the bottom of the stamp beneath which is the usual tab attached to stamps from that nation.

Also issued by Israel is an adhesive to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Hebrew Writers' Assn. The organization was founded in Tel Aviv 50 years ago by Nahum Sokolov.

Both of these stamps are available at your local dealer or stamp department.

WHEN the U.S. Postal Service issues the new 10-cent stamp on May 4 commemorating the 100th anniversary of the running of the Kentucky Derby, collectors of sports and horse stamps as well as first-day and commemorative covers will have a wonderful opportunity to add to their albums.

A set of three full color covers for the occasion is being made available by the International Stamp Collectors Society. Each cover carries a full color portrait and statistics of a different championship race horse which made Derby history. Number one in the set portrays Astrides, winner of the first Derby. The second features Donerail, winner of the 1913 race. The third depicts Secretariat, 1973 champion.

The set of three covers can be purchased directly for $3.50 from the International Stamp Collectors Society, P.O. Box 48806, Los Angeles, Calif. 90048.

Collectors of philatelic souvenir cards can still purchase the items issued in conjunction with the 75th anniversary of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society (March 8-10) by the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The theme of the anniversary celebration was the 100th anniversary of the Universal Postal Union.

Orders may be sent directly to MILCOPEX Card. U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington D.C. 20228. Copies cost $1 each (submitted in money order or certified check). Requests should be submitted on standard letter-size sheets with your name, address and zip code duplicated on the transmittal envelope.

ADVANCE information on the U.S. 10-cent stamp dedicated to the theme "Retarded Children Can Be Helped" was provided by the National Association of Retarded Citizens.

The Postal Service will issue the stamp on Oct. 12 in Arlington, Tex., during the annual meeting of the association.

The design will show the face of a small girl with an adult hand clasped to her cheek. Beneath the illustration are the words "Retarded Children Can Be Helped." Designer is Paul Calle who was also responsible for the Robert Forst commemorative.

County gets 'local government' money

COLUMBUS — Fayette County received a distribution of $12,500 in local government fund money, according to figures released by the state auditor's office.

A total of $4,569,957.97 in local government fund money was distributed to Ohio's 88 counties and 327 cities and villages having local income taxes for March.

The April distribution was $2,338,636.41 less than the March one but $44,439.46 more than the April distribution of 1973, according to Thomas E. Ferguson, deputy state auditor.

Ferguson added that the March distribution is usually the year's largest due to the great influx of corporation taxes in February (the month used for the March distribution). This year, corporation tax returns were due Jan. 31.

So far in 1974, Ferguson observed, the counties have received a total of $18,908,301.17 in local government fund money. The money is derived monthly by taking 3.5 per cent of state collections of personal, corporation and sales taxes during the preceding month.

THE USE of the percentage factor causes the amount available monthly to the local government units to fluctuate, Ferguson said.

He said that in March the state collected $62,498,237.12 in sales taxes, $39,007,526.31 in corporation taxes and $29,065,119.31 in personal income taxes.

For April, a fraction of the distributable money, or $4,189,149.16, was allocated on a formula basis to the 88 county local government funds, while another fraction, or $380,831.74, was divided and sent to the cities and villages collecting local income taxes.

The April share of local government fund money due six villages and two cities, $22.93, was withheld in favor of lump-sum payments to these municipalities at the end of 1974. Currently, there are 335 cities and villages levying local income taxes.

Local government fund distributions in April to neighboring counties were:

Clinton, $12,500; Highland, $12,500; Madison $12,500; Pickaway, $12,500; Greene, $31,907.06, and Ross, $16,709.97.

Drug probe ended by loose talk

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP)—Bartholomew County Sheriff Jimmie McKinney has disclosed he hired undercover private police to investigate illegal drug traffic.

McKinney said Multi-State UNIT Inc., Columbus, Ohio, was paid $5,500 for it services. He said it sent two agents here to aid in drug investigations. UNIT stands for undercover narcotics intelligence technician.

The story surfaced Tuesday when one of the agents was called to testify in a court hearing.

McKinney said the Ohio firm had a one-month contract, but the agents had to pull out after 20 days because loose talk jeopardized their lives.

The sheriff said the $5,500 was provided by an anonymous donor who wants the drug traffic stopped. McKinney said he was releasing details because he has been accused of pocketing the money. He said it was paid by the donor directly to the Ohio firm.

He said work by the two agents resulted in arrests of 65 persons. "It was money well spent," McKinney said. "It's expensive," he added, "but this one local individual wanted to see something done to clear up illicit drug activity here and was willing to put up the money."

UNIT is headed by Dwight W. Joseph, former police chief of Columbus, Ohio. A company letter says all agents are experienced professionals drawn from police agencies in the Midwest. It was organized to offer services for understaffed police agencies and to communities without the manpower to combat illegal drugs.

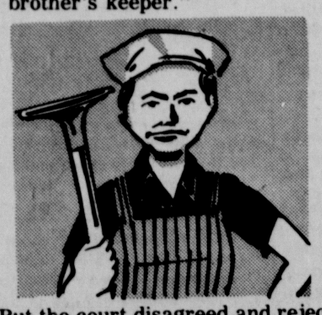
THE FAMILY LAWYER

When Kate's brother became a widower, she moved in with him and took over the care of his household. Three years later, he too passed away. At the probate of his estate, Kate put in a claim for "services rendered."

"Although my brother and I never discussed money," she told the court, "I just took it for granted that eventually I would be paid for my work. After all, I didn't have to do it. I was not my brother's keeper."



But the court disagreed and rejected her claim. The court said the natural presumption was that Kate had helped her brother for reasons of affection, not money. If she expected payment, added the court, she should have made that clear from the start.

Questions of this kind arise often in probate proceedings, when claims for services rendered to the deceased must be dealt with. As a rule, the closer the relationship between the claimant and the deceased, the more likely the court is to say that the services were given free.

BUT THE individual circumstances can make a big difference. In another case, a man sought payment for carpentry, painting, and cement work he had done on the house of his late brother.

This time, the brothers had been living separately, with their own separate families. In this situation, the court decided that the claimant could reasonably have expected to be paid, even without any agreement to that effect.

The extent of the services, too, may be a factor. A sister who took over the management of her brother's home also took over the burdensome task of nursing him. He was seriously ill, and needed almost constant attention.

After his death, a judge ruled that the sister was indeed entitled to wages for her efforts. The judge said that even for a loving sister, this was an extraordinary amount of service.

WCH represented at veteran dinner

A testimonial dinner held in Alliance honored William E. Brown of Sebring, who is serving as the 1974 Ohio commander of the Veterans of World War I of America.

The Rev. Cloyce D. Copley and his wife, Cleora, of Washington C.H., attended the dinner celebration.

Mrs. Copley, who has been serving as president of the auxiliary to Barracks 2291, Fayette County Veterans of World War I, announced she will give up her post to Mrs. Nellie Kennedy of Washington C.H., due to the election of new officers held at the Knights of Phythias Hall in Delaware, Ohio, last Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Copley had served as commander of the District 7 Veterans of World War I for the 1973-74 term.

Divorce taboo in Catholic Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)— Divorce is still a forbidden word in Colombian courts, but a rising middle class is pushing for it and other changes is a typical conservative, Catholic-inspired society.

A survey by the Colombian Data Co., a sort of local Gallup, found that 62 per cent of the male population in the country's four main cities want divorce in Colombia. This percentage is basically established in the middle class.

In a traditionally conservative Colombia these findings are likely to cause displeasure. However they reflect the passing of time. Not only divorce, but virginity, the pill and politics are being re-examined by the younger generation of this country's 23 million people. The change toward a permissive society seems to be in sight.

Eighty per cent of the student population, male and female, are pro-divorce, while 48 per cent of housewives favor divorce.

RECENTLY other surveys showed that 72.1 per cent of today's Colombian women and 73.4 per cent of them have a liberal attitude regarding virginity. Birth control is encouraged by 85.6 per cent of the women and 83.7 per cent of the men.

Divorce has been a topic of Congressional discussions for years. Despite the trend favoring it, the chances are it will not be included in the country's codes in the immediate future.

A new Concordat the Holy See to replace the one signed last century is ending a Middle Ages requirement which demanded "public abjuration" to the Catholic faith before a judge prior to a civil wedding.

BOTH the influential Catholic hierarchy and the ruling two-party coalition are against divorce. Oddly enough, an important segment of the male population in the upper social class also is opposing it, though on different grounds: the lack of a divorce legislation is a country where civil marriage only exists as an exception encourages successive weddings with no need for divorce.

A civil marriage abroad is not a bar to a Catholic wedding here.

As a prosperous Colombian remarks: "First I married civil in neighboring Venezuela. With no divorce in between, I married Catholic with another girl in Colombia, and everbody is happy."

MERRY MAIDENS 4-H

The Merry Maidens 4-H Club took a tour through the House of Fabrics in Washington C.H. After the tour, the members looked through catalogs for patterns and then left to get refreshments of ice cream cones, which everyone enjoyed.

TO LO HO RE CA

New officers were chosen at this week's meeting of the To-Lo-Ho- Re Camp Fire group. They are: Lisa Clemans; vice president, Marilyn Langley; secretary, Tonda Smith; and treasurer, Sherry Dowler.

Bulletins were given to all members who were also reminded of the annual trip to Cincinnati, the skating parties and registration money.

Members of the group were divided into two teams for a 'treasure hunt.' The first team hid the treasure and drew a map for the second team to follow and discover. The same rules applied for the second team's turn. Both teams were timed for this event.

Refreshments of pop and cookies were served to 11 members by Zina Tate and Lisa Thomas. Next week's hostesses will be Tammy Wilson and Tonya Burnett. Assisting Mrs. Ralph Tate were Mrs. Ronald Dowler and Mrs. William Pressler.

Opening lead - king of clubs.

There is some difference of opinion about what constitutes a percentage play, but often the question is more a matter of semantics than arithmetic.

Assume you're in four spades and West leads the king of clubs. You ruff and play a spade to the queen, losing to East's ace. Back comes a club, which you ruff again.

You lead a heart to the jack, return a spade on which East plays the nine, and now face a crucial decision. Do you play the ten or the king?

The so-called percentage play is the king — because mathematically East will be dealt the A-9 more often than the A-J-9.

But the proper play — considering the hand as a whole, rather than only the spade suit — is the ten. There is the very best of reasons for playing the ten, namely, that you guarantee the contract if you finesse and run the risk of going down if you don't.

Note that in the actual hand, when you finesse, the ten wins and you easily make the hand by scoring five spades, four hearts and a diamond.

But note also that if the ten loses to the jack you are equally on firm ground. In that case, your only losers would be two spades and a diamond — since you can discard three diamonds from dummy on the A-K-Q of hearts and thus restrict yourself to one diamond loser.

In the actual hand, if you play the king of spades instead of the ten, you go down against proper defense. East wins your diamond lead to the queen, cashes the jack of spades, returns the ten of diamonds, and in that way finishes you off. The so-called percentage play would fail.

Cigarettes and Ulcers

I have an ulcer of the stomach and I adhere to my diet. My wife insists that smoking cigarettes is responsible for the attacks that I get.

Once and for all, would you clear up this matter for me so that she can stop nagging me?
Mr. H.T. Mo.

Dear Mr. T.:

The newer knowledge about the relationship between cigarette smoking and ulcers of the stomach and duodenum seems to substantiate your wife's scientific insight.

Before I give you the medical facts let me add that nagging is not usually helpful to anyone who suffers with stomach ulcers. Your emotional response to nagging may, in a measure, contribute to your discomfort, for it is well recognized that emotions are intimately related to peptic ulcers.

Very recently, an excellent report was issued in the "New England Journal of Medicine." Dr. Gary D. Friedman, of Oakland, Calif., positively identified cigarette smoking as one of the causes of ulcers, and the reason why they sometimes fail to heal.

In fact, he and his colleagues pointed out that "cigarette smoking appears to reduce the efficacy of antacids in the treatment of peptic ulcers."

My suggestion: give up smoking and your wife can give up nagging.

Miss F.R.B., Penn.

Dear Miss B.:

Itching of the skin may be one of the evidences of sensitive reaction to long-time antibiotic treatment.

Some drugs that normally do not call forth an allergic response may produce one after a lengthy time. It is for this reason that doctors rarely, if ever, simply prescribe an antibiotic indefinitely.

Often, drugs and antibiotics are changed from time to time to avoid the possibility of side effects. Sometimes, a short interval without drugs is recommended in order to reduce the possibility of side reactions. Then the drug can be started again.

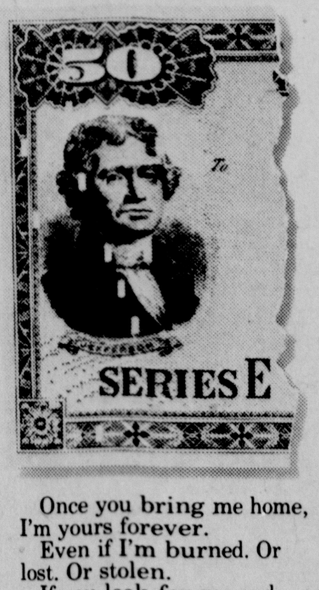
Steal me. Burn me. Throw me away. I'm still yours.



Once you bring me home, I'm yours forever.

Even if I'm burned. Or lost. Or stolen.

If you look for me and can't find me, just report it. And you'll get me back, as good as new.

And remember: I'll never break your heart. Or leave you stranded in the tight spots.

I'll always be there when you need me.

And that ought to make you feel pretty secure.

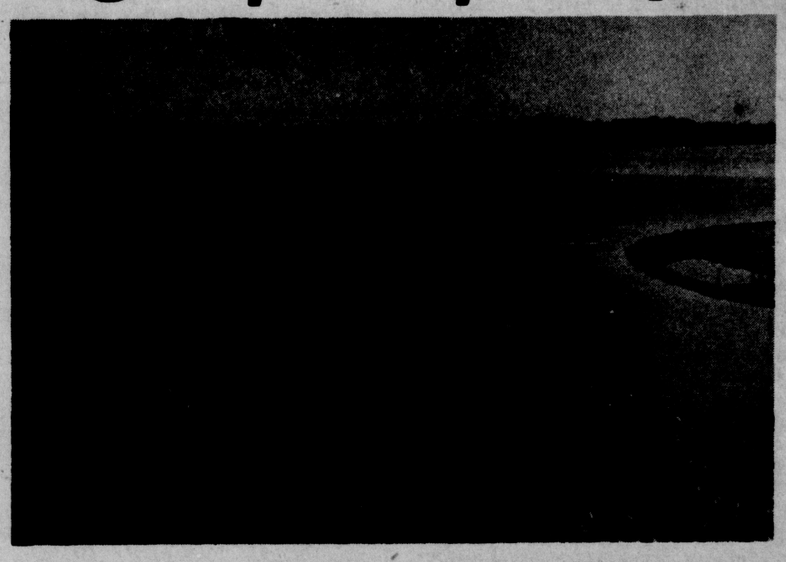
New Paint Creek reservoir filling up rapidly



WATER LEVEL RISING — Water is slowly reaching its appointed depth at the Paint Creek reservoir south of Greenfield. The dam is backing up the normal flow of Paint Creek, creating a 1,200-acre lake. At the right, the reservoir is still about 10 feet from its planned depth. It will provide recreational facilities for vacationers and visitors, including swimming and boating. Pictured at the left is the muddy bed of Paint Creek behind the dam. It will remain in its thirsty state until the water level is high enough to flow through the dam's three flood gates. The reservoir project is expected to cost more than $20 million before its completion, but it will provide the area with recreational and camping facilities as well as flood control.

GREENFIELD — Flooding of the new Paint Creek Lake and the formation of a major reservoir is virtually complete and the project will soon become a new point of interest in addition to an area recreational complex.

The project is really quite impressive for the average visitor. The gigantic flood control structures and recreational facilities are situated in the shadow of the picturesque and heavily-wooded hills of Ross County, south of Greenfield.

The Paint Creek project, which straddles the Highland-Ross county line, was basically designed as a flood control measure, but like all others constructed in Ohio it will have a number of recreational features.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Huntington, W. Va., has completed most of its basic recreational projects, with a $1 million contract to be offered soon to finish the corps' four-year program.

The state had originally planned to add some recreational facilities of its own and take over this phase, but experienced funding problems. It is believed the state will launch its improvements within the 1975 fiscal year.

MEANWHILE, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will manage and supervise its facilities.

These include a 199-unit camp site on Taylor Road, just off Rapid Forge Road, two boat-launching ramp sites, plus overlooks, parking areas and restroom and laundry projects.

The Corps of Engineers will have one ranger and boat on the completed lake this year. The Corps also will operate the camping area with vacationing college students. The Corps will have one park supervisor and an assistant as permanent personnel. Residences for the supervisor and assistant and a headquarters building, plus picnic and recreation area, are included in the upcoming $1 million bidding.

No horsepower limit has been established for the new 1,200-acre lake. The Corps of Engineers and the state will jointly decide that matter.

AT THE PRESENT planned elevation of 789 feet above sea level, the pool will reach within three miles of Greenfield from the south.

Demands from Greenfield leaders to raise the pool level of the lake to bring it closer to the village stand little chance of approval, according to Robert Sheldon, resident project engineer.

Sheldon indicated the flood control structures built into the project would be damaged, along with planned recreational facilities, if the level were to be raised. He said the level of Paint Creek at Greenfield is 820 feet, or 22

Impeachment counts may be trimmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the House Judiciary Committee today recommended dropping a number of impeachment charges against President Nixon and said the committee should concentrate on Watergate, Nixon's taxes and contributions to his re-election campaign.

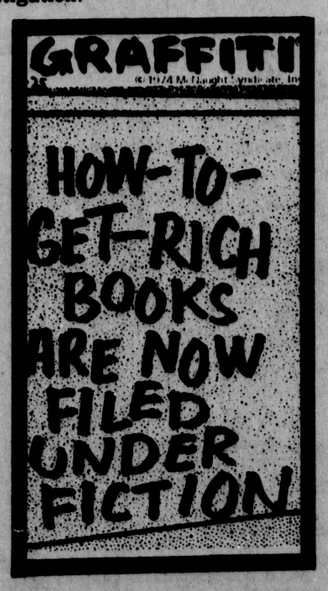
The report, if accepted, would be the basis for the presentation of evidence to the committee, which is scheduled to begin May 7.

Most of the charges that would be dropped under the recommendation relate to allegations of White House use of executive agencies for political purposes.

Also to be laid aside under the staff's recommendation were charges relating to the impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress, the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and, conditionally, the secret bombing of Cambodia.

A final decision on the bombing charges is to be made after release of a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing record on the issue.

If accepted by the committee, the recommendation would focus the impeachment inquiry on areas where the staff believes documentary evidence is available to aid its investigation.



Troops overturn Portugal regime

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Armed troops seized radio and television stations in Lisbon early today, and word reaching the British Foreign Office said they claimed to have won power from the regime of Premier Marcello Caetano.

The rebels, styling themselves "The National Junta of Salvation," pledged to work for the restoration of civil and democratic rights in Portugal, work for peace in Portugal's African territories and run the country transitionally pending national elections for a constitution-writing assembly.

Reports reaching Madrid said the rebel movement had taken control of the government without resistance anywhere in Portugal.

The reports said rebel tanks besieged the army ministry in downtown Lisbon and that four ministers—those of the interior, army, navy and air force—who had taken refuge in the building managed to slip away through a hole they made in the wall.

The reports said government troops refused to obey their commander when he ordered them to open tank fire on rebellious troops in the center of Lisbon.

Reports said the revolt had the support of 29 regiments and that most of the leaders were young majors and captains.

Moving swiftly in the predawn darkness and benfiting by surprise the rebels took over the studios of Emissora National, the national radio station, the studio of the Portuguese radio and television, and the studio of a private radio station, Radio Clube Portugues in the city proper.

Others in the coup apparently seized a transmitter of Radio Clube Portugues about 30 miles southeast of Lisbon on the other side of the Tagus River.

Shortly after the seziure the armed groups began broadcasting from Radio Clube, urging troops and national guardsmen and police to avoid bloodshed and urging the populace to remain at home.

The broadcast said that a "military movement" under the leadership of the armed forces was liberating Portugal from its present regime.

Activity throughout the city appeared generally normal. Despite the appeals to stay at home, traffic appeared as dense as ever, streetcars and buses were operating, and most of the shops were open.

However, banks were closed, and fewer people appeared on sidewalks.

Lisbon airport was closed, and no ships were permitted to leave Lisbon harbor.

Nixon will give Mississippi talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon returns today to Mississippi, where a year ago he adopted a phrase that came to be associated with his postWatergate stance: "tough it out."

Accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, the state's two Democratic senators and a bipartisan congressional delegation, Nixon was flying to Jackson to address the Mississippi Economic Council.

Last April 27, Nixon flew to Meridian, Miss., to pay tribute to Democratic Sen. John C. Stennis, who in introducing Nixon urged that the President "tough it out" in the face of the unfolding Watergate scandal.

Nixon, in his own speech, applauded Mississippians for having "the ability and the will and the desire to tough it out."

The 1973 trip to Mississippi marked the last of many flights aboard Air Force One for presidential aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman. They were forced to resign three days later.

The White House said Nixon was invited last July to appear before the economic council, a statewide chamber of commerce group, in a Jackson coliseum holding up to 10,000 spectators.

Nixon agreed to appear at the urging of Stennis and Democratic Sen. James O. Eastland, according to the White House.

Red forces tighten net

PHNOM PENH, Cambodian (AP) — Insurgent forces hammered away at beseiged Longvek, killing three government soldiers and wounding 10 in an all-night attack, the Cambodian military command reported.

C47 gunships and artillery strafed and blasted Khmer Rouge positions around the camp 25 miles from Phnom Penh. It has been under heavy pressure since the government beachhead at Kompong Luong, two miles away on the Tonle Sap river, was overrun last weekend and the insurgents blockaded the river with mines and cables.

About 2,500 troops are trapped at Longvek, which is surrounded by miles of Khmer Rouge territory.

Deer Creek plans face competition

Deer Creek or Caesar Creek?

That's the basic question that faced representatives of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce after meeting with William B. Nye, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Wednesday in pursuit of expansion at Deer Creek State Park.

Results from Wednesday's meeting with Nye and representatives from the Ohio Department of Natural Resources recreation planning division indicated that either Deer Creek or Caesar Creek State Park will be the third of three state park expansions that the department will recommend for development to the Ohio Legislature.

Representatives from the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce and delegations from the New Holland, Mount Sterling, Circleville and Columbus Chambers of Commerce questioned Nye and his associates in a session that spanned one and a half hours in the director's Columbus office.

NYE INDICATED that expansion and development of Kelley's Island, near Port Clinton, and the West Branch Reservoir, located in the Toledo area, are definite recommendations along with Deer Creek or Caesar's Creek to constitute the third choice that would serve central Ohio area citizens.

Many favorable factors for the Deer Creek site were raised during the session, although Nye indicated that members of the Ohio General

Wilmington officer charged in slaying

WILMINGTON — A wilmington police officer has been charged with aggravated murder in connection with the shooting death of a 22-year-old Martinsville man late Monday.

Wilmington Police Chief Thomas E. White in a prepared statement said Dale A. Powell, 26, of Wilmington, a member of the city's police department for the past 26 months, has been charged in connection with the shotgun slaying of Randall Goldie, 22, of Martinsville.

Goldie, who along with two other persons operated a "head shop" dealing with drug-like paraphernalia in Wilmington, was shot four times at close range with a .12-gauge shotgun last Monday, police said.

Police found the victim's riddled body in his late model sports car in a restaurant parking lot on the west side of Wilmington after nearby residents reported hearing gunfire.

CHIEF WHITE termed it the worst ambush killing he has investigated during his 20 years as a lawman.

Manwhile, Powell has been suspended from the Wilmington Police Department, pending final disposition of the aggravated murder charge.

Wilmington police said the former patrolman is presently in custody, but would not disclose the location.

Powell, married and the father of two young children, is a veteran of the Vietnam war and a graduate of Blanchester High School.

Funeral services for Goldie were held at 2 p.m. today in the Fisher Funeral Home, Wilmington, with burial in Sugar Grove Cemetery.

Jury receives Vesco matter

NEW YORK (AP) — The fate of John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans, described by the government as men who sat at the head of government and thought "they were above the law," goes into the hands of the jury today.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi planned to instruct the panel of nine men and three women as soon as Asst. U.S. Atty. John Wing concluded the final 90 minutes of his summation of the government's case against the first present or former Cabinet officers to face criminal charges in half a century.

For nearly four hours Wednesday, Wing summed up the government's contention that Mitchell, former attorney general, and Stans, one-time commerce secretary, conspired to obstruct a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco in return for his secret $200,000 cash donation to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Stans and Mitchell, handpicked by Nixon to run his reelection, also were charged in the 10-week trial with perjury.

"What this case involves is telling the truth," Wing said as he opened his summation. "What this case is about, in part, is political influence on justice, an attempt to use political influence to impede justice."

Mitchell's lawyer, Peter Fleming Jr., whose own lengthy summation preceded the government's, characterized the case against the former cabinet members as "a prosecutorial vision — a vision that they set out to give life to.

Groups to decorate downtown tree boxes

Beautification contest launched

Twelve Fayette County organizations have entered a contest to decorate the tree boxes in the downtown Washington C.H. area.

Mrs. Martha Reiff, chairman of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's downtown beautification committee which is sponsoring the contest, said the purpose of the event is to create more civic interest here and to keep the decorative tree boxes clean of debris.

There are a total of 26 tree boxes along Court Street in downtown Washington C.H. and each of the organizations will be responsible for planting flowers in the boxes for the contest.

Five tree boxes have not yet been chosen by Fayette County organizations and anyone interested in decorating one in the contest is urged to contact Mrs. Reiff.

The contest will open after May 15 and the decorating project will be judged in August. A trophy and a cash prize will be awarded by the beautification committee.

Those already entered in the contest are the Twenty Club, Ellen's Green Thumb, the Fayette County Community Action Commission, the Washington Garden Club, the Gradale Sorority, Mari-Lee florists, the Welcome Wagon Club, the Carriage Shop, Risch's Drug Store, the Will-O-Wave Beauty Salon, Ander's Greenhouse and the Mother's Circle.

Mrs. Reiff said plans are presently progressing by the Downtown Merchants Association to purchase trash disposal units which match the tree boxes.

Man lives in tomb

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — On and off for the past four years, an elderly man with a long grey beard has lived in an empty tomb in a downtown cemetery. He says "it's dry and peaceful."

"Well, it's waterproof and nobody is going to trouble a fella living in a tomb," says the 65-year-old man, who goes only by the name Phillip.

Rhodes, Brown speakers at GOP rally here

The rally featured addresses by Ohio Lt. Gov. John W. Brown and former Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes.

A number of other Republican candidates seeking the party's nomination at the May 7 primary election were introduced and spoke briefly.

Lt. Gov. Brown, a candidate to succeed himself who served as master of ceremonies at the rally, reported to the audience what he called "good news" and "bad news."

The good news came first with Brown explaining the House Judiciary Committee has decided to drop 50 per cent of the charges against President Nixon promoting his impeachment.

Brown listed the bad news as some Republicans desiring to change their party affiliation in order to cast Democratic votes. He also stated "it is too bad America had to wait for a Canadian named Sinclair to tell Americans what they and their great country stood for, and "Pravda," a Communist newspaper defending President Nixon when the American press would not.

FORMER Gov. Rhodes, who seeks another term, accused the present governor of Ohio, John J. Gilligan, of "Mismanagement" during his term in everything from $20 million allegedly misused in the food stamp program to missing election funds which he said were never accounted for, unemployment, illegal expenditures of tax monies for food and liquor.

Rhodes ended his talk with, "In the Republican Party, we can do three things: lead, follow or get the hell out of

Patty renounces family, fiance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — And now this from Patricia Hearst: my parents are "pigs," my fiance a "clown." And "I am a soldier of the people's army" who voluntarily robbed a bank.

Speaking in a calm, subdued voice in a taped message received Wednesday, Miss Hearst said "Greetings ... This is Tania." She then proceeded to heap scorn and ridicule on her family, said she never cared if she saw her "sexist pig" fiance again, and added:

"To those people who still believe that I'm brainwashed or dead, I see no reason to further defend my position. I am a soldier of the people's army.

"The only way we can free ourselves of this fascist dictatorship is by fighting — not with words but with guns."

In the tape, the 20-year-old college coed called her parents "the pig Hearsts," and at one point addressed her father as "Adolf," an apparent reference to Nazi leader Adolph Hitler. She termed Steven Weed, to whom she became engaged last December and planned to marry in June, "my ex-fiance."

Her father, San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, confirmed the voice was his daughter's, and added:

"The only good thing is that she is alive. Regarding her personal attacks on me, if she has been brainwashed, and I firmly believe she has, then it's not surprising she would say something like this.

"No matter what she says, we still love her. The girl we've known all her life would not say something like that of her own free will."

Miss Hearst, whom the Symbionese Liberation Army claims to have kidnaped on Feb. 4, said in the tape she was a voluntary participant in an April 15 bank robbery in which four alleged members of the SLA have been named in warrants. She is wanted as a material witness. Of that robbery, which she called "a revolutionary act," she said:

"I was positioned so that I could hold customers and bank personnel who were on the floor. My gun was loaded and at no time did any of my comrades intentionally point their guns at me."

Pictures taken of the $10,600 robbery at the Hibernia Bank in San Francisco showed two of the armed participants with guns pointed in the direction of Miss Hearst, who was standing in the middle of the bank, a rifle around her shoulder, her hand in her pocket.

In the tape, Miss Hearst dismissed suggestions that she come forward for a personal interview as proof she is not being coerced.

"To the clowns who want a personal interview with me — Vincent Hallinan (an attorney), Steven Weed and the pig Hearsts" she said, "It's absurd to think that I could surface to say what I'm saying now and be allowed to freely return to my comrades. The enemy still wants me dead."

The tape, which also included the voices of two men, was Miss Hearst's first communication since she renounced her family on April 3 and said she was joining the SLA as an armed comrade. She also said she had taken the name "Tania," in memory of a slain girl friend of Latin American guerrilla Che Guevara. Police Community Relations Director Rodney Williams, who obtained the tape through an intermediary, turned it over to the FBI. He said the tape was in a brown paper package along with half of Miss Hearst's driver's license and a red poster showing hands and a clenched fist. The other half of Miss Hearst's license was used to authenticate a previous SLA communication.

Speaking of Weed on the tape, Miss Hearst said:

"As for my ex-fiance, I'm amazed that he thinks that the first thing I would want to do when freed would be to rush and see him. The fact is, I don't care if I ever see him again."

Explaining the alleged reason for the bank robbery, she said the holdup "forced the corporate state to help finance the revolution ... As with the money involved in my parents' bad faith gesture to aid the people these funds are being used to aid the people and to insure the survival of the people's forces in their struggle with and for the people."

She said she was alive and well. "As for being brainwashed, the idea is ridiculous to the point of being beyond belief."

Shortly before police received the tape, the FBI announced that two rented getaway cars used in the bank robbery had been located in a basement parking garage. The FBI said the vehicles, which turned up in a routine check, apparently had been left there within a few hours of the April 15 holdup.

Two young women reportedly were called to testify today before a federal grand jury probing the robbery. The Examiner identified them as Janet Cooper Weiss and Cynthia Garvey, both of Oakland, and said they were acquainted with persons who later joined the SLA, a group which authorities say is multiracial, heavily armed and believed to consist of about 25 male and female persons.

Federal authorities had no immediate comment on the tape.

Americans abandon energy conservation

By The Associated Press

Americans are abandoning the strict conservation measures they imposed on themselves at the height of the energy crisis.

A nationwide Associated Press survey finds that automobile traffic in most areas of the country is approaching pre-embargo levels. It also shows that toll road receipts are climbing, mass transit use is slipping and the rate of electricity conservation is falling.

"There are as many people on the road now as there were in September," before the Arab oil embargo brought the winter energy crisis, said federal energy chief John C. Sawhill. The AP survey showed that in recent weeks police in many states have written many more speeding tickets as motorists press down on the gas pedal.

It was the embargo imposed by Middle East producers in the fall that forced Americans to significantly cut back their use of energy, and it was the end of that embargo on March 18 that apparently has started them back toward their old habits.

A spokesman for Florida Power & Light Co., the state's largest utility, said its customers used six per cent less electricity than they normally would have between early December and late February.

But that figure fell to three per cent in March and a spokesman said "figures the week the Arab oil embargo was lifted indicate customers used noticeably more electricity than any other week in March." A similar pattern was repeated in many states, with utilities and state agencies reporting that conservation is slipping. They noted, however, that Americans still are not using the amount of electricity they would under normal growth patterns.

The push by city, state and federal governments for citizens to use car pools appears from the AP survey to have been a miserable failure in most areas. A group of scientists at the Opinion Research Center in Chicago, who have conducted weekly energy surveys for a year, said they found no tendency by consumers to switch away from the single-passenger auto trip.

The sharply higher prices for gasoline brought about by a quadrupling in the foreign price of oil does not seem to be keeping people off the roads. But the price hikes, coupled with lower speed limits, may be responsible for the continued strong business being done by Amtrak and the airlines.

The American Automobile Association said Tuesday that the gasoline situation in the country is generally stabilized. It said a spot check of 6,152 stations found only 2 per cent out of gas, only 2.5 per cent operating on split shifts and only 6 per cent limiting purchases.

President still against rollbacks

By The Associated Press

With oil profits continuing to soar, President Nixon reportedly has pledged to veto emergency energy legislation if it contains an oil price rollback.

Rep. James F. Hastings, R-N.Y., said Wednesday he had been told by "people at the White House" that the President would not accept an amendment approved by the House Commerce Committee.

That amendment would roll back domestic crude oil to the prices that existed in November 1973, at the beginning of the Arab oil embargo. This would lower the cost of most oil from the current $5.25 a barrel to $4.25, and would lower the retail cost of gasoline and other petroleum products.

Nixon vetoed previous emergency energy legislation because of a similar price rollback provision.

Profits of major oil companies, meanwhile, continue to show sharp increases for the first three months of 1974. Continental Oil (Conoco) reported Wednesday that net income after taxes for the first quarter rose 130 per cent to $109.2 million, or $2.16 a share, compared to $47.5 million in the same period of 1973.

Getty Oil reported a 122 per cent increase in its first quarter profits, with after-tax earnings reaching $73.6 million. They were $33.1 million a year ago. And Murphy Oil Corp. of El Dorado, Ark., a smaller firm, disclosed quarterly profits of $27.37 million, up 257 per cent from the year-earlier level of $7.67 million.

Earlier this week, Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Standard of Indiana (Amoco) and Occidental reported first quarter profits up from 75 per cent to 718 per cent over 1973 levels.

"The exceptionally favorable results in the first quarter of this year are not indicative of the earnings gains anticipated for the full year of 1974," said Conoco chairman John McClean.

S. B. Pinyan, Atlanta representative of the Phillips Petroleum Co., said Wednesday it is a "phony charge" to say oil companies are making windfall profits. Large oil companies are reporting dramatic profit increases because current earnings are being compared to 1973 when, he said, industry profits were the lowest in a decade.

White rhinos arrival set

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A planeload of white rhinoceros— 26 of them weighing about 35 tons—was scheduled to arrive at Greater Cincinnati Airport from Africa today.

Kings Island Amusement Park, which purchased the animals in Durban, South Africa, claimed the fly-in is a first. A spokesman said wild animals normally clear customs and agricultural inspections at New York.

But the rhinos, slated for the amusement park's Lion Country exhibit, are being flown here directly—well tranquilized, officials said.

The Henry West Export-Import Co. will bring in a veterinarian from Cleveland to oversee federal regulations. Regulations include a requirement that wastes and feed remaining in the plane be burned.

Speeding increase noted in nation

By The Associated Press

Speeding citations by police have increased dramatically in some parts of the country in recent weeks.

Police interviewed in a number of states in an Associated Press survey said speeding tickets were up because of the lowered 55 m.p.h. speed limit and because gasoline is no longer short in supply in most regions.

Glenn aides subpoenaed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two former and two current members of U.S. Senate candidate John H. Glenn's campaign staff have been subpoened to testify before Ohio Secretary of State Ted Brown concerning alleged unethical campaign literature.

Brown has set a hearing May 2 to determine the source of bumper stickers and a letter distributed in the Youngstown area tying Glenn's opponent, U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, to President Nixon and Communist groups.

The items do not list a source as required by state election laws and violation may carry a fine of up to $2,000.

George Skaljac and Don L. Hanni Jr., Youngstown State University students, have alleged that Gary Vigorito, Glenn's northeastern campaign coordinator, gave them bumper stickers reading "Metzenbaum-Nixon, Tax Consultants," and a letter linking Metzenbaum to four Communist front groups, Brown said.

Deer Creek plans

Assembly undoubtedly would reach the final decision.

At Wednesday's session the Ohio Department of Natural Resources indicated that feasibility studies are continuing and at present the department is not ready to recommend one site over another.

Caesar's Creek State Park is located near Harveysburg and is 40 miles east of Hueston Woods State Park. The discussion Wednesday disclosed that Kentucky state parks and a new development in Indiana also serve the area, suggesting that Deer Creek might prove to be a more central location.

The developments for expansion at neighboring Deer Creek State Park include cabins, lodges, restaurant facilities, and recreational activities such as swimming pools, tennis courts and golf courses.

Nye further indicated Wednesday that the site not recommended this year undoubtedly will constitute the first priority in future park expansion plans.

While Deer Creek expansion apparently faces stiff competition for approval this year, representatives attending Wednesday's session remain optimistic and have agreed to pursue the projected development.

Stock list battered

NEW YORK (AP) — The rising cost of money battered stock market prices for the third straight session today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.76 at 828.61, and losers outpaced gainers by more than 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The bulk of the drop came early in the session, apparently prompted by the Federal Reserve Board's approval of a ½ point increase, to 8 per cent, in the discount rate — the interest rate its district banks charge on loans to commercial banks. At midday the downward pressure on the market appeared to be easing.

Matsushita Electric was the Big Board's most active stock, down ½ at 15¾ after a huge 425,000-share block changed hands at that price.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .97 at 89.54.

Among glamour issues hitting 1974 lows were Polaroid, down ⅜ at 56; Avon Products, off ⅝ at 43¾; and MGIC Investment, off 1¼ at 26½.

The Amex' most heavily traded stock was Syntex, up ⅛ at 46¼.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was off .30 at 47.66.

Near record low temperatures were recorded over Ohio Wednesday night and early Thursday as a high pressure system moved southeastward to the state, bringing clear and cool conditions with it.

Temperatures dropped into the chilly 30s over the state. Shortly before dawn the coolest spots were at Youngstown with 28, and Toledo Airport with 26 degrees. These were near the record for this date.

By Friday, the system is forecast to reach the Carolinas, giving southerly winds and a warming trend to Ohio with warm weather expected for the weekend.

Meanwhile, for Thursday, sunshine is expected to push the mercury into the 50s, and reachings the 60s in southern Ohio. Lows for tonight will be in the 40s under partly cloudy skies. Readings Friday afternoon are scheduled in the 60s or low 70s.

Fair Saturday, but a chance of showers Sunday, becoming more likely Monday. Highs from the low to mid 70s. Lows in the upper 40s and low 50s.

Bayh blasts oil program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Birch Bayh says the planned exporting of Alaskan oil to Japan could end up costing U.S. consumers as much as $9 billion through 1985.

Bayh asserted in a Senate speech Wednesday that the "swapping" of oil from the new Alaska pipeline for foreign crude oil might lead to "one of the all-time greatest frauds perpetrated on American consumers."

The Indiana Democrat, an opponent of the pipeline, said he is asking the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee "to conduct a probe into the entire matter."

He also said he plans to introduce legislation to prohibit the exporting of any Alaskan oil if this would result in higher oil costs to American consumers.

Judge attacks Armco, Republic

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A federal judge has questioned moral and ethical responsibilities of corporate leaders in the monumental environmental case involving Reserve Mining Co.

U.S. District Judge Miles Lord was increasingly critical Wednesday of Reserve's parents firms, Armco and Republican steel corporations. He remarked, "Nobody has said anything about the ethical and moral responsibility of the company.

"Where is its heart? Does the heart beat in a corporation? Do they have a soul? Or are decisions made strictly on the dollars and cents?"

At the time, Republic President William DeLancey was on the witness stand. Lord interjected occasionally as Byron Starns, deputy Minnesota attorney general, asked questions.

Attorneys for the defense objected to "philosophical excursions" and DeLancey did not respond to Lord's questions.

The judge said he has concluded Armco and Republic would be willing to see the work force at the Silver Bay, Minn., taconite processing plant abandoned before suffering a "percentage point of it."

The Justice Department brought suit against Reserve on recommendation of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). EPA, three states and several environmental groups joined as plaintiffs contend Reserve is polluting Lake Superior by discharging up to 67,000 tons of taconite tailings into the lake each day.

The government contends asbestos fibers in municipal water supplies along the lake, and from smoke stack emissions are a health hazard.

Lord has accused the parent companies of dragging their feet on plans for on-land disposal. He has charged they look upon their mining operations at Babbitt, Minn., as obsolete and have used him as an "instrumentality" in eventually shutting down the operations.

Lord ordered that Reserve cease operations last Sunday because of what he called a health menace. However, a three-judge panel of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overruled him pending a full court hearing expected May 15.

Part of Wednesday's testimony concerned Reserve's request for $100 million federal and state grant toward the estimated $172 million cost of installing equipment to dispose of tailings on land.

Lord told DeLancey: "As I see it, 3,000 workers are being held as economic hostages by two of the nation's giant companies, who refuse to put in money they are well able to put in, because it might inhibit expansion elsewhere.

"The ransom is the government aid."

See more Zebra killings coming

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Zebra killer will strike again, the chief police inspector believes. And he says nearly a week of stopping and searching young blacks on the streets has produced no clues in the case in which 12 white persons have been gunned down at random.

"I think it will continue," Chief Inspector Charles A. Barca told U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoli Wednesday when asked whether he thought the killing was over.

Zirpoli is conducting a hearing on lawsuits seeking a halt of the searches of black men resembling the description of the killer.

Barca said that since the searches had been unproductive and ineffective, police are cutting them back drastically.

"There is nothing more urgent in the annals of the police department" than to find the killer or killers who have terrorized this city since last November, said Barca.

The killer has been described by two of the six persons who survived apparent unprovoked attacks. Police code-named the case Zebra after the radio channel being used on the case.

Barca said bus stops were the most likely spots for future Zebra killings, since 14 of the 18 shootings have taken place at city bus stops. Barca told the judge an injunction against searches "would make it difficult to locate the Zebra killer."

At the same time, Barca promised that police "from now on will be more selective in making stops" and would only make them "when the individual is acting or appears to be acting out of the ordinary."

Barca said that in the six days the sweeping operation was in force, 567 black men were stopped. He said seven were arrested on outstanding traffic and other warrants.

He said the modified stop-and-search operation probably would scale down the number of men stopped to five a day. On Tuesday night, 61 men were stopped; on Monday night, 62 were stopped.

The two lawsuits, filed by the NAACP and the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of black men, asked the judge to declare the stop-and-search tactic unconstitutional.

Maiden name in voting OKd

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William S. Mathews ruled Wednesday that married women can vote using their maiden names.

The decision came in a suit filed by Brenda Marie Hope Cheatum, who was barred from voting in the special March 5 election because she had been married. The local board of elections had told her she must re-register under her husband's name.

Mrs. Cheatum told the court she was not a "women's libber," but said she had continued to use her maiden name, Hope, in business matters since she was married.

Aid to Egypt faces rough road ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed U.S. aid to Egypt has drawn an unlikely reaction in Congress that leaves its future in doubt.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a powerful opponent of U.S. foreign aid programs, said he will view the Egyptian aid proposal with an open mind.

But House Foreign Affairs Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., one of Congress' chief foreign aid supporters, said he has "serious reservations about it. It seems to me now that we're trying to buy peace," Morgan said.

"I think after the oil embargo that some of the oil-producing countries could contribute to opening up the canal."

President Nixon said the $250 million for Egypt would be "used for the tasks which come with peace," help in clearing the Suez Canal, repairing damage in nearby areas and restoring Egyptian trade with America.

The money is part of a $5.18 billion foreign aid request Nixon sent to Congress. It includes $907.5 million in aid to the Middle East and some $2.3 billion aid for Indochina.

House Middle East subcommittee chairman Lee H. Hamilton D-Ind., said he was surprised by the size of the President's request for Mideast aid, but is pleased.

"If it's tied into general progress toward peace in the Middle East, it's a pretty good price for insurance," Hamilton said.

But the subcommittee chairman said he was making no commitment to approval of the full $907.5 million Middle East request.

As for the President's overall $5.12 billion foreign aid request, Hamilton said, "Surely, it'll be reduced sharply." Added Morgan, whose committee decides how much of the aid to recommend to the House: "It'll have a rough time."

As food controls are lifted

Removal of the last price controls over food retailers and wholesalers prompts nervous thoughts about how this may affect grocery prices. Apprehension is not diminished by the fact that half a month hence the remaining controls on food processors and manufacturers also will be lifted along with controls on all elements in the economy except those involving energy production and distribution.

The main argument made in favor of now permitting big food wholesalers and retailers to widen their profit margins if they choose is that competitive pressures will hold down prices.

These pressures and other factors, we are told by Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council, "combine to provide reasonable assurances that decontrol will not result in inordinate rises in food prices in the months ahead attributable to food retailing and wholesaling."

On examination this proves to fall well short of being a firm statement of assurance. One must ask what Dunlop means by "inordinate rises," and whether those "reasonable assurances" can be depended on.

And then there is that hedging remark about prices "attributable to food retailing and wholesaling," which leaves Dunlop an out should other unnamed factors boost what must be paid for food.

We do not blame the head of the Cost of Living Council for stopping short of a promise that there won't be much of a rise in food prices. He is only recognizing that at this stage prediction is chancy.

There is indeed some reason to hope that the pressures of competition will work against sharp food price increases, but nothing of the sort is guaranteed. We'll have to wait and see.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

More impeachment politics

WASHINGTON — Anyone making early book on the result of a trial of President Nixon for high crimes and misdemeanors before the Senate of the United States would do well to look at the list of 35 senators compiled by Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

It is good guess that at least 30 would vote to acquit the President and that is close to the 34 needed to insure that Mr. Nixon remains in office to the end of his term.

Thurmond got the 35 to put their signatures on a resolution affirming their opposition to any treaty with Panama that would dilute United States "sovereignty and jurisdiction over the U.S.-owned Canal Zone."

This means that a new treaty sought by the administration would not get the two-thirds necessary for ratification.

Checkmating an important Nixon-Kissinger initiative, the resolution is a fine example of impeachment politics. So long as he may have to face trial by the Senate, the President cannot afford to alienate the right-of-center senators making up most of the Thurmond list.

ON FEB. 7 Secretary of State Henry Kissinger flew to Panama for the ceremonial signing of an agreement transferring territorial control over the canal and a 10-mile-wide strip adjoining it to the Republic of Panama. A distinguished senior diplomat, Ellsworth Bunker, was assigned to negotiate the terms of the agreement to be incorporated in a new treaty.

The status of the canal has long been a festering sore damaging Washington's relations not only with Panama but with most Latin-American nations. It is comparable in kind if not in degree to the Suez Canal and Britain's futile attempt to hold that international waterway by arms against the rising tide of Egyptian nationalism.

At the special United Nations Security Council meeting in Panama, convened by Panama, the United States was forced to veto a resolution calling for transfer of the Canal to Panamanian sovereignty. There were 13 votes against the United States with Britain abstaining.

In 1964 widespread rioting broke out aimed at special American privileges enjoyed in the Canal Zone, ruled, the Panamanians charged, like a colony. Twenty-three persons were killed, three of them Americans. The same intense feeling is close to the surface today.

THE THURMOND LIST speaks for the new isolationism as well as for impeachment politics.

Seven Southern Democrats are among the signers including Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, chairman of the Judiciary Committee. Eastland has several times assured Sen. Hugh Scott, the minority leader, that he could count on seven to eight Southern votes for acquittal.

Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia, who counts himself an independent, is also on the Thurmond list.

On the Republican side the list is heavily weighted with senators from the South, the Southwest and West.

Sen. Goldwater and Fannin of Arizona, Hansen of Wyoming and McClure of Idaho are on record. There are the regions from which the President must draw support if he is to escape conviction and the polls consistently show his rating higher in the South than anywhere else.

WITH RESPECT to the Panama treaty, a pawn in the impeachment game, Bunker is philosophic. Negotiations will run through 1974 and when the treaty is finally drawn up the political situation may have changed.

The anomaly of America's residual sovereignty goes back to 1903 when Secretary of State John Hay observed that the treaty was "vastly advantageous to the United States" and almost equally disadvantageous to Panama.

Panama is headquarters for the U.S. Southern Command. This means that from 10,000 to 14,000 Americans in uniform are stationed there, most of them ground forces. Military power would assure that the canal be held under its present jurisdiction.

But this could mean a continuing harassment as the British learned when they tried to hold the Suez Canal by force of arms. It would likewise be constant irritant in the relationship between the Colossus of the North and the world to the south of the border.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Education in the metropolis

Generally speaking, social historians can be divided into two types: the massive generalists, and the institutional microanalysts.

The generalists operate at about 40,000 feet, turning out overarching analyses of the "Zeitgeist," or spirit of the age, while the microanalysts burrow like moles, often producing overpowering studies of trivia.

Those who can mix the two genres are few and far between, but Diane Ravitch should be added to their number. If you look at her recent work, "The Great School Wars: New York City, 1805-1973" (Basic Books), your initial reaction may well be, "Oh, no. 400 pages on the New York schools!"

But this is a fundamental error which should be remedied by opening the book and reading it. I picked it up after dinner one night and literally could not put it down unfinished — at something like 2:30 a.m. I reached the end. (I cheated a little: I didn't read the bibliography.)

There is a classic story of an editor who received a new translation of Homer's "Odyssey" and sent it to the travel department for review. One fears that Mrs. Ravitch's work may get similar treatment; that is, be shipped off to the education editor.

Actually it is a masterful work of social history in which the author has employed the various battles over the organization of the New York City school system as a prism for exploring the political, social, religious and economic forces at work in the metropolis over almost two centuries. She has, as the subtitle puts it (clumsily) written a "history of the public schools as battlefield of social change."

THE NARRATIVE begins in 1805 with the organization of the Free School Society (unlike Massachusetts, New York had no colonial tradition of free schooling), which in the following year launched its first public school with 70 poor children attending.

The methods employed were designed for economy and efficiency: one teacher, aided by student monitors, could conduct a class of 1,000!

It sounds a bit like a jail, but the youngsters were not complaining: they were getting a chance to escape from the culture of poverty. Shortly, the Society got state and then municipal aid, from then to the present, education became inexorably involved in city and state politics.

Then came the Irish — poor, Catholic, yet strongly organized around their Church (a key difference between the Irish and the blacks, were flooded into New York a century later, was the existence among Catholics of a single built-in focus for community organization).

The clergy, not without justification, considered "secular" education to be Protestant in character and began a campaign which still continues to obtain public assistance for parochial schools. In 1842, after some brilliant political maneuvers by Bishop John Hughes (which today would probably bring him before a grand jury, accused of "votes iphoning"), the state legislature deprived the Society of its role and set up a system of public education based on elected school committees in each ward: "Decentralization!" "Community control!"

WITHOUT GOING into details, this led to a thorough politicizing of the public school system: Tammany Hall was always willing to suggest a principal, a teacher, a janitor, and — of course — the contractors for pencils, paper, desks and other sundry necessities. Naturally enough this boodling — particularly after the Tweed Ring had developed it into a science — led to demands for reform, spearheaded by the "best people," most of whose children (as usual) had not attended the public schools.

The thrust of reform was predictable: centralization and rule by experts — the schools should be taken out of politics and turned over to professionals. These changes were effected in 1896 and amounted to the introduction of another brand of politics.

As Mayor Strong said: local control was a bad thing in a city "largely impregnated with foreign influences, languages that (were) unquestionably un-American."

Throughout, one finds priceless proof that history did not start at dawn this morning. For example, in 1904 on the Lower East Side, 2,000 "irate Jewish parents turned out" to denounce the contemporary equivalent of busing: shifting 1,500 Jewish kids to underpopulated schools on the Irish Lower West Side!

And, to skip, nowhere have I seen a more incisive analysis of the great school war of the late 1960s, which found black militants reinventing the 1842 wheel: community control.

All in all a superb contribution to American social history.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I am writing this letter to all who are affiliated with drugs and alcoholism. Not only to the users of these, but also to all who have family or friends that are users.

Many of you may know me personally. Others may have heard of me, as I am from your city.

I have spent my life, always in some type of trouble or another. I have been arrested on uncountable number of times. However, I have never been arrested unless under the influence of alcohol.

Alcoholism and drug addiction both consume a large amount of money. Also both are in constant contact with the "night life". In other words the bars, nightclubs, honky tonks, parties or any other place where trouble commonly takes place.

You can very well be an alcoholic and not know it. There are many different types. Still they all have the same ending, disaster and heart break.

Many who see their need for money to continue their habits with drugs or alcohol and are not employed, will usually turn to the life of crime or the "easy money".

Here at the Ohio Penitentiary there are approximately 1,500 inmates. At least 95 per cent of these inmates are here due to alcohol or drugs relating to their crimes. Either they were intoxicated or "high" at the time they committed the offense or they were committing their offense to obtain money for drugs or alcohol.

The main and most important thing for an alcoholic or drug addict to consider is that he will end up alone. By this I mean he or she will have few or no "real" friends. Also even the family will shy away after awhile due to the shame and embarrassment caused them.

So unless you wish to live and die alone, or you wish to end up like myself and many others like me, I would strongly advise that you consider all that I have paid.

And to the younger people that I know or care about: Remember, I am not trying to teach you something, I have read from a book. But I am very much experienced in the matter. I have lived it.

Thank You all.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Beautiful character can make up for ugly face

DEAR ABBY: I wish to speak for the ugly men in this world, including myself. Ugliness is a terrible curse. It makes us ugly people feel inferior to the point where we seriously consider suicide.

Our social lives are deficient, for few people seem willing to associate with physically ugly people. Without sex appeal we miss a very important part of life that the average person takes for granted.

My ugliness is not a bodily one. I am not grossly fat or painfully thin, neither am I deformed in any way. It's facial ugliness that has caused strangers to come up to me and say: "Gee, you're ugly." That is the God's truth. Can you imagine anyone being so cruel?

Abby, you could perform a great humanitarian service if you would devote a little space to a possible solution to this problem. Or perhaps a reader who has overcome his ugliness can tell me how he did it.

DOUBLE UGLY

DEAR DOUBLE: Did it ever occur to you that "ugliness"-like beauty, could lie in the eye of the beholder? Some of the most attractive and appealing people in the world do not conform to the generally accepted concept of beauty, but that doesn't make them ugly.

The qualities that make one loved and wanted have nothing to do with the way his face is formed. Honesty, kindness, generosity,, patience, compassion-all the virtues-can be developed. A beautiful character counts for more with people who count than physical beauty.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who watches television while making love to his wife? My husband never makes love to me in the bedroom anymore, always on the sofa so he can watch TV, too. And it's usually on the spur of the moment, which is not to my liking.

He was a lot more considerate and loving when we were dating. He's so afraid he's going to miss something good on television it has practically ruined our sex life.

Will you please tell me how I can get him back in the bedroom?

DISSATISFIED

DEAR DIS: Move the TV into your bedroom!

DEAR ABBY: How can we thank you?. Because of a message in your column telling runaways about a program called "Operation Peace of Mind" our runaway son let us know that he was alive and well. He is only 16 and had been gone for nearly a year.

Abby, please publish that toll free number again so other runaways can let their parents know they are alive. It meant the world to us to hear from our son.

GRATEFUL IN SEATTLE

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure! Runaways, call this toll-free number: 1-800-231-6946. An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the United States and convey a message from you to them. There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you is "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can obtain it free of charge. I repeat, no one will attempt to contact you or bring you home regardless of your age.

Runaways, please forget the past and send that message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight, and so will you. God bless. (P.S.This wonderful program is staffed entirely by volunteers in Houston, and was aided by Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas.)

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box no. 69700, L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope, please.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The sound of clashing claims is rising these days because of pay TV, the system by which cable TV subscribers pay extra to see movies and programs commercial TV doesn't offer.

The combatants are the National Cable Television Association and the National Association of Broadcasters. The battleground is what the NAB calls the threat of "siphoning" by the struggling pay TV industry.

The NAB, representing 531 TV stations and the three networks, describes siphoning as "the removal of popular programming, principally movies and sports, from free commercial TV to pay cable television."

It claims if steps aren't taken, pay TV may someday be able to outbid commercial TV for major attractions and viewers either will have to pay for those shows or do without. "Free" TV, of course, only applies when you don't buy the sponsor's product.

The NCTA, representing half the nation's 3,000 cable-TV operators, calls the siphoning charge hogwash. It says it only wants federal rules eased enough to let pay TV try to prove itself in the marketplace.

The battle basically centers on two Federal Communications Commission rules that cable-TV interests would like liberalized in varying degrees. The NAB says it wants those left alone.

One rule bars pay TV from showing movies that have been in theatrical release less than two years, and only allows once-a-month showings of movies 10 years old or older.

The other prohibits pay cable from showing sports that have been on commercial TV the previous three years.

Ralph M. Baruch, head of NCTA's pay cable committee, says what his group specifically asks of the FCC is a three-year test suspension of its pay-TV rules, but with one important caveat.

That, he said, would be "the assurance that nothing which is now presented on conventional television could be diverted to pay cable."

Baruch, president of Viacom, Inc., a TV syndication firm that says it operates 110 cable-TV systems, said under the proposal the FCC would "monitor what happens to various attractions.

"Wherever it found these procedures weren't fulfilling the public interest, it could step in at any time and change them."

"We don't buy the test period idea," says Robert Resor, the NAB's chief "Free Television" campaigner. Even with the restrictions Baruch proposes, he says, "we feel that the process, once started, would be irreversible."

How many pay TV systems are there now? The FCC says it has no figures, but the NCTA estimates there are approximately 45 which serve a total of 55,000 subscribers.

What's the potential for pay TV? A recent study paints a rosy picture. It says there could be pay TV in 30 per cent of a projected 83.3 million U.S. homes just 11 years from now.

How the NCTA and NAB feel about that study is the only thing they agree agree on and we'll go into that Friday.

No arrests made in extortion bid

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— Authorities have made no arrests in an alleged $10,000 extortion attempt involving a New Springfield couple.

J. Everett May told police he was abducted by four or five men from his place of business last Friday, driven home and beaten until he promised to leave $10,000 at a specific drop spot Saturday.

May said the men did not pick up the money, although he delivered it at the specified time.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, APRIL 26

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Some challenges indicated in your work area. To handle, study ALL psychological factors. Your motivations as well as those of others will be an essential part of the picture.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Leave nothing to chance; stress your innate meticulousness for detail and accuracy. In discussions, try to persuade gently, not with force.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

You may make a discovery — both unexpected and profitable. Your clue lies in reading between the lines, studying the "fine print."

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Do not conclude a matter before all facts are known or a full chance for research given. You could be tricked into inaccurate moves if not wary.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Stellar influences beneficent. Dovetail activities with those of associates. Joint performances, properly planned, should produce fine results.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Be extremely careful to discriminate between rumor and fact, not to accept hearsay as accurate information. Some deceptive trends prevail.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Aspects not too friendly. Be tactful in speech, cautious in finalizing agreements. Some tricky spots indicated.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov.22)

Mixed influences. Some fine advantages possible, but it will be important to watch the budget and not to overcommit yourself to future expenditures.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Especially favored now: speedup action on pending projects; making revisions in ventures that didn't quite jell previously, real estate interests.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Friends and associates are working for you in the background, and you should soon profit from some efforts you have long since forgotten.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Some interesting situations indicated, but certain tedious matters will require attention nonetheless. Pep them up with one of those ingenious "twists" at which you are so adept.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Some trends changing. Synchronize your activities to accommodate. Curb a tendency to become overly emotional in a realtively unimportant situation.

YOU BORN TODAY are one of the most artistic of all the artistic Taureans — and one of the most practical, too. If you choose painting as a career — or even as an avocation — your work will be imaginative and colorful; or, should you choose writing, your style will be witty and brilliant. You have a great love for heritage and tradition; would make an outstanding historian; also, strongly attracted to the outdoors and all living things, you could shine as an agriculturist, botanist or veterinarian. You are also a humanitarian at heart; could make a great success in any branch of the medical field or in causes aimed at helping the underprivileged.

The quietest place is the "dead room" in the Bell Telephone System Laboratory at Murray Hill, N.J., where 99.98 per cent of reflected sound is eliminated.

SPRING BRINGS STYLE SHOW - APRIL 26

The air of freshness and newness makes us especially interested in looking our best. To be well dressed one needs to analyze a outfit for fashion, grooming, posture and poise, construction, fit, design, and personable qualities. The State 4-H Fashion Board, Mrs. Norman Deyo, State Clothing Specialist and Mrs. Alice Meskell, of the State 4-H Staff are presenting a special style show this Friday evening, April 26th from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at the Washington Junior High School to help the general public understand the seven guides.

4-H members, advisors, parents, and clothing judges are especially invited to attend. New 4-H clothing projects will be explained. Several projects now are available to boys as well as girls. Most projects now have an option to use knitting and crocheting techniques in addition to sewing.

Plan now to spend FRIDAY evening, APRIL 26th from 7 to 9 p.m. with us at the WASHINGTON JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM to get answers and ideas for 4-H clothing projects this year.

NEW FASHION FABRICS

A sprinkling of new garments may be the kind of April shower needed to refresh your spring wardrobe. If you sew, give special attention to fabric selection. This spring, fabric is an important part of fashion newness.

Textured fabrics are very strong. You might choose a fabric with a nubby surface such as a shantung or a tweed. Or perhaps a fabric with a more subtle texture such as matte jersey. Often, textured fabrics are made of two or more fibers; you'll find such combinations as polyester and cotton, polyester and linen, polyester and silk. As you shop, read labels carefully and double-check care instructions.

Coordinated fabrics are also fashion leaders this year. The coordinating can be achieved in several ways. For example — a beige and white flecked double knit in plain and a strawberry print. Some coordinated groups offer more choices. For example — a plain stretch knit, a herringbone knit, a knit with a jacquard flower design, and a knit in a window pane plaid — with all the fabrics made in related or matched colors.

You might find coordinated single fabrics, too. For example — a double knit with a heather tweed on one side and a window pane plaid on the other. Still other coordinates might be look-alike fabrics in different weights. Use the lightweight fabric for a blouse or shirt and its heavier weight twin for pants or shirts.

Fashionable stripes are available in many varieties including ticking, bold awning stripes, ribbon stripes, and multicolor floral stripes. Striped fabrics offer a sewing challenge! Plan the pattern layout carefully so the lines created by the stripes will be pleasing to your figure.

Other fashion fabrics include heather and tweed motifs, often in natural browns., beige and earthy tones; classic prints such as polka dots, checks and plaids, especially the window pane plaids; and soft sheers — chiffons for evening, sheer cottons for day wear.

As you work with sheer fabrics, beware of little details that mar the looks of a garment. Remember inner construction details, such as seams and darts, will show through the fabric. That means no raveling edges are allowed! Hems and other edge finishes may be conspicuous. Experiment to see if a narrow rolled hem or bound edges would be more attractive than an ordinary hem and facings.

So don't let spring showers dampen your spirits. Spend a rainy afternoon at the fabric store or at your sewing machine!

Area Recognition Day observed by TOPS chapters

Saturday, the losers were the winners! And that's the best way, for the losers are all members of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly), and this was the Area Recognition Day for all TOPS chapters of the Western Ohio Area.

The Ohio Theatre, downtown Columbus, hosted over 1000 TOPS members, mostly women, at an all day meeting designed to recognize the best losers for 1973 and to give title to the Queen, who lost the most weight in TOPS to attain, in 1973, her own doctor's prescribed weight goal.

Attending from the local OH 669 chapter were Mrs. Ralph Hilderbrand, Mrs. Beryl Smith, Mrs. Bernard Huffman, Mrs. Imogene McCoy, Mrs. Henry Paul, Mrs. Ronald Burns, Mrs. Forrest Stevens, Mrs. Joe Satchell, Mrs. Richard Wilson, Mrs. Orlyn Wilt, Mrs. Dale Dunn and Mrs. Leo Merritt.

Mrs. Burns was the 'chapter queen' and graduated as a KOPS along with Mrs. Satchell; Mrs. Huffman participated in the 'baggy dress' parade and was honored, as was Mrs. Dunn as KOPS-in-Long-Standing. Participating in the 'KOPS Circle of Light' were Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Satchell.

Rose Ann Napier of Middletown was named Western Ohio TOPS Area Queen for having lost 101½ pounds in TOPS. Runner-up to the Queen is Dorothy Grote of Columbus who lost 91 pounds to end up at the goal weight. And they are keeping it off!

Mrs. Kay Sage, Area Supervisor, Waynesville, compiled the information from over 200 TOPS chapters, with membership of about 5,000, for 1973. Mrs. Sage has been a TOPS member for 17 years. Total weight loss for all chapters is more than 13 tons.

"Records are very precise and well-documented, Mrs. Sage stated. "Each member is provided an Official Weight Chart, and that information recorded thereon every week is confidential information, available only to the member and to the Weight Recorder of the chapter. No one is embarrassed with unwanted publicity in TOPS.

"Persons have many reasons for wanting to lose weight and it is the other members who try to make that wish a reality," she said.

Tops was started in 1948 in Milwaukee by Mrs. Esther S. Manz who along with three other young mothers decided to try together to take off unwanted pounds. Each was given her own doctor's specific instructions and weight goals, and that is the way TOPS remains to this day. One diet sheet certainly will not be the right one for all persons in a chapter.

Area Winners for Western Ohio were divided by weight groupings for recognition and these winners included big losses for calendar 1973.

Fun part of the day's activities was the "baggy dress parade," where members showed the "before" dress and then modeled the "after" appearance. Members had to have had a 50 pounds loss to participate and there were 35 persons who participated. The biggest loss was 123 pounds and from dress size 48 to size 14.

Forty-five members were graduated in the afternoon ceremonies for having attained specific doctor-prescribed weight goals. These persons are now members of the elite known as KOPS or Keep Off Pounds Sensibly, and remain in TOPS to maintain the weight loss and to inspire other struggling members.

Participating in the "Circle of Light" ceremonies were 135 KOPS-of-Long-Standing, those members who had previously reached their weight goals and have kept the weight off for periods of up to 15 years.

Senate leaders seek to reinstate some controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid predictions that inflation for the remainder of the year may be higher than previously believed, Senate Democrats are trying to breathe new life into the administration's dying wage and price controls program.

But the administration says it doesn't want the authority.

The Democratic action came as John T. Dunlop, the head of the Cost of Living Council, predicted that the rate of inflation for the second half of 1974 may be higher than the 5 or 6 per cent administration economists had forecast. Prices increased at an annual rate of 10.8 per cent in January, February and March.

Issuing the administration's objection to continuation of wage and price controls, Edgar R. Fielder said, "For the economy as a whole, standby authority creates more problems and more inflation than it could ever help prevent." Fielder is assistant secretary of the treasury for economic policy.

William E. Simon, President Nixon's nominee as the new secretary of the treasury, told the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday he opposes any continuation of controls except in the health and construction industries. Simon also came out against any income tax cut for citizens, a move which leading Democrats favor as a means of countering the effects of inflation.

The wage and price controls program will end April 30 unless Congress acts to extend it.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic majority leader, said after Wednesday's vote by a Democratic conference that an attempt would be made to add the standby controls legislation to a minor bill already on the Senate calendar. Sources said the move likely would not come before next week.

Senators attending the conference said the Democrats were having second thoughts about the need for controls because of the serious inflation reported last week and the prospect it will continue.

One administration source said the Democrats may fear they will be blamed for continuing inflation since they had earlier rejected the administration's plan for continuing controls on a limited basis.

Even if standby controls are approved by the Senate, the program would face an uphill struggle in the House, which already has voted to kill all controls after April 30.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve Board Wednesday sent a major signal to the nation's money markets that interest rates will continue high and monetary policy restrictive.

It raised the discount rate on loans to member banks from 7½ to 8 per cent, a record high. At the same time, some major banks around the country increased their prime lending rate — the rate for loans to their best customers — to 10½ per cent, also a record high.

Clear skies, chill air cover East

By The Associated Press

Cold air swirled into the eastern half of the country today, while rain showered the Pacific Northwest and upper Mississippi Valley.

Although the chilly readings prompted freeze warnings for much of the region from Michigan and Kentucky into Pennsylvania, the drop in temperature also was accompanied by clear skies.

From the Great Lakes to New England, the mercury dipped into the 30s during the night, with readings in the 40s as far south as Alabama and Georgia.

On the West Coast, showers sprinkled areas from Idaho to central California and snow drifted down in the mountains.

Although most of the snow was light during the night, a snow warning was issued for eastern Oregon and travel advisories were posted for the Sierra Nevadas.

Elsewhere, scattered showers sprinkled parts of Texas, Florida, Michigan and Missouri, and skies clouded over portions of the middle and north Atlantic Coast and the southern Plains.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 75 at Key West, Fla., and El Paso, Tex., to 25 at Massena, N.Y.

Some other reports: Anchorage 34 snow, Atlanta 47 clear, Boston 38 cloudy, Buffalo 34 clear, Chicago 37 clear, Cincinnati 37 clear, Cleveland 31 clear, Denver 56 clear, Detroit 32 clear, Honolulu 75 clear, Indianapolis 39 clear, Kansas City 56 clear, Los Angeles 53 clear.

Youth admits auto larceny

A 15-year-old Washington C.H. youth has been charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department in connection with the theft of a 1969 model Chevrolet belonging to the late Ralph Bray, Rt. 2, Washington C.H.

Anthony R. Stevens, S. North St., stole Bray's car March 29 from the Bowland parking lot, CCC-Highway-W. Sheriff Don Thompson's deputies were able to recover the car the following day, parked in a field at the rear of the Agrico plant.

Sheriff Thompson explained the youth was connected to the incident when fingerprints were lifted from the car by the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, and compared with Stevens'.

Questioning of the youth by Sheriff Thompson and Sgt. William R. Crooks, resulted in Stevens admitting to the incident.

Stevens has been recently taken to the Ohio Youth Commission, Columbus, to begin serving a sentence given him by the Fayette County Juvenile Court in connection with a burglary of Fairley's Hardware Store, N. Main Street.

Before the burglary of Fairley's, Stevens had been on probation from a series of other burglaries in the Washington C.H. area.

Glenn, Metzenbaum meet in debate

By The Associated Press

An aide to Democratic U.S. Senate candidate John Glenn said he expected the former astronaut's televised debate with Sen. Howard Metzenbaum in Cleveland today to be an "open discussion of the issues."

Glenn spent much of Wednesday being briefed by campaign staff members who have been researching the issues in the race for the party nomination in the May 7 primary election.

Metzenbaum planned to undergo a briefing with his staff today before taping the debate this afternoon at the WEWS-TV studios for airing tonight.

The encounter is the first of three televised debates scheduled by the candidates. The others will be held later in Columbus and Cincinnati.

Glenn's aide said Wednesday Glenn was "not going to change his positions on the issues" in the debate. "Metzenbaum changed his position on one issue today and who knows what will happen tomorrow," he added.

The aide referred to Metzenbaum's decision to release his federal income tax returns for the past 14 years. Glenn has criticized Metzenbaum repeatedly for his failure to disclose that financial information.

In making the disclosure, Metzenbaum said it "adds nothing to a dialogue on the issues of the campaign, but it has taken away John Glenn's excuse for not facing me on the issues."

Glenn, who earlier released his own tax returns for the years 1965-73, promptly accused Metzenbaum of giving "too little, too late." But he said it was a "victory for the people of Ohio" because public opinion forced the incumbent to make the disclosure.

Metzenbaum said he paid $725,004 in federal income taxes on an adjusted gross income of $3,067,753 for the years 1960-1973.

In other political activity, Republican gubernatorial candidate Charles Fry attacked the last two state administrations for their handling of education financing.

The state representative from Springfield said Gov. John Gilligan was giving schools only 28 per cent of a 42 per cent increase in state taxes this year and former Gov. James Rhodes promised a 40 per cent sales tax increase would go to education but delivered only 31 per cent.

Rhodes, also seeking the Republican nomination for governor, told an audience in Hamilton Wednesday that the Gilligan administration has been wasting $75 million to $150 million in tax money annually.

Addressing the Lions Club, the former governor said there is waste in operation of the Welfare Department, in highway construction, education and other programs.

Rhodes charged the Gilligan administration is building fewer highways "with more employes" and the cost of doing business in Ohio is nearing the point where it is higher than any other state.

He said unemployment in Ohio is nearing a plateau above the national average for the first time in nine years and the state is facing the "greatest exodus of industry and business in our history."

feet higher than the normal lake level. Sheldon said to raise the level of the lake that much would flood the improvements already completed. It would also take away much of the storage capacity for flood control.

The Corps of Engineers closed the gates at Paint Creek early this month and the filling operation is virtually complete.

Prime contractor for the dam, its complementary dike and controlled spillway was the Holloway Construction Co., Wixom, Mich. The company was the successful bidder in April, 1970 at a figure over $6 million.

THE DAM is 175 feet high and 870 feet wide and includes the controlled spillway using three 57-by-37 feet gates, a 1,900 foot spillway approach and an exit channel 190 feet in width.

Pouring of concrete for the spillway section began in April, 1971.

The reservoir has a pool fed by waters of Paint Creek and Rattlesnake Creek and covers about 710 acres at pool stage. At spillway crest, the reservoir will cover approximately 4,700 acres.

The more than $2 million outlet works was completed in late 1970. The contractor was R.E. Dailey and Co., Detroit, Mich. Its principal components included a huge concrete control tower upstream, a bypass tunnel measuring 1,043 feet in length, 16 feet in diameter, which was blasted through solid rock.

The Corps of Engineers also had supervision over roadway and bridge construction in the flood plain. Several of the projects were handled by the Gerbus Brothers Construction Co., of Cincinnati. These projects totaled $1.5 million. They included raising bridges on Rattlesnake and Paint creeks and relocation of Ohio 753 at Rattlesnake Creek north of New Petersburg, completed in 1967. The relocation was a $1.1 million contract handled by the D.E. Goodchild Co., Inc., of Circleville.

Like projects elsewhere, the Paint Creek Lake construction engulfed many acres of valuable farm land and there were some expected controversies on prices, but all were ironed out. Some farmers were permitted to lease land they had sold to the government for crops in instances where it was needed for construction purposes.

In other instances, the government acquired easements or flood rights in some remote areas of the flood plain in lieu of actual title to land.

Meanwhile, plans for a formal dedication for the project on June 15 are progressing. Carl Sitterle, a Greenfield insurance agent, has been selected to serve as master of ceremonies for the program which will feature an address by Congressman William H. Harsha, Sixth District Republican.

Hillsboro, Greenfield, Bainbridge and Chillicothe leaders are sponsoring the dedication program with Jim Krug, of Bainbridge, serving as chairman. Krug has served as chairman of the annual Fall Festival of Leaves program in Bainbridge for several years.

The K. of C. will hold its regular meeting at 7 p.m. instead of 8 p.m. due to the program.

County receives 'rollback' money

Fayette County has received a total of $129,711.86 in first-half 1973 property tax rollback reimbursements.

The state auditor's office disclosed $1,838,397.24 in property tax rollback reimbursements were sent to six Ohio counties.

The counties and the amounts they received for lost local revenue through the granting of 10 per cent property tax rollbacks to homeowners on their first half tax bills.

Property taxes are collected and rollbacks granted in one year based upon the previous year's settlements, according to Thomas E. Ferguson, deputy state auditor. There are two settlements per year, each covering a six-month period.

Ferguson added that the other counties would be reimbursed by the state when they certify their tax settlements and property tax rollbacks to the state auditor's office. Reimbursement funds are derived entirely from the state collected personal income tax.

Farmers fight nitrogen shortage

By KEN DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio farmers, just started on their spring corn planting, are running into nitrogen fertilizer shortages that have doubled the price from last year.

The Ohio Department of Agriculture reported farmers paying up to $400 a ton this year for the same fertilizer they bought in 1973 for $75 to $100 a ton.

Field reports from other expert sources show $400 to be a desperate limit with the price actually running from $150 to $200 a ton.

Shortages of nitrogen are controversial — not that there is less nitrogen than Ohio farmers actually need, but the extent of the shortage.

Gene R. Abercrombie, state agriculture director, predicted that nitrogen fertilizer supplies may be 30 per cent less than demand in Ohio.

Other sources reported somewhat more optimistically, putting the shortage by estimate at from 10 to 30 per cent.

Abercrombie's estimate, he said, came after a fertilizer survey to be submitted in a report to Ohio's Energy Task Force.

A source in the state agriculture department said shortages reported thus far have been spotty. "South of Columbus," the source said, "farmers are planting corn and reporting they are getting enough fertilizer.

"Around Bellefontaine on the other hand farmers say they are real short and in the northwest they say there isn't enough."

Big shortage in fertilizer is in nitrogen, which farmers must have to grow corn. Phosphorus and potash, also used in combination on corn, are in more ample supply, although reports of a possible phosphorus shortage have been received.

Farmers planned to plant 3.8 million acres of corn in Ohio this spring. If the nitrogen shortage is critical enough they may shift some of that acreage to soy beans, which need little nitrogen. Whether that shift will be made will not be known until June.

Despite the nitrogen shortage Ohio farmers have a chance to harvest as much or more corn this year than in 1973 when the average yield fell sharply to about 79 bushels to the acre. In 1972 the yield was 92 bushels to the acre.

Ohio farmers applied 600,000 tons of fertilizer last fall and need about one million more tons this spring.

Sample field surveys by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Ohio showed that farmers averaged about 100 pounds of nitrogen, 79 pounds of phosphorus and 82 pounds of potash an acre last year.

If that average in nitrogen is cut sharply yield will fall sharply. Farmers may be able to shave nitrogen usage in this shortage year and still hit a yield average above the 1973 figure.

$14 billion charged against bank cards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans used bank cards more than 632 million times in 1973 to charge nearly $14 billion.

This represents a jump of more than $3.4 billion over 1972 when total dollar volume for purchases and cash advances amounted to less than $10.5 billion, the American Bankers Assn. reports.

Retail sales volume for 1973 climbed to more than $12 billion, an increase of 34.6 per cent over 1972 figures.

Nobody has any money!

NEW YORK (AP) — A series of meetings with each of the city's five borough presidents has been set up by City Council President Paul O'Dwyer, to try to save the free concert performances of opera by the Metropolitan Opera in parks during the summer.

O'Dwyer said tht $400,000 is needed. He added, "The city has no money and the Met has no money and the purpose of these exploratory meetings will be to discuss ways in which each borough could raise the necessary funds."

The Met has been giving from eight ot 12 free performances in city parks each summer since 1967.

City Council to speed parking meter changes

Authorization to prepare an ordinance for changing parking meter enforcement hours was unanimously approved by members of Washington C.H. City Council during the regular meeting Wednesday night.

A number of Washington C.H. residents attended the session, including a group of six wives of city firemen and police officers who apparently were expecting the salary increase and benefit proposal for all city employes to be presented before the Council. But, the salary hike and benefit package was not mentioned. The package is presently being studied by city department heads.

Council members handled several other miscellaneous matters during the meeting which lasted just over an hour including the approval of one piece of emergency legislation, approving an emergency purchase for the city's sewage treatment plant, acceptance of bids for two former city vehicles and hearing a report on the disaster alert warning test conducted here last week. Councilman Ralph Cook and City Manager Dan Wolford were absent.

COUNCIL CHAIRMAN John E. Rhoads said the city's legislators had agreed unanimously to change parking meter enforcement hours at a recent "executive session" following requests submitted by the Downtown Merchants Association and City Parking Commission.

Total cost for changing the parking enforcement hours from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays will be $871.92.

The cost will be shared by various downtown merchants. There will be no cost to the city as labor and maintenance will be provided under an agreement with Charles Lee and Associates, of Cincinnati, the firm which installed the meters here last January.

All one-hour meters will be converted to two-hour meters with a rate of 5 cents per half hour and 10 cents per hour.

The expense involved results from dials for converting 142 of the one-hour meters. Cost of the dials will be $2.97 per meter or $421.74. Parts necessary to change enforcement plates on 549 parking meters is also required. The cost is 82 cents per meter or a total of $450.18.

PURCHASE APPROVED

Council members approved an emergency purchase for replacement parts for the city's sewage treatment plant. Orville Dixon, plant superintendent, said the cost of two replacement sprockets for chain-driven mechanisms on the final settling tanks at the plant is $787 each or a total of $1,574. Dixon said 10 years the same parts were $231 each and the $787 represents a 241 per cent increase. It was reported that the price could increase again before the parts are delivered.

LEGISLATION

An emergency ordinance authorizing the transfer of $11,100 from the general fund to the city jail improvement fund was approved. The funds will be used for the improvement project being completed at the city jail.

BIDS ACCEPTED

The city legislators accepted the highest bids submitted for two former city vehicles. Four bids were received on a 1972 model Plymouth formerly used by the city manager. The bids ranged from $485 to $1,110. Four bids were also received for a 1964 model Ford. The bids ranged from $76 to $145.

ALERT TEST REPORT

Washington C.H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen presented a report on the disaster alert warning test conducted here last Wednesday. Chief Denen quoted from a survey which contained comments from 35 residents. He said during the next test the siren, located atop the Courthouse building, will be operated with longer blasts. He also said the siren is in good working condition.

INSURANCE REPORT

Three representatives of the American Family Life Insurance Co., of Columbus, attended the meeting to present a proposal concerning cancer insurance as a benefit for city employes. The cost is $40-$60 per year, but a group plan can be offered if five or more employes subscribe at a 25 per cent discount.

CALL TO COUNCIL

Council approved a request submitted by the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority in Washington C.H. to hang a banner sign across W. Court Street from the Western Auto Store to Holthouse Furniture Co., on May 19 for the annual bicycle ride event. Proceeds from the bike ride are forwarded to St. Jude's Children's Hospital in Tennessee for research. The request was submitted by Councilman Hugh Patton who said the event will be conducted in cooperation with the Community Education program.

Councilman Joseph O'Brien questioned progress on roofing repairs over the municipal building. It was reported that the size of the project does not warrant bidding and City Inspector Glenn Tatman said, weather permitting, the project will be started Friday.

A request to install a light behind Sycamore Street on Second Street on the south side of Paint Creek near a building owned by Dr. Jim McCoy was relayed by Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough. The building has been vandalized several times. Tatman was instructed to study the situation and present a report to Council.

Mrs. McCullough also said that repairs should be considered on N. Fayette Street between Temple and Paint streets. The matter was referred to Bill Duncan, general foreman of the city street department, and it was reported that the block was scheduled to be repaired by the state under a portion of the U.S. 35 bypass project. But the state's assistance in repaving projects in Washington C.H. now appears to be in jeopardy.

Mrs. McCullough also complimented the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce's downtown beautification committee, under Mrs. Martha Reiff, for the tree boxes in the downtown business district.

Rhoads asked that an extension of a storm sewer be completed on Oak Street in the area of S. Main Street.

Council heard a complaint about trucks parking on Delaware Street in the vicinity of Bell's Shell service station, Columbus Avenue. The parked trucks are causing a hazard, it was alleged. Blue flashing lights located in the rear of city police cruisers also received comment. One citizen said that the lights are "blinding" and requested Council to take action to reduce the candle power of the lights or place different lenses over them. Both matters were referred to Council's safety committee.

Demos split over charge in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. David Hall lashed out bitterly Wednesday night at State Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry, calling him "a Democratic turncoat" who has "sold the Democratic party loyalty for a mere bauble...."

Replying to allegations by the attorney general that Hall benefitted from kickbacks on state construction projects, the governor declared:

"I have never asked for nor have I received a kickback, nor will I ever as long as I am governor of this state."

It was Hall's first news conference since Derryberry made his charges public. The governor declined to answer specific questions about Derryberry's report on his investigation of alleged collusion and kickbacks on state contracts.

Derryberry, who has been considering running against Hall for the Democratic nomination for governor this year, was not immediately available for comment on Hall's remarks.

Hall said much of the material in Derryberry's report still is under investigation by a federal grand jury and the Internal Revenue Service or is involved in litigation in connection with indictments returned against several of his former aides and friends by an Oklahoma County grand jury.

Fayette included in 'disaster counties'

Residents within eight more Ohio counties have now become eligible for Disaster Unemployment Assistance payments, according to Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan.

The governor explained that Clark, Delaware, Fayette, Franklin, Pickaway, Paulding, Putnam and Summit counties have now been included as major disaster areas as the result of the April 3 tornadoes.

This brings the total of counties declared to be disaster areas to 14, as six were included in the governor's original announcement on April 9. They were Adams, Butler, Greene, Hamilton, Madison and Warren counties.

Gov. Gilligan explained that under DUA, persons eligible for unemployment assistance payments will be those who or work in the disaster area, either for themselves or for an employer, and who:

No longer had a job or a place to work in the area; could not get to their place of employment, even if the work were outside the disaster area, and were prevented from going to work because of an illness or injury resulting from the disaster.

DUA payments are retroactive to the date of the storm.

THE GOVERNOR said individuals recently unemployed, or those completing school or training, may also be eligible if the disaster prevented them from obtaining work.

Gov. Gilligan said all applications and claims for the assistance are to be filed in the regular unemployment claims offices of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. He noted that under federal regulations, all DUA applications for the eight counties must be filed with OBES on or before May 20.

According to William E. Garnes, OBES administrator, the level of DUA payments — funds for which are provided by the federal government under the Disaster Relief Act of 1970 — are related to prior earnings.

The OBES administrator explained that the minimum amount to be paid would be equal to the average unemployment compensation payment made by the state, or $59. The maximum amount would equal the highest unemployment compensation payment made by the state, or $114.

Garnes said that anyone who believes he is entitled to DUA payments should report to the nearest local claims office as soon as possible.

May 'big month' for clubbers

4-H Round Up

By CATHY WHITE
4-H Assistant

The days of May 1 -8 are big ones for the members of Fall Enrollment 4-H Clubs. At this time their projects will be shown in the windows of Craig's Department Store downtown Washington Court House.

Included among these clubs are four very deserving clubs. There are the three clubs from Fayette Progressive School and the one from the Special Education Class at Rose Avenue School.

All of the children in these clubs have been enrolled in the Discovering 4-H project which is a combination of several kinds of 4-H work. There are such things as electricity, woodworking, creative arts, food, and several others included in this project.

The name of this gala affair is 4-H Expo. Please try and stop by the windows of Craig's during May 1 - 8, and see what tremendous work these young people have done.

THE MONTH OF MAY is a big month for the children at the Progressive School for a number of other reasons also. For some time the children have been practicing for competition in a special Olympics program they are planning to attend.

Also, a couple of field trips are in the planning for this busy month such as a one day field trip to Kings Island for some fun and excitement. Another one day field to 4-H Camp Clifton is in the planning. During this day the children will be involved in such things as hiking, outdoor education, and outdoor cooking.

It is very beneficial to acquaint these children with different environments, situations and people. These expand their world and make them a part of the world.

If you would like a rewarding challenge, why don't you help these things come true for these children? There are many different ways you can be helpful. Why don't you find out how many?

Among these many helps there will be one you can handle.

Please contact the Fayette Progressive School or the Fayette County Extension Office today. The Fayette County Extension number is 335-1150.

Ohio U. strike remains unsettled

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Members of a fledgling student workers union continued their strike against Ohio University today despite a threatened loss of their jobs.

Strikers voted to continue the action Wednesday night, a short time after a common pleas court judge issued a temporary injunction limiting to three the number of pickets at any one location.

The order by Judge Lowell Howard also restrains strikers from blocking traffic or interfering with other lawful activities.

Union members decided to defy an ultimatum by Ward Wilson, the university's director of personnel, who issued a "notice of return to work" which advised student workers that those who failed to report for work today would "relinquish" their job assignments.

About 125 students are seeking recognition of their union as official bargaining agent for 1,200 student workers.

University President Claude Sowle told newsmen Wednesday the school requires that a union represent at least 50 per cent of a work force.

Strikers concentrated Wednesday on the university's six cafeterias. Students massed around the cafeterias but trucks provided with police escorts succeeded in delivering food supplies. The cafeterias continued to operate with the help of administrators and student volunteers.

The strike effort was dealt a major setback Wednesday when members of Local 1699, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes returned to their jobs on orders from the union leadership.

Union leaders said the union was carrying the primary burden of the strike while its members were losing wages and jeopardizing a university contract.

They said the local felt the students had some grievances and had the right to organize.

More than 100 cafeteria workers belonging to Local 1699 marched en masse to the dining halls Wednesday accompanied by Local President Tom Atkins and two university vice presidents.

4-H groups attend pig, lamb clinic

Nearly 100 Fayette County 4-H Club members, advisors and parents attended the market lamb and pig selection clinic Tuesday at the Fairground.

In separate sessions 4-H Club members taking lamb and pig projects were given information on selecting project animals and caring for them during the initial stages of the project. Special emphasis was placed on selecting meat-type animals of good health and of proper size for exhibit at the Fayette County Fair.

Clinic leaders Dave Owens, Ron Warner, Dan Schlichter and Jack Sommers also presented information to the 4-H'ers concerning feeding the animals, providing shelter and health of the animals.

In addition, Sommers pointed out that first year market pig project members may mark two pigs and show one at the fair, while older members may mark four pigs and show two.

Members taking market lamb projects for the first time may mark three lambs and show two, while older members may mark five and show three.

Market lambs and pigs for show must be owned by May 10 and marked by May 24.

Demonstration animals were provided by John E. Frost and Son and the Dan Schlichter family.

Group sponsors fair to support Israelis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Israeli Emergency Relief Fund will receive proceeds from a fair sponsored by the Israeli Student Organization and the Hillel Foundation at Ohio State University Wednesday.

The annual fair, which featured an art exhibition, an Israeli supermarket, folk dancing and singing, was held to celebrate the 26th anniversary of Israel's independence.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The Procter & Gamble Co., reporting an 11 per cent increase in profits for the quarter ending March 31, expects even bigger profits once price controls are lifted at the end of the month.

P&G Wednesday reported earnings of $95.967 million, compared with $86.570 million for the same period in 1973. Earnings per share were also up, $1.17 compared with $1.06.

Howard Morgens, board chairman, said profits did not grow with increased sales, however. Since 93 per cent of sales were in the United States, those had some kind of price control, he said.

By MARY JO BURRIS

One of this week's featured senior girls, always seems to have a smile on her face. Lisa Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith Jr., 1203 Gregg St. She has two brothers and two sisters. Lisa is one of the more active senior girls, as she is a member of AFS, Y-Teens, National Honor Society, a baseball statistician, and the senior editor of the Sunburst.

In her spare moments, Lisa enjoys cooking sewing, swimming, horseback riding and listening to music. Lisa attends St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. This fall, Lisa will be attending Springfield Community Hospital School of Nursing to become a registered nurse.

KATHY FISHER

LISA URGES the underclassmen to "Enjoy your high school years and make the best of them. Your friends are really important, so get to know everyone, and have a rippin' time." On her years at Washington Senior High, she commented, "High school has been pretty decent, but there are several downfalls in the system. Just make the best of what you've got and hope your future will be brighter."

Kathy Fisher, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Fisher, is a real asset to this year's senior class. She resides at 149 Carolyn Rd., with her parents and two younger brothers. She is a member of St. Colman's Catholic Church. Along with her busy academic schedule, Kathy is active in AFS, Y-Teens, and had a role in this year's play, "The Mouse That Roared."

With her free time, Kathy pursues sewing, swimming and bike riding. After graduation, she plans to attend the Columbus Riverside Hospital School of Radiology.

Kathy advises the underclassmen to "Take advantage of all the good times in high school, time goes really fast and graduation is here before you know it." On her years at Washington Senior High, she commented, "High school is what you make it. I've really enjoyed my years at WSHS, and hope the underclassmen will do the same."

Scholarship applications now available

Applications for the NROTC Navy-Marine Scholarship Program are now being accepted.

This program offers financial aid for four years in college. The Navy pays tuition and educational fees, books, uniforms and $100.00 per month subsistence allowance.

The purpose of the program is to provide civilian-educated career officers to serve the American people in the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps. Upon successfully completing baccalaureate degree requirements and completing summer training periods, students are commissioned officers in the regular Navy or Marine Corps.

Applicants for the program will be considered based on scores obtained on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB), Princeton, New Jersey, or the American College Test (ACT) of the American College Testing Program, Iowa City, Iowa. Applications are available from Don Gibbs, WSHS counselor.

Plastic shipping bags in demand

TYLER, Tex (AP) — Demand for heavy-duty coextruded plastic shipping and storage bags will increase by 10 per cent in 1974, according to Arthur A. Kukla, general manager of USI Film Products.

Kukla estimates consumption of about 35.8 million pounds of plastic resin for this type of packaging in 1974, compared with 32.5 million pounds in 1973. He said 148.5 million bags will be used in 1974, up from 135 million last year.

Much of the year's volume increase in heavy duty bags, Kukla said, will go to agricultural and chemical packaging.

A French researcher found that great vintages in Burgundy wines follow maximum solar activity.

WSHS team bracing for TV competition

Washington Senior High School is now a full and permanent member of the "In The Know" high school competition on WBNS television. This is the first year for a team and WSHS came back with a victory.

The four members of this year's team are Don Wheat, Keith Stimpert, Bob Walters (all seniors), and Brian Galloway, a junior. Advisor for the team is Mr. Allan Salvador. The team was a challenger to the Bishop Wherle "In The Know" team which was a permanent member until WSHS came along. Since Washington C.H. won, Wherle was eliminated from the competition. Because WSHS was a newcomer, the team takes Wherle's place next year in the regular competition.

Everyone met at Mr. Salvador's house once a week on Sunday to watch "In The Know" and practice answering the questions. The show was taped last Thursday night, at 9:20 p.m. in studio A of the WBNS television station. The probable showing of the competition on television will be August 4. Hunt Carlisle, the regular host, had the flu so Dan Imel, of Channel 10, filled in for him.

When the competition ended, the score was shown to be tied at 110. After rechecking the score, however, it was found that Wherle had been given 10 unearned points so they were taken away. Washington C.H. was then declared the winner.

WCH Rotarians ready to host Kings Island district meeting

Members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club will host the annual Rotary District No. 667 conference which will be held this weekend at Kings Island Inn on I-71, just north of Cincinnati.

More than 400 Rotarians, their wives and foreign exchange students are scheduled to attend the program which includes business sessions, speakers and entertainment on both Saturday and Sunday.

Robert C. Haigler, a member of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club, is District No. 667 governor over 46 clubs and 3,332 members in the southwestern quarter of Ohio. The district includes clubs in Cincinnati, Dayton and Springfield, stretching as far north as Piqua. Area Rotary Clubs in District No. 667 are Washington C.H., Greenfield, Hillsboro, Mount Sterling and Wilmington.

Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford is the conference chairman and he is being assisted by a majority of the local club members in completing arrangements for the event. The Kings Island Inn is the nearest motel complex that could set aside 150 rooms for the conference, and those were all taken three weeks prior to the meeting.

DUMFORD has appointed six committees for the conference. They are reservations, Bruce Ream, chairman, Dr. Leroy Davis, Carl Elberfeld, Dr. George Pommert, Dr. John T.F. Jordan, James Ward, John Toby and Clarence Cooper; hospitality room, Max Lawrence and Richard Kirkpatrick, co-chairmen, Sam Marting, Dr. Jack Persinger, John Bath, Fred Rost, George Finley, Dale Wade and Walter Seifried; greeters, Fred Domenico, chairman, Billie Wilson, Robert Woodmansee, Lee Kraus, A.C. Heer, Charles W. Mustine, Carl Mason, Rollo M. Marchant, Dr. Robert Anderson, Walter Morrow and Richard Whiteside; publicity, Jack Alkire, chairman; decorations, Robert Lisk, chairman, Bill Williams and William Pool, and sergeant-at-arms, David Ogan, Robert Cannon and John Lachat.

The weekend program will begin Friday afternoon with a golf outing at the Jack Nicklaus Golf Center across I-71 from the Kings Island complex. Seventy-five Rotary golfers throughout the district have registered for the golf outing which will be followed by an awards banquet at 7 p.m. Friday. James Hanawalt and Paul Crosby are the co-chairmen of the golf program.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Kings Island Inn with the first plenary session opening at 10 a.m. District Gov. Haigler will present his report on the past year's activities; James Valentine, district governor nominee for 1974-1975, will discuss the year ahead, and the session will close with a student exchange program under Robert Bextel, chairman.

Lt. Col. William J. Baughn, a former Vietnam prisoner of war, is the principal speaker for the 12:30 p.m. buffet luncheon on Saturday.

A PANEL DISCUSSION, "Crisis or Confusion in Fuel, Food Finance and Government" is the feature of the second plenary session starting at 2 p.m. Saturday. Moderator of the panel will be Phil Grover, president of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club.

Other participants are James E. Slack, of the Dayton Rotary Club and Dayton division manager of the Standard Oil Co.; Dr. Roy Kottman, dean of the college of agriculture at Ohio State University; Robert E. Hall, past president of the Ohio Bankers Association and past president of the Troy Rotary Club, and Charles E. Fry, a member of the Ohio Legislature and past Rotary District 667 governor.

Wives of Rotarians will be able to visit the Kings Island amusement park during the afternoon and all Rotary foreign exchange guests will receive an admission to the park courtesy of the district Rotary organization.

Social highlight of the weekend will begin at 6 p.m. Saturday with a champagne cocktail hour at pool side, followed by a prime rib buffet at 7 p.m. Dr. Edward F. Cadman, of Wenatchee, Wash., will speak.

Final event of the evening will be Les Elgart and his band playing for dancing from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. The Sunday program will begin with a governor's breakfast at 8 a.m. followed by a church and memorial service conducted by Rev. Charles Messmer, a past district Rotary governor.

The third business session will start at 10 a.m. with reports on various Rotary activities and programs. The noon luncheon on Sunday will feature a humorous talk by Mary McBride, comedy writer for Phyllis Diller and Joan Rivers. Haigler will give the closing remarks with the conference adjourning at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Services are held for Crofters figure

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Services were held Wednesday for a key figure in Ohio's 1970 loan scandals.

Harry A. Groban, 60, was a vice president of Crofters, a firm which the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission later estimated received more than $1 million in fees and other interests for arranging loans from the state treasury and the Ohio School Employes Retirement System.

Use of volunteers in government eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A state task force working to find ways to use volunteers in state government will hold its next meeting May 2, John Olsen of the Ohio Office of Budget and Management said.

The group met here Wednesday and chose Leona Bevis, executive director of Cleveland's Federation for Community Planning, as its chairman.

Utility symbol of embattled firms

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The suspension of its quarterly dividend payment by Consolidated Edison is more than just another demoralizing blow to the stock market. The big utility is also a symbol of an embattled industry.

Environmentalists have forced delays in plant construction. The increase in energy prices caused operating costs to skyrocket. The depressed condition of financial markets prevented it from raising cash.

Moreover, its customers, who are equally pressed, have tended to become slow payers, a problem that many businessmen around the country will recognize. Payment delinquencies are on the rise generally.

And what is Consolidated Edison's solution? Well, there is no over-all solution, of course, but one that has become rather common among giant companies is to lean on government for assistance, in the name of the public good, of course.

Unlike the Penn Central and Lockheed and some airlines, which sought aid from the federal government, Consolidated Edison seeks to resolve some of its problems by transferring ownership of one or more plants to the state power authority.

All these facets of the utility's problems also can be found in other areas of American enterprise — the environmental haggling, inflated costs, inability to raise money, slow-pay customers, the high cost of borrowing.

They are the business challenges of the day, and while businessmen are always facing and attempting to overcome challenges, many of them would agree that the set they now face makes them wonder if their abilities are sufficient.

Con Ed, as it is familiarly but not warmly called by customers, had been paying dividends every quarter since 1885. Of late that dividend, of $1.80 a share, represented more than a 9 per cent return.

Dividend consistency of that kind is what attracts investors, as opposed to speculators. Con Ed might have been an unexciting stock but it was safe and you could depend on it for steady income — until 1974.

In breaking that 89-year-old record, Con Ed probably has destroyed that feeling of investor security for years to come, not only for itself but for a lot of other utilities to which it might be compared.

Con Ed always could count on raising money too, it seemed, because it was the only electric utility in the biggest city of America, assured of income and growth and therefore of the ability to earn money, pay back loans.

But with the prime rate over 10 per cent even Con Ed balked. It could, as an alternative, go into the equity market by selling stock, but even at a relatively low price of $18, now around $12, there was a question of attracting buyers. Stock markets aren't what they used to be; there are fewer buyers.

Kennedy dips in popularity with Demos

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has suffered a dramatic dip in support for the 1976 presidential nomination among Democratic party leaders, according to a survey by the Christian Science Monitor.

The survey published today shows that only 38 per cent of the 103 state party chairmen and national committeemen who responded see the Massachusetts Democrat as a frontrunner for 1976, compared with 77 per cent who considered Kennedy the front runner in a similar survey which drew 98 respondents last November.

The Monitor said Watergate was the biggest factor in Kennedy's slipping popularity. Democratic leaders who have changed their minds seem convinced the party needs a "Mr. Clean" as a candidate and that Chappaquiddick will rule out Kennedy as a contender, the Monitor said.

Chappaquiddick refers to an accident in 1969 in which a car driven by Kennedy plunged into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., killing a passenger with the senator, Mary Jo Kopechne.

"Kennedy's blemishes now stand out because of Watergate," the newspaper quoted one Midwestern Democrat as saying. "If he is nominated, he will be haunted by Chappaquiddick. He's the wrong man for the times."

HARBOR TOWN — This community of expensive condominiums and golf courses has become a favorite retirement playground for the wealthy on Hilton Head Island, off the South Carolina Coast. But Hilton Head Island is also a work ground for the middle class and a homeland for a thousand or more blacks.

Hilton Head Island shared by rich, poor as development is stepped up

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hilton Head Island, a 42-square-mile, shoe-shaped hunk of land off the South Carolina coast, has become a retirement paradise, a favorite vacation spot, a playground for the rich, a work ground for the middle class, and a homeland for a thousand or more blacks.

There are no bright, flashing neon signs, no industrial plants to belch smoke into the air, no traffic jams, no litter along the roadway, no polluted streams.

Joe Fraser, president of the Sea Pines Co., one of the major developers of the island, said in an interview, "We are making every effort to protect the environment of Hilton Head, because we want at least one section of this nation to be untouched by pollution, and because it is simply good business sense."

Abe Grant is a 35-year-old black who has lived most of his life on the island and is the owner of a small grocery, pool room and motel.

"There have been some bit changes in the past few years," he said, "and as far as I am concerned the changes have been for the benefit of me, my family and my people.'"

CINDY BAYSDENT works in one of the exclusive shops at Harbor Town, and her husband is with one of the island development firms.

"I have been here almost three years," she said, "and it is a unique way of life. I was in Atlanta recently, and the traffic and the noise was unbearable, especially in contrast to Hilton Head. It is like living in a small town, but what a beautiful small town, with the beaches and the woods and the wildlife."

Dr. Frank Arnold, who for 30 years was an environmentalist with the South Carolina Health Department, is one of the men now responsible for protecting the ecology of the island.

He is consulted in the initial planning stages of new developments, and his advice is followed so there will be only minimal damage to the wildlife, the land and the sea.

One of the new residential developments is called Hilton Head Plantation, and on the insistence of Arnold, steps were taken to protect the nearby ruins of Ft. Mitchell, a Union outpost during the Civil War; to leave untouched a large marchland and to prohibit any construction in an area that appears to be an ancient Indian settlement.

ON OTHER sections of the island, developers have agreed to a hands-off policy for Cypress Swamp, 250 acres of salt marshes where the giant black cypress trees grow; to stay far away from the two island rookeries where wildfowl breed and which are included among the 13 rookeries that remain along the eastern seaboard; and to protect Whooping Crane Pond, another wildlife sanctuary.

The island is dotted with 10 golf courses, tennis courts, riding stables, numerous swimming pools and several children's playgrounds with the play equipment built of wood to blend into the natural background.

Hilton Head Island was discovered by the Spanish in 1521 and later chartered by British Capt. William Hilton, who named it after himself. It became a land of large plantations, and then the target of the greatest amphibious operation in military history prior to World War II. It was captured by Union forces Nov. 7, 1861.

Still later it became the home of the grandsons and granddaughters of black freedmen, who came to Hilton Head after the Civil War and purchased the rich loam for 15 cents an acre.

ABOUT 25 YEARS ago, land developers moved in and realized the potential for a resort and retirement community. Since then land costs have skyrocketed.

A tract of slightly more than 1.2 acres in the Hilton Head Plantation development will sell from $15,000 to $85,000. There is then the cost of constructing a home.

It was once said that if a person had to ask how much a lot would cost, he couldn't afford to live on Hilton Head.

But, Fraser said, the developers of the island, which has a permanent population of about 7,500, want "to keep a balance between retirement, resort and other full-time residents. We want this to become, as near as possible, a normal community."

Baling wire short, costly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baling wire not only is in short supply as farmers begin to look toward the 1974 haying season but is much more expensive than a year ago, the Agriculture Department says.

A survey by the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service showed that average retail wire prices this month were about $26 per 100-pound box, about double a year ago. But prices varied widely, the agency said, from $18 to $80 per box.

The report said wire manufacturers were charging $15.50 to $25 per box, compared with $12.75 this time last year. Officials said wire supplies may fall 25 to 30 per cent short of need this season, although larger imports could cut the gap.

Twine used for hay baling also is short in many areas, and prices have risen to around $24 per 40-pound bale on the average, the report said. The price range, however, was from $16.50 per bale to about $35. A year ago twine averaged about $9 per bale, the report said.

Fertilizer beats salt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Indianapolis woman has come up with her own solution to the problem of having salt tracked into her house during the winter.

Instead of using salt to melt ice on sidewalks, Thelma Miller sprinkles fertilizer.

Mrs. Miller says the fertilizer sweeps off rugs much more easily than salt. And in the spring, the lawn alongside the walks is much greener.

Last winter some of the fertilizer washed onto nearby strawberry beds, Mrs. Miller said, and "Boy, did we have good, big strawberries!"

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency reminds you that when you throw away non-returnable beverage bottles or cans, you are not only adding to our enormous solid waste problem, but you are throwing away a product that required large amounts of energy to produce. As an alternative, buy beverages only in returnable bottles.

Metzenbaum-Glenn struggle expected to be close race

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Outside the Flat-Iron Cafe, Mary Anne Maykowski leaned on a car hood and explained why she wants John H. Glenn to be Ohio's next senator.

"He's my hero," the plump, middle-aged woman sporting an "Impeach Nixon" button said of America's first orbiting astronaut. "He's got integrity, and that comes first with me." What about Howard Metzenbaum, she was asked. "He's been a politician," she said of the millionaire Cleveland lawyer, now Ohio's appointed junior senator and Glenn's May 7 Democratic primary opponent. "He's not a neophyte. John Glenn has never been elected to anything."

In Columbus the next day, however, taxi driver Harry Williams said he will vote for Metzenbaum because "he's always been for the little man."

"But he's got a rough road to travel," Williams added. "Glenn is very popular and a lot of Republicans will switch over, and there's the tax thing."

A few blocks away, one of Ohio's canniest Democratic politicians leaned back in his chair. "Howard's hurting, and it's all that tax issue," he said.

"That tax issue" stems from Metzenbaum's disclosure that, though he had large income and a net worth of $3.6 million, he paid no federal income taxes in 1969 because of large business losses.

Ten days after the senator released summaries of his assets and taxes, Glenn released a far more detailed financial report, including income tax returns back to 1965. The difference, he said, "Is like the difference between edited summaries of the Watergate tapes and the tapes themselves." Amid persistent headlines about Watergate and President Nixon's tax problems, the financial disclosure issue is the main reason why, according to polls and the estimates of both sides.

Glenn is leading two weeks before the May 7 primary.

Four years ago, Metzenbaum edged Glenn by 13,422 votes in a Senate primary but lost the general election to Republican Sen. Robert Taft Jr. If the result is reversed in 1974, it will present striking testimony to the effect of the disclosure issue in the year of Watergate.

Metzenbaum and his strategists think the senator can still win.

They count heavily on television commercials, showing him working as a senator and featuring fellow senators William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and three televised debates, the first tonight in Cleveland.

"By the time we get done with the debates, he will either have chewed me up or I'll have eaten him alive," Metzenbaum said in an interview. "It won't be a draw."

On the eve of the debates, interviews with politicians and voters produced surprising agreement, including:

—The primary winner will be the strong favorite in November against Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk. Perk has only token opposition for the Republican nomination. Both sides agree Glenn would have the easier time against the mayor.

—Metzenbaum is far better organized. He has the support of Gov. John J. Gilligan, organized labor and the state Democratic organization. The latter plans to mail 1.2 million letters in behalf of the Democratic ticket and is organizing a massive effort to get supporters to the polls election day.

—Glenn may cut into Metzenbaum's labor-black base. His support by the anti-Gilligan Franklin County Columbus Democratic organization means he'll probably reverse the senator's 1970 margin there. He expects again to carry conservative rural areas, as he did in winning 75 of 88 counties in 1970.

—Metzenbaum will spend close to $700,000 by May 7. Glenn hoped to equal that but has had difficulty raising money and probably won't go over $400,000.

—Metzenbaum has gained momentum in the past 10 days. With polls showing him anywhere from two to 11 points behind, he has sought to put Glenn on the defensive by challenging his finances the former astronaut failed to pay local property taxes for two years.

The two candidates are both liberal Democrats. They agree on most issues.

The 52-year-old Glenn generally is well liked.

On the other hand, the 56-year-old Metzenbaum is considered cold and calculating even by supporters.

"I'm going to vote for him because I think he'd make a better senator," a woman said. "But I still don't like him."

"Who likes him?" asked her husband.

In style and approach, the two differ considerably. Glenn is a low-key, earnest campaigner. Twelve years after he orbited the earth, he remains slim, likes to job daily and relaxes by driving his own car.

Metzenbaum is a compulsive worker. He is a hard-driving candidate who puts emotion into his speeches. He seldom relaxes. Speaking to about 80 retired persons at an Eagles Club luncheon in Akron, Glenn talked about health insurance, pension reform and cost-of-living increases in Social Security.

His main goal, he said, is "the restoration of confidence in our top government officials," adding that one way to do this is to make sure that "everything about them is open to scrutiny."

He said that most senators are lawyers, like Metzenbaum, and, "I think it's time we had a few other people represented in the Senate besides the lawyers."

The audience, which listened quietly, gave Glenn a standing ovation.

In another part of Akron that night, the applause was heavy and frequent as Metzenbaum spoke to more than 1,000 persons at a labor rally in a smoky, crowded Knights of Columbus hall.

"I don't know what it is to pussyfoot with the issues, so I say it bluntly," Metzenbaum said. He told the blue-collar audience that the President of the Questor Corp. of Toledo, of which Glenn is a board member, was trying to raise $200,000 from Republicans for Glenn's campaign.

"I think the business community should support Glenn's efforts, but I think the labor community should support Howard Metzenbaum," said the former labor lawyer. Metzenbaum hit the same theme the following night to a very different audience, some of Cleveland's wealthiest businessmen at a $100-a-plate dinner that raised some $85,000.

He charged Glenn was getting his money from "a group of Republicans who think they're going to buy the Democratic party."

While the senator was making money, Glenn was losing several hundred dollars about a mile away, as he charged only 99 cents for a $2.50 corned beef and cabbage dinner at the Flatiron Cafe.

With former pro-football star Roosevelt Grier leading his blocking, Glenn pushed his way into the crowd of 400 for an event whose main value was considerable free television exposure.

He needs all the free TV time he can get, since Metzenbaum probably will outspend him two-to-one in paid radio and television advertising. To offset the senator's advantage, Glenn plans to concentrate his commercials in Cleveland, whose television stations reach 40 per cent of Ohio's Democratic voters.

That's where the primaries will be won. Gov. Gilligan, who appointed Metzenbaum in December when Republican William Saxbe resigned to become attorney general, says: "I think it's close, but I think Howard will win it."

Metzenbaum's forces are counting on a light turnout, expected to be about one million of the 4.5 million registered voters. Ohio has no party registration, but a GOP gubernatorial primary is expected to limit cross-overs.

Memo on LaFatch pondered by Smith

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Franklin County Prosecutor George C. Smith is considering a memo that indicates Akron businessman Anthony P. LaFatch probably will not be tried here on state charges in connection with a 1973 stock scandal.

Smith said if any charges are filed, the memo prepared by Richard Saeward indicates Akron probably would be the proper location.

LaFatch was acquitted last month of federal charges he extorted $50,000 from Realty National Corp. to aid in getting Ohio Commerce Department approval for a stock issue.

Blame middlemen for high food cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — If middlemen had passed along all the reductions in farm prices last month, consumers would have seen retail food costs drop instead of rise again, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

Instead, new figures showed Wednesday, middlemen let their margins widen 5.2 per cent while farmers saw their share of food spending drop 4.2 per cent from February to March.

The figures were compiled by USDA experts, based in part on other government readings on retail food-prices in March. Put together, the statistics showed a market basket of U.S. farm produced food rose 0.9 per cent during the month to another record of $1,747 on an annual basis.

As used by the department, the market basket includes enough store-bought food for a household of 3.2 persons for an entire year. The basket is used as an indicator to show how consumer food spending splits up among farmers and middlemen processors and sellers.

The March figures showed farmers received an equivalent of $762 of the consumer basket, down $33 from February. But the middleman share was $985 in March, up $48 from February, thus more than offsetting the decline in farm value.

Compared with March 1973, the new figures showed the farm share gained 15.1 per cent of $100 and that middleman margains rose 23.8 per cent or $189 during the year. Over-all, the cost of the basket to consumers jumped 19.9 per cent or $289 during the 12 months.

An official report by the department said "sharply wider spreads" occurred during the month for meats, oilseeds, bakery goods, cereal products and fresh vegetables while those for poultry and eggs decreased.

Returns to farmers dropped the most for beef cattle, hogs, eggs, wheat and some fresh vegetables, the report said. That left farmers with an average of 43.6 cents of each dollar consumers spent on food during March, down from 45.9 cents in February.

The report showed choice steers sold by producers on Midwest markets averaged $42.22 per 100 pounds of liveweight in March, down from $46.11 in February. Hogs were $34.88 per 100 pounds, compared with $39.73 a month earlier.

Prime rate up again

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 10 major commercial banks, including the world's largest, have raised their prime lending rate to a record 10½ per cent.

Analysts attributed the latest increase in the prime to high rates for short-term loans on which banks rely for their funds.

The prime is the rate banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers. It is not tied directly to other bank loan rates but a higher prime can also lead to increases in those rates.

Leading the list of banks raising the prime to 10½ per cent Wednesday was the San Francisco-based Bank of America, the world's largest.

Others taking the step included New York's Chemical Bank, the nation's sixth largest commercial bank; Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh, 13th in size; National Bank of Detroit, 17th, and First National Bank of Boston, 18th.

Israel to ignore U.N. action condemning Lebanon raids

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel says it will continue to raid southern Lebanon in retaliation for guerrilla attacks from there despite the United Nations Security Council's seventh condemnation of such action.

The council on Wednesday night adopted a resolution condemning Israel for its April 12 raid on six Lebanese villages in retaliation for the guerrilla massacre of 18 Israelis the day before in the village of Qiryat Shmona. Lebanon said the Israelis killed three civilians and kidnaped 13 others.

The vote was 13-0, with China and Iraq not participating and the Soviet Union and Byelorussia abstaining. It was the council's seventh condemnation of a retaliatory Israeli raid into Lebanon.

The resolution also condemned "all acts of violence, especially those which result in the tragic loss of innocent civilian life." But the council by a vote of 7-6 rejected an American amendment specifically including the attack at Qiryat Shmona in the condemnation.

Israel's delegation walked out of the council chamber just before the voting. Chief Delegate Yosef Tekoah said the resolution was a "gross miscarriage of justice" because it did not condemn the Palestinian guerrillas. He warned again that "Israel will continue to hold the Lebanese government responsible for any armed attacks organized or perpetrated in Lebanon."

The United States voted for the resolution after the defeat of its amendment. U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali said despite the failure of his attempt to get specific mention of Qiryat Shmona, "we believe the resolution ... did condemn all violence, whatever its origin, including the tragedy at Qiryat Shmona."

It was the third time the United States has voted against Israel in the council.

Convict freed through error

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man serving a prison sentence in the shooting and robbery of Sen. John C. Stennis had a little vacation from prison life until officials realized he'd been freed accidentally.

John S. Marshall, 24, was in court Monday and had three other charges dismissed in connection with the shooting of the Mississippi Democrat in January 1973. After his court appearance Marshall went free, and one official said the dismissal of the charges apparently was misinterpreted.

FBI agents picked up Marshall at his home about 24 hours later. The circumstances leading to his freedom are under investigation.

Cincinnati walks past Chicago Cubs

CINCINNATI — A missed take sign, a low fast ball with the bases loaded on a 3-1 pitch and Chicago Cubs pitcher Bill Bonham's best performance of the season wound up in a loss.

Cincinnati outfielder George Foster said he wasn't even looking down the line to the coaches before the pitch. He walked and the Reds won 1-0.

"If it had been a strike I would be swinging," said Foster. Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson buried his face in his hands laughing. He thought Foster caught the sign not to swing.

"I was trying to throw a strike," said Bonham, 1-3, obviously tired after the pitching duel with winner Jack Billingham, 3-1. "I didn't care if he was hitting or taking but I didn't do a very good job."

The Reds only previous threat was in the first inning when Pete Rose doubled but died on base when Bonham, who fanned nine in the contest, struck out the side.

Bonham, alternating fast balls with a new change-up pitch, kept Cincinnati off balance throughout.

At one point, Rose, 2-1, complained that a strike called had hit the ground.

"I just caught it wrong," explained Cubs catcher George Mitterwald, drawing a laugh from Rose.

"His change-up moves," said Anderson. "It looks like a breaking ball at times and confuses the hitters. We've always liked him."

Billingham, who was lifted in the bottom of the ninth for a pinch hitter, became the first Reds pitcher to finish a game this season and the first to record a shutout without relief help.

"I didn't have that good of stuff in the last two innings, my shoulder started tightening up on me again." But Billingham, after two straight winning performances, cut his earned run average to 5.1 from 7.29. "I haven't been looking at it lately," he said. "It's too embarrassing."

Dave Concepcion doubled to open the final inning for Cincinnati and Cedar Geronimo was walked intentionally. Terry Crowley, hitting for Billingham, forced Concepcion at third when he bunted the ball right at Bonham. Rose popped out then Joe Morgan singled up the middle to load the bases setting the stage for Foster's walk.

The Reds are idle today, then fly to St. Louis Friday opening a nine-day road trip.

The Cubs meet the Braves at Atlanta for three games.

Blue Lions held hitless in 6-0 defeat by Unioto

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

All year the South Central Ohio League coaches have been hearing about the powerful bats of its newest league member, Unioto. However, Wednesday afternoon, the Shermans' junior righthanded hurler, Jeff Throckmorton showed the Lions some excellent pitching in stopping Washington Court House 6-0 on a no-hitter.

Six costly Washington errors overshadowed the pitching duel between Throckmorton and the Lions' Mark Johnson. Johnson also threw an outstanding game, as he only limited the Tanks to five hits. Both pitchers walked one batter, while Throckmorton struck out seven and Johnson retired six batters on strikes.

With the victory, Unioto, which is the only Class A team in the SCOL, remains in sole possession of first place in the league with a 6-1 record and the Shermans are 12-1 overall. The Lions, which are the only team to have defeated the Shermans, are now 2-4 in the league and 3-7 overall.

"This is the best team I have ever had," said Sherman coach Don Neff before the game, Neff, who is in the midst of his ninth season at the helm of the Shermans, presently carries a 153-32-1 career coaching record at Unioto. He only lost one player from last year's team which was beaten in the finals of the regionals.

Lion first baseman Allan Coppock almost broke up Throckmorton's bid for a no-hitter in the seventh inning. Coppock led off with a broken bat grounder up the middle, but shortstop B.J. Dailey went deep in the hole for the ball and his throw to first beat Coppock by a step.

"Dailey is the best shortstop we have come up against this season," remarked Lions' coach Rodger Mickle. Dailey anchored the Shermans' defense, as he handled five chances with perfection.

Unioto quickly jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning. All four runs were unearned, as the Lions committed three errors. Sophomore Roger Rutherford doubled to right field and advanced to third when an error was committed on the relay. Rutherford scored when his brother, Ron, reached second on a two base throwing error. Steve Chester also reached second on a two base throwing error, as Rutherford came across the plate. Sophomore Jim Johnson's single scored Chester and Johnson tallied a run when Tim Weiderman singled.

Throckmorton pulled into third in the top of the fifth inning when his fly ball was dropped in the outfield. Dailey's sacrifice fly made the score 5-0.

Chester raced around the bases in the top of the sixth frame. He led off with a triple down the right field line and scored when the throw to third went by everyone.

Tonight, Washington Court House will be hosting Chillicothe.

Would you believe, Texas in first?

By The Associated Press

The old gag used to go something like this: Washington ... first in war, first in peace and last in the American League. Would you believe first in the American League?

Oh, it's not really the Washington Senators; it's the Texas Rangers. And it's not really the entire American League, just the AL West. And the lead is only a tiny one-half game over the world champion Oakland A's.

But there is the transplanted franchise in first place today, podnuh, thanks to Wednesday night's 3-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox ... the first time the club has been in undisputed possession of first place in either Washington or Texas uniforms since 1948, according to publicist Burt Hawkins.

Elsewhere, New York's Graig Nettles tied the AL record for most April homers by swatting his 10th in the Yankees' 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals, the Chicago White Sox whipped the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2, the Baltimore Orioles edged the California Angels 4-3, the Detroit Tigers downed the Minnesota Twins 8-4 and Oakland trounced the Cleveland Indians 9-2.

The Rangers used a little luck to win Wednesday night's contest. Lenny Randle's catchable pop fly in the seventh inning became a tie-breaking two-run double when Boston left fielder Carl "Alphonse" Yastrzemski and center fielder Juan "Gaston" Beniquez couldn't decide who should catch it.

Yankees 4, Royals 3

Nettles' 10th home run in 17 games was the talk of New York but it was Roy White's double following a walk to Jim Mason in the seventh inning that produced the winning run. Thurman Munson hit a two-run homer for the winners.

White Sox 7, Brewers 2

Eddie Leon, hitless in 12 previous at-bats, singled in what turned out to be the winning run with his first hit of the season.

Orioles 4, Angels 3

Don Baylor doubled home the eventual winning run in the eighth inning and reliever Bob Reynolds choked off a California uprising in the ninth to save the triumph for Dave McNally.

Tigers 8, Twins 4

Jerry Moses and Aurelio Rodriguez delivered two-run triples for Detroit. Doubles by Gary Sutherland and Jim Northrup produced the first run in the opening inning and Willie Horton singled in another. Horton and Rodriguez singled in the sixth before Moses tripled and Rodriguez slammed his triple in the seventh.

A's 9, Indians 2

Sal Bando drove in five runs with a double, a sacrifice fly and his third homer, helping Ken Holtzman gain his first victory.

Pirates out of NL basement

By The Associated Press

It's not exactly what you'd call a winning streak ... but then, two in a row is better than nothing at all.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, preseason picks to win the National League's East Division flag, have looked like anything but winners thus far this season. In fact, it took them 14 games before they could put victories back to back.

They finally did it Wednesday night, using an old, reliable method ... Pirate Power!

Richie Hebner, Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen slugged the home runs that boosted the Bucs to a 5-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves ... and out of the basement for the first time this year.

In Wednesday's other National League games, Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0, Houston swamped St. Louis 9-4, Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 6-1 and San Diego beat the New York Mets 4-3. Montreal's game at San Francisco was rained out.

"Two in a row! Wow! That's really a streak, isn't it?" Hebner said sarcastically after the victory. Hebner hit a first-inning solo shot, Stargell made it 3-0 in the fifth, the Braves got two runs in the sixth, one of them on Dusty Baker's homer, but Sanguillen wrapped it up in the eighth with a two-run clout.

Astros 9, Cards 4

Pitcher Dave Roberts slugged a two-run homer and Tommy Helms drove in four runs in the Astros' rout.

Dodgers 6, Phillies 1

Jim Wynn drove in two runs with a single and a homer and Willie Crawford tripled for two runs to back Don Sutton's seven-hit pitching for Los Angeles.

Padres 4, Mets 3

Nate Colbert slugges a two-run homer in the first inning, then broke a tie with a one-out, bases-loaded grounder in the ninth for the Padres, dumping the Mets into the East Division basement.

NFL grants franchise to Tampa, one more city yet to be selected

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League begins considering ownership applicants for its new Tampa, Fla. franchise today and the bidders will have to come equipped with hefty bankrolls.

The league attached a record sports expansion team price tag of $16 million for the Tampa franchise granted Wednesday. Commissioner Pete Rozelle also said the NFL would add at least one other franchise to begin play along with Tampa in 1976. The same price, of course, applies.

The $16 million price represents a jump of nearly 100 per cent in the cost of an NFL expansion franchise. New Orleans, the last team added to the NFL, paid a reported $8.5 million in 1966. A year later Cincinnati was admitted to the old American Football League for somewhere between $7.5 and $8 million.

"A number of things have changed," said Rozelle. "Television for example. The new team becomes an equal partner in TV income immediately, diluting the shares of the other 26 teams."

Tampa was one of five cities under consideration for expansion by the NFL. Rozelle said that the other franchise the NFL adds this year will most likely come from the remaining four — Honolulu, Memphis, Phoenix and Seattle.

"We are relieved and elated," said Leonard Levy, former chairman of the Tampa Sports Authority and one of the city's representatives. "We felt that whatever criteria the NFL set for a franchise, we had to be seriously considered. We're very pleased."

The criteria included "stadium, weather, sports interest and growth potential," according to Rozelle. Tampa has plans to expand its current 47,000-seat stadium to 72,000.

The commissioner said that the league has been pursued by several groups seeking the Tampa franchise and had not sought ownership yet. He said general guidelines for the club would include at least 51 per cent individual ownership, local where feasible.

The commissioner said the owners wanted to give further thought to the other city or cities to be added. He said a final decision might come at their next meeting, scheduled for June 4 in New York.

Miami Trace clubs 15 hits in 12-8 triumph over Wilmington

Miami Trace opened a barrage of 15 hits and downed Wilmington 12-8, Wednesday afternoon. With the victory, the Panthers are able to maintain their runner-up spot in the South Central Ohio League with a 5-1 record and they are 5-5 overall.

Wilmington's two pitchers were constantly in trouble, as they combined for 11 walks in the game. Only two of the Panthers runs were unearned.

Six runs in the first inning helped set the pace for the Panthers, as Hurricane hurler Dan Dieble walked four batters. Tom Pfaff led off the frame with a walk and Phil Skinner followed with a single. Both runners advanced a base on a errant throw, but Pfaff was thrown out when he tried to score on Greg Cobb's fly ball.

Tom Riley, who had two singles and three runs batted-in during the afternoon, brought the Panthers' first run across the plate when he singled to score Skinner. Randy Reiber came through with a single and Jay Mossbarger walked to load the bases. John Woodrow walked, forcing in the Panthers' second run and Steve Tarbutton singled to drive in two more runs. After Bob Phillips walked to reload the bases, Pfaff, who had a perfect day at the plate, singled again to bring in the final two runs of the inning.

Miami Trace put the game out of reach when they came up with three runs in the third and two runs in the fifth. On both occasions, the inning was started by lead-off triples. Tarbutton tripled to start the third and Pfaff tripled in the fifth.

Of the eight runs scored by Wilmington, only three were earned. Riley walked five and struck out eight.

Tonight, the Panthers travel to Wilmington for a rematch.

Celtics back in finals

BOSTON (AP) — The road back has been a long haul since Bill Russell retired as player-coach and a dynasty crumbled in 1969, but the Boston Celtics are ready once again to challenge for the National Basketball Association championship.

The Celtics advanced to the NBA playoff final for the first time since they won the title five years ago by defeating the New York Knicks 105-94 Wednesday night, taking the best-of-7 Eastern Conference series 4-1.

Now they move into a showdown with the mighty Milwaukee Bucks, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The first two games in the best-of-7 series will be played in Milwaukee Sunday afternoon and Tuesday night. Games No. 3 and 4 are scheduled for Boston May 3 and 5.

"It means a lot to beat the Knicks, but it is just another step along the way," Boston captain John Havlicek said. "Against the Bucks we're going to have to be on the run constantly. They like to set up their plays. As for Jabbar, maybe we'll have to let him get his points and try to shut off the others from scoring."

Havlicek, who played on six NBA championships in Boston during the heyday 1960s, was at his best against the Knicks. The Celtics thus avenged their elimination in the same playoff series last year when their team leader was injured.

Stamps In The News

With the specter of the Yom Kippur War haunting its people, Israel pays tribute to its military dead on a new postage stamp heralded as its annual Memorial Day issue.

The long, thin stamp has as its main design the figure of an anonymous soldier seen from the back. He wears his steel helmet but his shoulders are wrapped in the traditional Hebrew prayer shawl.

The symbolism of this stamp expresses the thought that the war began on the holiest day of the Hebrew calendar, the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) when many reservists were called to their battle stations directly from their synagogues while wearing their religious garments, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

The name "Israel" appears in Hebrew at the bottom of the stamp beneath which is the usual tab attached to stamps from that nation.

Also issued by Israel is an adhesive to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Hebrew Writers' Assn. The organization was founded in Tel Aviv 50 years ago by Nahum Sokolov.

Both of these stamps are available at your local dealer or stamp department.

Philatelic Society (March 8-10) by the U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The theme of the anniversary celebration was the 100th anniversary of the Universal Postal Union.

Orders may be sent directly to MILCOPEX Card. U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington D.C. 20228. Copies cost $1 each (submitted in money order or certified check). Requests should be submitted on standard letter-size sheets with your name, address and zip code duplicated on the transmittal envelope.

WHEN the U.S. Postal Service issues the new 10-cent stamp on May 4 commemorating the 100th anniversary of the running of the Kentucky Derby, collectors of sports and horse stamps as well as first-day and commemorative covers will have a wonderful opportunity to add to their albums.

A set of three full color covers for the occasion is being made available by the International Stamp Collectors Society. Each cover carries a full color portrait and statistics of a different championship race horse which made Derby history. Number one in the set portrays Astrides, winner of the first Derby. The second features Donerail, winner of the 1913 race. The third depicts Secretariat, 1973 champion.

The set of three covers can be purchased directly for $3.50 from the International Stamp Collectors Society, P.O. Box 48806, Los Angeles, Calif. 90048.

Collectors of philatelic souvenir cards can still purchase the items issued in conjunction with the 75th anniversary of the Milwaukee

ADVANCE information on the U.S. 10-cent stamp dedicated to the theme "Retarded Children Can Be Helped" was provided by the National Association of Retarded Citizens.

The Postal Service will issue the stamp on Oct. 12 in Arlington, Tex., during the annual meeting of the association.

The design will show the face of a small girl with an adult hand clasped to her cheek. Beneath the illustration are the words "Retarded Children Can Be Helped." Designer is Paul Calle who was also responsible for the Robert Forst commemorative.

County gets 'local government' money

COLUMBUS — Fayette County received a distribution of $12,500 in local government fund money, according to figures released by the state auditor's office.

A total of $4,569,957.97 in local government fund money was distributed to Ohio's 88 counties and 327 cities and villages having local income taxes for March.

The April distribution was $2,338,636.41 less than the March one but $44,439.46 more than the April distribution of 1973, according to Thomas E. Ferguson, deputy state auditor.

Ferguson added that the March distribution is usually the year's largest due to the great influx of corporation taxes in February (the month used for the March distribution). This year, corporation tax returns were due Jan. 31.

So far in 1974, Ferguson observed, the counties have received a total of $18,908,301.17 in local government fund money. The money is derived monthly by taking 3.5 per cent of state collections of personal, corporation and sales taxes during the preceding month.

THE USE of the percentage factor causes the amount available monthly to the local government units to fluctuate, Ferguson said.

He said that in March the state collected $62,498,237.12 in sales taxes, $39,007,526.31 in corporation taxes and $29,065,119.31 in personal income taxes.

For April, a fraction of the distributable money, or $4,189,149.16, was allocated on a formula basis to the 88 county local government funds, while another fraction, or $380,831.74, was divided and sent to the cities and villages collecting local income taxes.

The April share of local government fund money due six villages and two cities, $22.93, was withheld in favor of lump-sum payments to these municipalities at the end of 1974. Currently, there are 335 cities and villages levying local income taxes.

Local government fund distributions in April to neighboring counties were:

Clinton, $12,500; Highland, $12,500; Madison $12,500; Pickaway, $12,500; Greene, $31,907.06, and Ross, $16,709.97.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

When Kate's brother became a widower, she moved in with him and took over the care of his household. Three years later, he too passed away. At the probate of his estate, Kate put in a claim for "services rendered."

"Although my brother and I never discussed money," she told the court, "I just took it for granted that eventually I would be paid for my work. After all, I didn't have to do it. I was not my brother's keeper."

But the court disagreed and rejected her claim. The court said the natural presumption was that Kate had helped her brother for reasons of affection, not money. If she expected payment, added the court, she should have made that clear from the start.

Questions of this kind arise often in probate proceedings, when claims for services rendered to the deceased must be dealt with. As a rule, the closer the relationship between the claimant and the deceased, the more likely the court is to say that the services were given free.

BUT THE individual circumstances can make a big difference. In another case, a man sought payment for carpentry, painting, and cement work he had done on the house of his late brother.

This time, the brothers had been living separately, with their own separate families. In this situation, the court decided that the claimant could reasonably have expected to be paid, even without any agreement to that effect.

The extent of the services, too, may be a factor. A sister who took over the management of her brother's home also took over the burdensome task of nursing him. He was seriously ill, and needed almost constant attention.

After his death, a judge ruled that the sister was indeed entitled to wages for her efforts. The judge said that even for a loving sister, this was an extraordinary amount of service.

Drug probe ended by loose talk

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP)—Bartholomew County Sheriff Jimmie McKinney has disclosed he hired undercover private police to investigate illegal drug traffic.

McKinney said Multi-State UNIT Inc., Columbus, Ohio, was paid $5,500 for it services. He said it sent two agents here to aid in drug investigations. UNIT stands for undercover narcotics intelligence technician.

The story surfaced Tuesday when one of the agents was called to testify in a court hearing.

McKinney said the Ohio firm had a one-month contract, but the agents had to pull out after 20 days because loose talk jeopardized their lives.

The sheriff said the $5,500 was provided by an anonymous donor who wants the drug traffic stopped. McKinney said he was releasing details because he has been accused of pocketing the money. He said it was paid by the donor directly to the Ohio firm.

He said work by the two agents resulted in arrests of 65 persons. "It was money well spent," McKinney said. "It's expensive," he added, "but this one local individual wanted to see something done to clear up illicit drug activity here and was willing to put up the money."

UNIT is headed by Dwight W. Joseph, former police chief of Columbus, Ohio. A company letter says all agents are experienced professionals drawn from police agencies in the Midwest. It was organized to offer services for understaffed police agencies and to communities without the manpower to combat illegal drugs.

WCH represented at veteran dinner

A testimonial dinner held in Alliance honored William E. Brown of Sebring, who is serving as the 1974 Ohio commander of the Veterans of World War I of America.

The Rev. Cloyce D. Copley and his wife, Cleora, of Washington C.H., attended the dinner celebration.

Mrs. Copley, who has been serving as president of the auxiliary to Barracks 2291, Fayette County Veterans of World War I, announced she will give up her post to Mrs. Nellie Kennedy of Washington C.H., due to the election of new officers held at the Knights of Phythias Hall in Delaware, Ohio, last Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Copley had served as commander of the District 7 Veterans of World War I for the 1973-74 term.

Divorce taboo in Catholic Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)— Divorce is still a forbidden word in Colombian courts, but a rising middle class is pushing for it and other changes is a typical conservative, Catholic-inspired society.

A survey by the Colombian Data Co., a sort of local Gallup, found that 62 per cent of the male population in the country's four main cities want divorce in Colombia. This percentage is basically established in the middle class.

In a traditionally conservative Colombia these findings are likely to cause displeasure. However they reflect the passing of time. Not only divorce, but virginity, the pill and politics are being re-examined by the younger generation of this country's 23 million people. The change toward a permissive society seems to be in sight.

Eighty per cent of the student population, male and female, are pro-divorce, while 48 per cent of housewives favor divorce.

RECENTLY other surveys showed that 72.1 per cent of today's Colombian women and 73.4 per cent of them have a liberal attitude regarding virginity. Birth control is encouraged by 85.6 per cent of the women and 83.7 per cent of the men.

Divorce has been a topic of Congressional discussions for years. Despite the trend favoring it, the chances are it will not be included in the country's codes in the immediate future.

A new Concordat the Holy See to replace the one signed last century is ending a Middle Ages requirement which demanded "public abjuration" to the Catholic faith before a judge prior to a civil wedding.

BOTH the influential Catholic hierarchy and the ruling two-party coalition are against divorce. Oddly enough, an important segment of the male population in the upper social class also is opposing it, though on different grounds: the lack of a divorce legislation is a country where civil marriage only exists as an exception encourages successive weddings with no need for divorce.

A civil marriage abroad is not a bar to a Catholic wedding here.

MERRY MAIDENS 4-H

The Merry Maidens 4-H Club took a tour through the House of Fabrics in Washington C.H. They were shown the different types of fabrics, and told about the washing instructions that come with all materials. After the tour, the members looked through catalogs for patterns and then left to get refreshments of ice cream cones, which everyone enjoyed.

TO LO HO RE CA

New officers were chosen at this week's meeting of the To-Lo-Ho- Re Camp Fire group. They are: Lisa Clemans; vice president, Marilyn Langley; secretary, Tonda Smith; and treasurer, Sherry Dowler.

Bulletins were given to all members who were also reminded of the annual trip to Cincinnati, the skating parties and registration money.

Members of the group were divided into two teams for a 'treasure hunt.' The first team hid the treasure and drew a map for the second team to follow and discover. The same rules applied for the second team's turn. Both teams were timed for this event.

Refreshments of pop and cookies were served to 11 members by Zina Tate and Lisa Thomas. Next week's hostesses will be Tammy Wilson and Tonya Burnett. Assisting Mrs. Ralph Tate were Mrs. Ronald Dowler and Mrs. William Pressler.

Opening lead - king of clubs.

There is some difference of opinion about what constitutes a percentage play, but often the question is more a matter of semantics than arithmetic.

Assume you're in four spades and West leads the king of clubs. You ruff and play a spade to the queen, losing to East's ace. Back comes a club, which you ruff again.

You lead a heart to the jack, return a spade on which East plays the nine, and now face a crucial decision. Do you play the ten or the king?

The so-called percentage play is the king — because mathematically East will be dealt the A-9 more often than the A-J-9.

But the proper play — considering the hand as a whole, rather than only the spade suit — is the ten. There is the very best of reasons for playing the ten, namely, that you guarantee the contract if you finesse and run the risk of going down if you don't.

Note that in the actual hand, when you finesse, the ten wins and you easily make the hand by scoring five spades, four hearts and a diamond.

But note also that if the ten loses to the jack you are equally on firm ground. In that case, your only losers would be two spades and a diamond — since you can discard three diamonds from dummy on the A-K-Q of hearts and thus restrict yourself to one diamond loser.

In the actual hand, if you play the king of spades instead of the ten, you go down against proper defense. East wins your diamond lead to the queen, cashes the jack of spades, returns the ten of diamonds, and in that way finishes you off. The so-called percentage play would fail.

Cigarettes and Ulcers

I have an ulcer of the stomach and I adhere to my diet. My wife insists that smoking cigarettes is responsible for the attacks that I get.

Once and for all, would you clear up this matter for me so that she can stop nagging me?

Mr. H.T. Mo.

Dear Mr. T.:

The newer knowledge about the relationship between cigarette smoking and ulcers of the stomach and duodenum seems to substantiate your wife's scientific insight.

Before I give you the medical facts let me add that nagging is not usually helpful to anyone who suffers with stomach ulcers. Your emotional response to nagging may, in a measure, contribute to your discomfort, for it is well recognized that emotions are intimately related to peptic ulcers.

Very recently, an excellent report was issued in the "New England Journal of Medicine." Dr. Gary D. Friedman, of Oakland, Calif., positively identified cigarette smoking as one of the causes of ulcers, and the reason why they sometimes fail to heal.

In fact, he and his colleagues pointed out that "cigarette smoking appears to reduce the efficacy of antacids in the treatment of peptic ulcers."

My suggestion: give up smoking and your wife can give up nagging.

Is it all right to take antibiotics a long time for acne? My skin seems better, but I have an itching sensation on my skin that I never had before.

Miss F.R.B., Penn.

Dear Miss B.:

Itching of the skin may be one of the evidences of sensitive reaction to long-time antibiotic treatment.

Some drugs that normally do not call forth an allergic response may produce one after a lengthy time. It is for this reason that doctors rarely, if ever, simply prescribe an antibiotic indefinitely.

Often, drugs and antibiotics are changed from time to time to avoid the possibility of side effects. Sometimes, a short interval without drugs is recommended in order to reduce the possibility of side reactions. Then the drug can be started again.

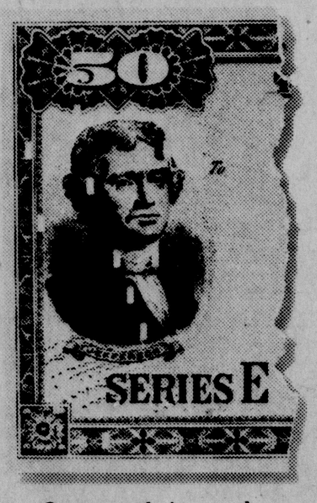
THE BETTER HALF — By Barnes

"There's nothing makes you feel quite so old as finding the stamps on your love letters have become collector's items."

Steal me. Burn me. Throw me away. I'm still yours.



Once you bring me home, I'm yours forever.

Even if I'm burned. Or lost. Or stolen.

If you look for me and can't find me, just report it. And you'll get me back, as good as new.

And remember: I'll never break your heart. Or leave you stranded in the tight spots.

I'll always be there when you need me.

And that ought to make you feel pretty secure.
